PREFACE

The following pages contain the results of my labours over the Sanskṛta and Prākrta manuscripts in the Bhadkamkar Memorial Collection (B. M. C.) and the Bhagvatsinghji Collection (Bs.) of manuscripts in the University Library of Bombay. Little did I dream, when I took up the work more than six years ago, that I should be required to put in so much labour. Nor had I at that time any idea of the vast field for research in Sanskṛta and allied literatures that this labour has now disclosed to me. Very highly indebted, do I feel to the University authorities who, by one of their resolutions, decided to entrust this work to me.

My most sincere thanks are also due to my friend, Dr. P. M. Joshi of the University Library, Bombay, but for whose kind and ungrudging help I could not have achieved the results put forth in the following pages.

To the Manager of The "Gujarati" Printing Press also I am highly obliged for all the facilities he gave me while the work was going through press. The general get up and the printing, I may say, are to his credit, though I own the responsibility for the errors that must have crept into the work.

The obligations of Pūrva Sūris like Drs. Weber, Eggeling, Winternitz, Keith, Belvalkar and Mm. Kane are too great to be described. The works of these scholars have been referred to constantly. To these and also to others who have been of great use to me in carrying out this work I can not but feel highly indebted.

The deepest debt of gratitude, however, I owe to my revered Guru Professor H. D. Velankar but for whose disinterested and paternal interest I am not sure where I should have been ! His grace is, and has been, the guiding and inspiring star to a large number of his pupils (like the present compiler) groping in the dark. To me it has shown the path all along and to it again do I look up for guidance and enlightenment in future. It is under his direct and close supervision that the present work was done. It is, therefore, needless for me to restate the principles which I have followed in compiling this Catalogue – particularly because they have been so ably enunciated by Prof. Velankar himself in his Descriptive Catalogue of the Sanskṛta and Prākṛta Manuscripts in the Library of the Bombay Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society.

I cannot close this preface without declaring that whatever merit is found in this work is all due to the personal interest and close supervision exercised by my Guru, Prof. Velankar, but the responsibility of all the defects (and they may not be few) is all mine.

INTRODUCTION

This Catalogue, as its title page indicates, includes two Collections of Manuscripts the history of which is given below.

The Bhagvatsinghji Collection of Sanskṛta Manuscripts

In May 1885 H. H. The Thakore Saheb of Gondal, then Fellow of the University of Bombay, offered to the University a sum of Rs. 6,000 for the formation of a collection of Sanskṛta Manuscripts. Out of this amount Rs. 1,000 were to be made available for forming the nucleus of the proposed collection which was to be named after the Thakoresaheb* as the "Bhagwatsinghji Collection of Sanskṛta Manuscripts". The balance was to be invested and the interest only was to be used for the purposes of the endowment.

From the date of its inception till 1936 in all 335 manuscripts were acquired for the Collection and all these have been catalogued here. An equal number of manuscripts was purchased for the Collection after 1936; these will be catalogued in due course.

Sometime in 1924 an attempt was made to prepare a catalogue of the manuscripts in this Collection and the late Fr. Zimmermann of the St. Xavier's College was entrusted with the work. He had catalogued 203 manuscripts with the help of the late Shastri Bhavanishankar Sukhthankar, but this work remained unpublished. When the question of cataloguing both the present collections came up for consideration the incomplete work of Fr. Zimmermann was handed over to Prof. G. V. Devasthali to be utilised by him as he thought fit.

* The Thakoresaheb passed away on Thursday, 9th March 1944.

INTRODUCTION

The H. M. Bhadkamkar Memorial Collection of Manuscripts

The second collection which is catalogued here is known as the "H. M. Bhadkamkar Memorial Collection of Manuscripts". It contains more than 2,000 manuscripts and naturally takes up the main share of this Catalogue. The whole of this Collection was brought together by Prof. H. D. Velankar of the Wilson College, Bombay, as a memorial to his Guru, the late Prof. H. M. Bhdkamkar, Professor of Sanskṛta at the same College, who passed away in May 1915. I give below the history of the Collection in the words of Prof. Velankar himself.

"In 1920, I undertook to prepare a Descriptive Catalogue of the Sanskṛta and Prākṛta manuscripts of the Bomby Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, Bombay; and naturally became interested in manuscripts. In 1924, I went to Junnar (Dist. Poona) during the summer vacation; there I saw that many very old manuscripts of Sanskṛta works were sold as waste paper to Kagadis, i. e. paperproducers, who destroyed them and prepared new paper from them. On seeing this, an idea to start a manuscript Library struck me and I accordingly went to several persons in the city, who had manuscripts with them, but did not require them at all. I was fortunate in persuading some of them to part with their possessions, which indeed were kept by them as a sacred legacy from their forefathers. In this manner I got a few manuscripts and started my Collection.

"The next question was how and where to keep them. I soon started a Mandala called "The Bhadkamkar Hastalikhita Sangrahaka Mandala" with the assistance of my pupils aud friends. Thus Mr. V. A. Gadgil, M. A. (now Professor of Sanskṛta, Wilson College), Mr. A. S. Gadre, M. A. (now Director of Archaeology, Baroda) and Mr. G. N. Vaidya, M. A. (Manager, Ruby Mills, Dadar, Bombay) were the first members of the Mandala. Mr. V. S. Sohoni, the Head Clerk of our College, was a great friend of the late Prof. Bhadkamkar and when I approached him with my idea, he readily paid me Rs. 25 in furtherance of the same. I was greatly delighted at this noble gift and purchased with its assistance, a second-hand cupboard for keeping my manuscripts. The Principal kindly allowed me to keep the cupboard in the College and this solved another difficulty.

"Greatly encouraged at this initial suceess, I approached Mr. M. B. Bhatavdekar, M. A., and requested him to give me his manuscripts which formerly belonged to his grandfather, Mr. Krishna Shastri Bhatvadekar. He at once agreed and my collection got an important addition.

"In December 1925, I went to Deorukh, (Dist. Ratnagiri), and got a few manuscripts on astrology from Mr. Narayanrao Sane. Again In April, 1926, I went to Savantwadi and got a good many manuscripts from Messrs. Dhopeshwarkar and Devasthali. Mr. Devasthali, now Educational Inspector in the State, is also a pupil of mine. He along with Mr. Ambekar, another pupil of mine, were very helpful in procuring these manuscripts.

"In May 1926, during the vacation, I went to Junnar for a second time. I stayed there for about a month and was able to get many manuscripts. Mr. Vaijanathapant Joshi, a local astrologer, very willingly gave me his well preserved and valuable manuscripts on Astrology. I was greatly surprised at this reasonable attitude of an orthodox pandit like Mr. Joshi. Mr. Joshi's generous gift helped me to persuade an old widow in the family of Shuklas to part with her unwanted but very valuable manuscripts on Dharmashastra.

"In October of the same year i. e. 1926, I spent my vacation at Chopda, East Khandesh. Even here I secured a few good manuscripts from the keeper of the old Datta Mandir.

"After 1926, however, I have not been able to get more manuscripts except here and there. Thus I got a few Tantric Stotras from Mr. Pitre of Bombay and a few more manuscripts from my pupil Mr. G. N. Vaidya. I also got a good many manuscripts from the son of the late Mr. M. G. Bakre Shastri, who was for many years my colleague at the Wilson College.

"I owe a deep debt of gratitude to all these gentlemen-my pupils and friends-but for whose assistance I would not have been able to do what I have done.

"I soon discovered that I was unable to nurse and develop the Mandala which I had started. Its development required money and for want of it, the Mandala soon melted away. As a matter of fact, it never extended beyond the three persons mentioned above. My serious illness in 1930 further resulted in making the work of the Mandala impossible. I have therefore decided to stop the Mandala entirely and to hand over the collection to the University of Bombay."

As indicated in the last sentence above, Prof. Velankar offered the Collection to the University in January 1934 and the Syndicate of the University accepted the offer with thanks. The question of cataloguing the Collection came up for consideration early in 1936 and at the suggestion of Prof. H. D. Velankar the work was entrusted to Prof. G. V. Devasthali. The Syndicate laid down that Prof. Devasthali was to work "under the close supervision of Prof. H. D. Velankar at every stage of the work."

The Syndicate had also stated that before Prof. Devasthali actually started work on the catalogue he was to consult Dr. V. S. Sukthankar for the purpose of fixing a uniform technique. Along with Prof. H. D. Velankar the writer was present at the meeting when Dr. Sukthankar and Prof. Devasthali discussed the technique of the catalogue and he has very great pleasure in acknowledging on behalf of the University our debt to the late savant for the keen interest he took in the projected catalogue and for his initial guidance to the learned compiler of this work.

Our debt to Prof. H. D. Velankar is manifold. The selfless zeal with which he brought together the collection as a memorial to his teacher, his generous gesture in presenting it to the University and the constant interest that he has shown in the progress of this catalogue can hardly be adequately acknowledged. On behalf of the University I have great pleasure in taking this opportunity to state publicly our debt to him.

A. PHONETICS (ŚIKṢĀ)

अवसाननिर्णय and कात्यायनीय शिक्षा

Foll. 8; size $6\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 24 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 8*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 8*b* are left blank. The MS. is not very neatly written and is only moderately correct.

The Work:–This MS. contains two works on Vedic phonetics. The Avasāna-nirṇaya containing 14 Kaṇḍikas and the Kātyāyana-śikṣā which, however, is quite different from the yājñavalkya-śikṣā with which Aufrecht has identified it in Cat. Catal., I., p. 646. For another MS. of the Avasāna-nirṇaya see Bhand., Report, 1881–82, p. 9; and for other MSS. of the Kātyāyana-śikṣā see Vel., No. 2 and Mitra, Notices, No. 1239. For the yājñavalkya-śikṣā see Nos. 10–12 below.

The Avasāna-nirṇaya begins:–

श्रीगणेशाय नमः।
अथातोवसाननिर्णयं व्याख्यास्यामः।
नमस्कृत्य तु तं देवं शङ्करस्य सुतं प्रभुम्।
यस्य प्रसादाद्देवस्य बुद्धिभेदो ह्यभून्मम॥ १॥
अवसानास्तु वक्ष्यामि यथादृष्टा यथाश्रुताः।
मतेनैव च सर्वेषां यथावस्त्वनुपूर्वशः॥ २॥

The Avasāna-nirṇaya ends:–

fol. 4*b* (Kaṇḍikās 14)

The Kātyāyana-śikṣā begins:–

तृतीयकः बाहुभ्याम्।
स्वं वर्गं च परे चैव पञ्चमात् परतः स्थिते।
सवर्णं च यमे चैव सवर्णं च तथावलि॥

The Kātyāyana-śikṣā ends:–

Foll. 10; size 6¾ in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; neat and careful Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 21 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 10*b* is left blank. Foll. 3*b* and 4*a* are blackened with ink. The name of the scribe is Harabhaṭa Lulyāna (or Lule).

The Work:-This is a manual of phonetics in connection with the Mādhyandinīya Śākhā of the White Yajur-Veda composed by Keśava Daivajña (of Nandigrāma?). For further information and detailed quotations see Vel, No. 3. This work is, however, quite different from the Sarva-sammata-śikṣā of Keśavārya noticed at I. O., No. 4956-4959. For a commentary on this latter by Ālamūri Mañci Bhaṭṭa see I. O., No. 4960-4962.

It begins:-

अथातो (r. तः) कशवीं शिक्षां व्याख्यास्यामः।
नत्वा गणपतिं वदपरिभाषाङ्गसूत्रकम् ॥
उच्यते केशवेनेदं वेदाध्यायी सुखाप्तये ॥ १ ॥

पाणिनीयशिक्षा

Foll. 5; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material very rough bluish paper; fair Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 5*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 5*b* is blank. This MS. once belonged to Yajñeśvara Dīkṣita Sānye. It is much worn out and foll. 1 and 5 are much broken. It was copied in Śaka 1730.

The Work:-The Pāṇinīya Śikṣā containing 60 couplets divided into 11 Kāṇḍas. In stanza 60 we are told that this Śikṣā was preached by god Śiva. For another MS. and further information see Vel., No. 6; and I. O., Nos. 541 and 4935. Also see No. 9 below for Dharaṇidharas commentary on this work.

It begins:-

अथ शिक्षां प्रवक्ष्यामि पाणिनीयं मतं तथा।
शास्त्रानुपूर्वं तद्विद्याद्यथोक्तं लोकवेदयोः ॥ १ ॥

It ends:-

पाणिनीयशिक्षा

Foll. 5; size 8 in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*b*; fol. 5*a* has the colophon. Foll. 1*a* and 5*b* have the title. Fol. 1*a* has a piece of paper pasted on to it. All folios are dilapidated. The MS. is copied almost accurately by Rāmachandra Māṭe in Śaka 1746.

The Work:-The Pāṇinīya Śiksa, another copy, cf. No. 4 above.

The scribe's colophon:-

शके १७४६ तारण नाम संवत्सरे कार्तिक शुद्ध १२ दशी इदं पुस्तकं माटे इत्युपनामक रामचन्द्रेण लिखितम्। वास्तव्य क्षेत्र वाई गङ्गापूर श्रीकृष्णासंनिध ॥

पाणिनीयशिक्षा and ज्योतिष

Foll. 7; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse thin paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; nine lines in a page and thirty-five letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank while fol. 7*b* has the title. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately copied by Lakṣmaṇa Rāmachandra Jāyade in Śaka 1717. All foll. are slightly worn out and some of them are also discoloured.

The Work:-Together with the Pāṇinīya Śikṣā (see Nos. 4-5 above) this MS. contains also the Jyautiṣa in the Ṛk-recension in 40 couplets divided into seven Kāṇḍas, ascribed to Lagadha. For another MS. cf. Vel., No. 8, where the Jyautiṣa has only 35 couplets. It is published with a German translation by A. Weber. For further information and references see I. O., No. 4972.

The Jyautiṣa begins:-

पञ्चसंवत्सरमयं युगाध्यक्षं प्रजापतिम्।
दिनर्त्वयनमासाङ्गं प्रणम्य शिरसा शुचिः ॥
प्रणम्य शिरसा कालमभिवाद्य सरस्वतीम्।

पाणिनीय शिक्षा, ज्यौतिष and छन्दस्

Foll. 12; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*b*. Fol. 1*a* is left blank. Margins are drawn in red ink on foll. 1-7. The MS. is very neatly and almost accurately written. Colophons are marked red. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and also broken along the edges.

The Work:-The Pāṇinīya Śikṣā, the Jyautiṣa and the Chandas. See No. 6 above.

B. M. C. *102. 3.]

(शिक्षा, ज्यौतिष, छन्दस् and निघण्टु)

Foll. 35; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 35*b*. It was copied neatly and almost accurately by Bālakṛṣṇa Muṇḍale in Śaka 1770 and was, after five years, sold to Janārdana Phaṇaśīkara. It is much dilapidated and much damage is done to the text on the first seven folios.

The Work:-The Śikṣā-catuṣṭaya consisting of the Pāṇinīya Śikṣā, the Jyautiṣa, the Chandas and the Nighaṇṭu ending on fol. 5*a*, fol. 17b and fol. 35*b* respectively. See Vel., No. 9.

The scribe's colophon:-

पाणिनीय शिक्षा
with भाष्य by धरणीधर

Foll. 12; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1*b* and ends on fol 12*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 12*b* have the title It is very accurately written by Nārāyaṇa Upādhye and once belonged to some Bākre. The left margin on each folio has the title शिक्षाभा०; while in the right we find the word नारायण. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work:-The Pāninīya Siksā together with a commentary thereon called the Śikṣāpañjikā. The commentary was composed by Dharaṇīdhara, a disciple of Mahādeva in Saṃvat 1454 (c 1397 A D.) in the reign of Udayasiṃha. For other MSS. giving the date of composition and some information about the commentator cf. I. O., No 514; and Vel., No. 10. Also see I O., No. 4940.

याज्ञवल्क्य शिक्षा

Foll. 20; size 6¼ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow thin paper; bad and inaccurate Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 20 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 20*a*. Fol. 20*b* is left blank. The name of the scribe is Harabhaṭṭa Lule who is a very careless and clumsy writer. Figures are marked red.

The Work:-A work on phonetics, belonging to the White Yajurveda, in 195 stanzas ascribed to Yājñavalkya. For further information and references see Vel., No. 12.

Foll. 16; size 8½ in.; by 4 in.; material thin coarse paper; bad and inaccurate Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 30 letters in aline.

The MS. is defective in the beginning and folio 1 is missing. It ends on fol. 17*b*. All folios are slightly discoloured and the last folio is also slightly worm-eaten. The MS. was copied in Śaka 1657.

The Work.-The Yājñavalkya Śikṣā, another copy, cf. No. 10 above. Stanzas 1-7 are missing with the first folio and our MS. begins only in the Middle of st. 8.

Colophon.—

याज्ञवल्क्य शिक्षा

Foll. 21; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; bad and incorrect Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 21*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 21*b* have the title. It is very incorrectly copied and yellow pigment in very often used for correcting the slips. Foll. 1 and 21 are slightly broken and discoloured.

The Work:-The Yājñavalkyaśiksā, another copy, cf. Nos. 10-11 above. Our MS. has the same beginning as the MS. noticed at Vel, No. 12; but it ends differently. After the 73rd stanza on fol. 9a we have the following colophon.

'इत्यष्टपद्समाम्नाये वैशेषिके याज्ञवल्क्यवचनानां पदानां पाठः समाप्तः' ॥

स्वराङ्कुश of जयन्तस्वामिन्

with टीका by नीलकण्ठ

Foll. 11; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*b*. The flyleaf at the end is blank on either side. The MS. is copied Śaka 1717 neatly but not quite accurately. Some reader has corrected the MS. in pencil and also in ink.

The Work:-Svarāṅkuśa (or Vaktra-Svarāṅkuśa) also called Svaranirṇaya is a manual of Vedic phonetics in 22 couplets composed by Jayanta-svāmin whom Aufrecht appears to identify with the commentator of Āśvalāyana Gṛhyasūtra (cf. Cat. Catal., I, p. 200). This latter is quoted by Harihara, Divākara, and Nīlakaṇṭha. He is the son of Kānta, grand son of Kalyāṇasvāmin and father of Abhinanda. He probably lived towards the end of the eighth century A. D. (See, Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 698*b*). Our work is also noticed by Burnell (cf. Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 3*b*), who however, remarks that it "probably is of the 17th century A. D." and this seems to be nearer the truth.

Besides the text our MS. contains also a commentary thereon which appears to have been composed by Nilakaṇṭha in Śaka 1671 (c. 1749 A. D.); cf. the last stanza of the commentary quoted below.

The comm. begins:—

स्वराङ्कुश of जयन्तस्वामिन्

with टीका by नीलकण्ठ

Foll. 9; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 9*b* have the title. It is neatly and almost accurately written by Nīlakaṇṭha in Śaka 1700. Corrections have been made in pencil by some reader.

The Work:—The Svarāṅkuśa, with Nīlakaṇṭha's commentary, another copy, cf. No. 14 above; this copy contains 23 stanzas instead of 22. The additional stanza is as follows:—

संक्षेपसार of शङ्कराचार्य

with व्याख्या by विनायक

Foll. 14; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; about 8 lines in a page and 27 etters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*b*. It is nealty written and is almost accurate. The text and the commentary are intermingled. Figures are marked red and foll. 13 and 14 are slightly broken.

The Work:—The Saṃkṣepa-sāra appears to be a treatise on the Vedic phonetics ascribed to Śaṅkarācārya. It is commented upon by Vināyaka, son of Janārdana Krama-vid. Our MS. contains both the text and the commentary. The text contains 73 stanzas.. The commentator identifies the author of the text with the great Śaṅkarācārya and makes him a fellow-student of Yāska, Pāṇini, and Śaunaka, which is obviously untenable.

निरुक्त of यास्क

Foll. 169; size 8 in. by $3\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and about 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a*. A fly-leaf in the beginning has the title Pūrva-ṣaṭka. The folios of each Adhyāya are separately numbered. The Pūrva-ṣaṭka has 87 folios with a fly-leaf at the end having the title on the reverse side. In the Uttarasaṭka foll. 3-17 of the first Adhyāya are missing. The last follio is numbered 95. Foll. 1*a* and 95*b* have the title. The first was copied in Śaka 1711 and the second in Śaka 1712 by Bājī Gaṅgādhara Paracure. Fol. 1 of the 13th Adhyāya is written on thin glazed paper and appears to be substituted for the original one which was probably lost.

The Work:-The Nirukta is a commentary on the Nighaṇṭu (cf. Nos. 17-18 above) by Yāska comprising 14 Adhyāyas divided into two Ṣaṭkas, containing six and eight Adhyāyas respectively. It is critically edited by Dr. L. Sarup, Oxford. For other MSS. See Vel., Nos. 17-19. For other editions and references see. I. O., No. 4970.

Colophon at the end of the Pūrva-ṣaṭka:—

महाभाष्य (अ॰ I–III only) of पतञ्जलि with प्रदीप by कैयट

Foll. 410; size 12 in. by 6¾ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. is much worm eaten and the text is also slightly damaged. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. The MS. is neatly written, but is not yet quite free from inaccuracies. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The first Adhyāya has 137 folios; the second has 137 and the third, 136. The colophon at the end of the second Adhyāya bears the date Samvat 1848.

The Work —The Vyākaraṇa Mahābhāṣya of Patañjali, together with the Pradīpa, a commentary thereon by Kaiyaṭa, son of Jaiyaṭa, upto the end of the third Adhyāya only. For Detailed references about Patañjali and Kaiyaṭa see vol, No. 47. Also see next number. For discussion regarding date etc. and further references see I. O, No. 4979.

Colophon at the end of the Adhyāya III·—

महाभाष्यप्रदीप of कैयट

Foll. 197; size 12 in. by 5½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 to 15 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 197*a*. The folios are numbered continuously in the right margin and by sections in the left margin. It is neatly and accurately written. Margins are drawn in double line with black ink. The text is represented by Pratīkas only and nothing is done to distinguish them from the commentary.

The Work:-This MS. contains only the Pradīpa of Kaiyaṭa, surnamed Upādhyāya and a disciple of Maheśvara. In composing the commentary he has followed the authority of Hari i. e. Bhartṛhari. Kaiyaṭa is also said to be a disciple and younger brother of Mammaṭa, a great grammarian and rhetorician who lived about 1100 A. D. The earliest reference to Kaiyaṭa is to be found in the Sarvadarśanasaṃgraha (about 1300 A. D.) Kaiyaṭa must, therefore, have flourished somewhere between 1100 A. D and 1300 A. D. cf. Bel., Systems, pp. 40 ff. and 45. For other references see I O., No. 4980.

It begins:—

शब्दकौस्तुभ of भट्टोजी

Foll. 229; size 11 in. by 4 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. is rather old and many foll. are slightly torn or broken. It is not very carefully written and has become illegible in many places where ink has faded away. The folios are numbered by sections, each section having 24, 28, 30, 34, 81 and 33 folios respectively.

The Work:—This MS. contains Āhnikas I, III–VII, and fragments of the 8th and the 9th Āhnikas, of the first Pāda of the first Adhyāya of the Śabdakaustubha which is a big commentary on Pāṇini's Aṣṭādhāyī composed by Bhaṭṭoji Dīkṣita, the author of the Siddhāntakaumudī. The work, it is believed, was left unfinished by the author; but MS. No. 1328 in Govt. Or MSS. library Madras, runs upto the fifth Āhnika of the third Adhyāya. For anothor MS. see Vel., No. 37; and for the history of the author etc. see Bel., Systems, p. 47; and Cat. Catal., I, p. 395b. See also I. O., No. 607. सिद्धान्तकौमुदी-तत्त्वबोधिनी of ज्ञानेन्द्रसरस्वती

(Fragmentary)

Foll. 617; size 11 in by 5 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 or 12 lines in a page and 45 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of four different parts. The first part contained originally 276 folios; but at present foll. 1-6, 13 and 14 are missing and No. 54 is given to two folios. The second part has 113 folios; but Nos. 15 and 84 are omitted and thus the last folio is numberd 115. There is no break in this part. The third part also is complete in 146 (129+17) folios. The last part is defective in the beginning as fol. 1 is missing. Its folios are numbered 2-91. Thus it has in all 617 folios. The MS. is neatly and correctly written and the date of writing as given at the end of the third part is Saṃvat 1831.

The Work:-The Tattva-bodhinī, Samāsārthavidhayah, defective; Taddhita-prakriyā; Tiṅantaprakriyā and Kṛdanta defective at both ends. See Nos. 52-54 above.

The colophon at the end of the Tiṅanta-kāṇḍa:—

सिद्धान्तकौमुदी—तत्त्वबोधिनी of ज्ञानेन्द्रसरस्वती

(Fragmentary)

Foll. 282; size 10¾ in. by 4½ in.; material coarse thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning: foll. 1-39 being missing. It breaks off on fol. 322*b*. It is neatly written, but not very carefully. Foll. 185-210 are written by a different hand. The text is represented by Pratikas only. Fol. 40 is blank and foll. 40-42 are slightly eaten by worms. The MS. is also much worn out on the whole.

The Work:—The Tattva-bodhinī, defective at both ends. See Nos. 52-54 above.

प्रौढमनोरमा of भट्टोजी (Fragmentary)

Foll. 152; size 10½ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 91 lines in a page and 35 to 40 letters in a line.

The MS. is in two parts having separate pagination. Part one which is fragmentary has thirty-five folios of which the last five are left unnumbered, and the remaining are numbered 106-126 and 196-204. Part two, also fragmentary, has 117 folios numbered 1-90 and 95-121. Both the parts are badly written, though by two different scribes. The first twenty folios of the first part are much damaged with damp and the text on them is much impaired.

The Work:—The Praudhamanoramā is a gloss or a supplementary commentary by Bhaṭṭojī himself on his own Siddhāntakaumudī. Our MS. is only fragmentary in both the parts. For other MSS. cf. I O, Nos. 643, 644-650.

The Pūrvārdha begins in the middle of अव्ययानि. इति अव्ययानि fol. 109*a*; इति स्त्रीप्रत्यया: fol. 120*b*; breaks off in the middle of the कारकप्रकरण on fol. 126*b*; the last portion of the समासाश्रयविधि (which ends on fol. 196*b*); इति अपत्याधिकार: fol. 204*b*; breaks in the middle of चातुरर्थिका: ।

The Uttarārdha breaks in the middle of कर्तृकर्मप्रक्रिया. Our MS. is also defective towards the end of the यङ्लुङन्तप्रक्रिया and at the beginning of the नामधातुप्रक्रिया on account of the gap caused by the missing folios 91-94.

शब्दरत्न of हरिहरदीक्षित

Foll. 14; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 60 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on folio 13*a*. Foll. 13*b* and the whole of fol. 14 are left blank. The MS. is almost accurately written. The text is represented by Pratīkas which are marked red on foll. 1-3 only. All folios are slightly worm-eaten as well as discoloured. We find the title, Śabdaratna, in the right margin of each folio, but on the 11th folio the title is ल० (i. e. Laghu)-Śabdaratna.

The Work:—The Śabdaratna is a commentary on Bhaṭṭoji's Praudhamanoramā composed by Hari Dīkṣita (see below No. 59). Dr. Belvalkar, however, thinks that it was composed by Nāgeśa who ascribed it to his preceptor, Harihara. An abridgement of this work by the same author is known as the Laghuśabdaratna. Our MS. is only fragmentary and contains only a small portion of the Śabdaratna. For a complete MS. of this work cf. I O., No. 651; and for the abridgement see next number.

It begins:—

(लघु) शब्दरत्न of हरिहरदीक्षित

Foll. 274; size 12 in. by 4½ in.; material thick rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page; and 52 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on 1*b* and ends on fol. 272*b*. The first part ends on fol. 189*b* and foll. 190*a*, b and 191*a* are left blank. The second part begins on fol. 191*b*. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately written in Śaka 1686 by Raghunātha Devasthalī and appears to be brand new. Pratīkas from the Manoramā are marked red.

The Work.—The Laghuśabdaratna which is a commentary on Bhattoji's Prauḍhamanoramā ascribed to Harihara Dīksita, son of Vīreśvara and grandson of Bhaṭṭoji, and preceptor of Nāgojī. Harihar is described as a disciple of Rāmāśrama at I. O., Nos. 651–652. But Ramāsrama is the name assumed by Vīreśwara himself after his initiation. This Vīreśvara is also known as Bhānujī or Bhānu Dīksita. For a genealogical tree of the Dīksita family see Bel., Systems, p. 48. The Śabdaratna as well as the abridgment thereof were composed by Nāgeśa but ascribed by him, honoris causa, to his preceptor, Harihara according to Bel., Systems, p. 47. But Harihar seems to ascribe it to himself. See quotations in Nos. 59–60 below.

Foll. 89; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 45 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. has 89 folios, of which the last six are separately numbered from 1-6. The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 89*b*. It is almost accurately written in Saṃvat 1847 by Raghunātha Kaśeḷakara. The original Sūtras are marked red. Yellow pigment is occassionally used for correcting the slips. All folios are slightly broken or worm-eaten along the edges.

The Work:—The Madhyasiddhāntakaumudī is an abridgement of Bhaṭṭoji's Siddhāntakaumudī by Varadarāja (son of Durgātanaya) who has given out two still shorter abridgements of this very work. They are the Laghu and the Sāra Siddhāntakaumudīs. Varadarāja can't be later than the close of the 17th century at the latest in view of the fact that his work is commented upon by Jayakr̥ṣṇa Maunin who is said to have lived in beginning of the 18th century A. D. Can our author then be a pupil of Bhaṭṭojī Dikṣita, as suggested by his introductory stanza? Our MS. contains only the first part of this work ending with Tiṅanta. For analysis cf. Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 367. For a MS. of the Sārasidhāntkaumudī see Kiel., C. P. Cat., No. 88; and for the Laghukaumudi see Kiel., C. P. Cat., No. 86.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a*. Fol. 18*a* has the scribe's colophon and fol. 18*b* is blank. Then the folios are again numbered from 1 to 18 after which again commences a fresh numbering of the folios which runs upto thirtytwo. The MS. ends on fol. 32*b*. Foll. 22-32 are slightly worm-eaten and the text is slightly damaged. The MS. is almost accurately and neatly written in Saṃvat 1847 by Raghunātha Kaśeḷakara. See No. 66 above.

with व्याख्यान by पुण्यराज

Foll. 76; size 9½ in. by 4½ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, small Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 72 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 76*a* Fol. 1*a* has the title while fol. 76*b* is left blank. The text and the commentary are intermingled. Fol. 61 is made up of two folios written on one side only. All folios are worm-eaten and the text is also slightly damaged. Many folios have pieces of thin transparent paper pasted on to them.

The Work.-The Vākyapadīya of Bhartṛhari is a metrical treatise on the philosophy of grammar divided into three Kāṇḍas. Of these our MS. contains only the second Kāṇḍa dealing with 'sentence'. Our MS. also contains the Vyākhyāna i. e. a commentary thereon by Puṇyarāja; cf. Vel., No. 52, for another MS. and further references. In the colophon the commentary is ascribed wrongly to Helārāja who has written a commentary only on the 3rd Kāṇḍa of the वाक्यपदीय. Also see I. O. No. 706.

वाक्यपदीय of भर्तृहरि

Foll. 30; size $10\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgari character; 10 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective at both ends. Foll. 1–4 are missing and the MS. breaks off on fol. 34*b*. Two folios are given the number 23. All foll. are worm-eaten; but the text on foll. 5 and 6 only is damaged. Fol. 6*a* is blank. The text and the commentary are intermingled. But the stanzas forming the text are marked red.

The Work:–The Harikārikā is said to be only another name of the Vākyapadīya of Bhartṛhari (See last number). Our MS. contains st. 5–40 only of the section dealing with words and their powers (Śabdakāṇḍa) together with the commentary on the same by one who professes to be a pupil of the author of the Nyāyarahasya.

The text begins:—

शब्दान्तरमपेक्ष्यैव सार्थकः स्वार्थबोधतः।
प्रकृतिः प्रत्ययश्चैव निपातश्चैव स त्रिधा॥ ५॥

On fol. 24 we have:—

पूर्वमध्यान्तसर्वान्यपदप्राधान्यतः पुन.।
प्राच्यैः पञ्चविधः प्रोक्तः समासो वाक्यादिभिः ॥ ३१ ॥

स्वार्थे यदर्थे स्वयद्वा(?) सोऽव्ययीभाव उच्यते ॥ ४० ॥

Authorities referred to or quoted by the commentator:—

सारस्वतीप्रक्रिया of अनुभूतिस्वरूपाचार्य

Foll. 19; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in; material thick rough yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 20 to 22 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol 19*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 19*b* have the title. The MS. is very badly written by Śrīdhara Śukla in Śaka 1738 and is far from being accurate.

The Work:-The Sārasvatī-prakriyā is a grammatical work based on the Sārasvata-sūtras which are said to have been composed by some ancient Ācārya. It is composed by Anubhūtisvarūpācārya, the founder of the Sārasvata school, who must have flourished between 1250 A. D. and 1450 A. D. Our MS contains only the Sandhiprakaraṇa from this work. Also cf. Vel., No. 54; and Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 382.

It begins:—

प्रणम्य परमात्मानं बालधीवृद्धये मया।
सारस्वतीमृजुं कुर्वे प्रक्रियां नातिविस्तराम् ॥ १ ॥

It ends:—

सारस्वतीप्रक्रिया of अनुभूतिस्वरूपाचार्य

Foll. 84; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thick rough yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 20 to 22 letters in a line.

The MS. is in two parts. Part I has 76 folios with two fly-leaves at both ends. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title; and that at the end has a picture on the outer side. The second part has only eight folios and the MS. breaks off on fol. 8*b*. Both these parts are badly written by Śrīdhara Śukla in Śaka 1739, and are far from being accurate.

The Work:-The Sārasvatī prakriyā (i) from the beginning of the Kāraka prakriyā to the end of the Taddhita prakriyā; and (ii) a portion from the Ākhyāta section.

Colophon at the end of Part I:—

सिद्धान्तचन्द्रिका of रामाश्रम

Foll. 318; size 11 in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, bold Devanāgarī character; 6 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of three different parts separately paginated, having 138, 127 and 53 folios respectively. The colophons are marked red. All foll. are more or less eaten by worms but little damage is done to the text.

The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1905. Sometimes some explanations are added in the margins.

The Work:-The Siddhāntacandrikā is a commentary on the Sārasvatasūtras (which are also given) compossed by Rāmacandrāśrama. Our MS. contains the whole of the commentary divided into three different parts. The first part contains the Pūrvārdha comprising the Taddhita section The second contains the Ākhyāta section from the Uttarārdha and the third contains the Krdanta section. For another complete MS. see I. O., No. 807. It has been published at Benares with Sadānanda's commentary, Subodhinī. Tattvadīpikā, another commentary on the work under notice, was composed by Lokeśvara in 1683 A. D. cf. Bel., Systems, p. 102.

नमस्कृत्य महेशानं मतं बुद्धा पतञ्जलेः ।
वाणीप्रणीतसूत्राणां कुर्वे सिद्धान्तचन्द्रिकाम् ॥

शब्दानुशासन-वृत्ति of हेमचन्द्र

Foll. 83; size 10½ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 22 lines in a page and 78 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1*a* and ends on fol. 83*b*. It is neatly written and is almost accurate. Blank space is left in the centre of each folio on either side. Colophons are marked red: so are the figures. The text is represented by Pratīkas only. Foll. 13, 15, 22, 23 41-45, 49, 60, 63-70, 73 and 78 are missing.

The Work:-The Śabdānuśāsana is a book on grammar composed by Hemacandra for the benefit of his illustrious patron. On this work he himself wrote a big commentary called the Śabdānuśāsana-brhadvrtti. Śabdānuśāsanavrtti is the author's own abridgement of his Brhadvrtti and is also named Laghuvṛttiśabdānuśāsana-rahasya. Our MS. contains only the first five Adhyāyas of this abridged version and of these again only the first Adhyāya is complete. For another MS. cf. I. O., No. 811. Also cf. Bel., Systems, pp. 73-81.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 165*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. All folios are much worm-eaten and damaged. The text is also slightly damaged on foll. 1-28. Some space is left blank in the centre of each folio on either side. The colophons are marked red. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies.

The Work:—The Kriyāratnasamuccaya is a grammatical work treating of verbs after the Dhātupāṭha of Hemacandra. It was composed in Saṃvat 1467 (c 1411 A. D.) by Guṇaratnasūri, a pupil of Devasundarasūri of the Tapā Gaccha. This Guṇaratna attained the exalted position of a Sūri at Anahilapaṭṭana in Saṃvat 1420. For our author's Tarkara-

कविकल्पद्रुम of वोपदेव and एकाक्षरीनाममाला

Foll. 11; size $10\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin glazed yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 11*b*. It is very illegibly written and is also far from being accurate. Stop-lines and figures are written in red ink.

The Work:-The Kavikalpadruma also called the Dhātu-pāṭha is a metrical treatise on roots arranged alphabetically according to their final letters. It is composed by Vopadeva, son of Keśava (a physician) and pupil of Dhaneśa. He was a court-paṇḍita of King Rāmarāja of Devagiri (latter part of the 13th century) and a contemporary of Hemādri and Madhusūdana-sarasvatī. His famous works are the Mugdhabodha (Gr.), the Śataślokī (Med.), the Bhāgavatamuktāphala (Bhakti), the Āśauca-saṃgraha (Dharma), and the Harilīlāviveka. For other MSS. see I. O., No. 875 and Vel., No. 78.

Besides this work our Ms. contains also the Ekākṣarīnāmamālā for which See No. 96 below.

I the Kavikalpadruma begins:—

The MS. is copied in Saṃvat 1644 by Vāsudeva Nārāyaṇadāsa and is not quite free from inaccuracies. The colophons and stop-lines are in red ink. All folios are slightly broken or worm-eaten. Yellow pigment is also often used for correcting the slips.

The Work:—Vopadeva's Kavikalpadruma, another copy, cf. No. 80 above.

with टीका by हर्षकुल

Foll. 13; size 9½ in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 to 17 lines in a page and 40 to 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 13*a*. Fol 13*b* is blank but for the title in the left margin, as it is found on all folios. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. All folios are much worm-eaten and also discoloured. Some corrections have been made by the scribe himself in the margin. The MS. is only moderately accurate.

The Work:—The Vākyaprakāśa is a metrical manual of grammar in 125 stanzas divided into seven parts composed in Saṃvat 1507 (c. 1451 A. D.) by Udayadharma, pupil of Ratnasiṃha of the Tapā Gaccha. It has been commented upon by Harṣakula (or Harṣakulāgraṇī) pupil of Hemavimalasūri of the Tapā Gaccha. Harṣakula wrote his Dīpikā, a commentary on Sūtrakṛtāṅgasūtra in Saṃvat 1583 (c. 1527 A. D.) cf. Vel., Nos. 1550-1552. Our MS. contains both the text as well as the commentary, but we get no information about our commentator from our MS., not even his name. For another MS. see Peters., Rep. 1892-95, No. 230.

प्राकृतप्रकाश of वररुचि with मनोरमा by भामह

Foll. 54; size 12¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 54*b*. It is neatly and almost accurately written; but corrections have been made in some places by the scribe himself as well as by some reader.

The Work:-The Prākṛta-prakāśa also called Prākṛta-lakṣaṇa or Prākṛta-kaumudī is a grammar of the Prākrta dialects in twelve chapters (Paricchedas) composed by Vararuci and commented upon by Bhāmaha. The name of the commentary is Manoramā. Our MS. contains both the text as well as the commentary complete in twelve chapters. The work has been edited by Prof. E. B. Cowell. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 939-40. Also see I. O., No. 941 for the Prākṛtasañjīvinī, Vasantarāja's commentary on the Prākṛta-prakāśa.

प्राकृतप्रकाश of वररुचि with मनोरमा by भामह

Foll. 87; size 12½ in. by 7½ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair Devanāgarī character; about 15 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. is in book form. Pages are numbered on both sides as in printed books. There are eighty-seven pages in all. The first flyleaf in the beginning has the entry 'Vararuci's Grammar as prepared by H. Watten, Esqr. and Vishṇuśāstrī Bāpat. The second fly-leaf reads:

"अथ महर्षिवररुचिविरचितं प्राकृतादिभाषाचतुष्टयस्य व्याकरणं भामहाचार्यकृतवृत्तिसाक्षिं विद्वज्जनमनोविनोदार्थं प्रकाशीक्रियते."

The MS. is a press copy. It contains many corrections made in pencil. Pages 41-46 are worm-eaten but the text is only slightly damaged. The commentary follows the Sūtras. They are, however, written one after another. The MS. is cloth bound, but the 1st page is eaten by worms.

with वृत्ति by दुर्गसिंह

Foll. 2-63; size 7 in. by 3¼ in.; material coarse yellowish dark paper; bad, Devanāgrī character; 9 to 11 lines in a page; and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning and fol. 1 is missing. It breaks on fol. 63*a* and fol. 63*b* is left blank. The MS. is much worm-eaten and also torn and has become illegible in some places. The scribe-whoever he was-was a careless, clumsy writer and the MS. is far from being accurate.

The Work:-The Uṇādi-sūtras are a set of aphorisms on Uṇādi suffixes. Our MS. contains only a portion of these together with the Vrtti which is a commentary on the same by Durgasimha, who lived probably in the 8th century. See Bel., Systems, p. 88. For a discussion about the authorship of this work read Festchrift, Kane, pp. 395-404.

It begins.—

The Pādas end as follows:—

कारकचक्र of वररुचि

with उदाहरण (स्वोपज्ञ)

Foll. 24; size 11 in. by 4¾ in.; materia thick rough yellowish paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 24*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is very incorrect and all folios are worm-eaten on the lower side. Foll. 1-11 are also much eaten by worms causing damage to the text. It was copied in Samvat 1901. The text ends on fol. 3*a* and is followed by the commentary.

The Work:-The Kārakacakra is a small metrical manual on the use of cases in twenty five ślokas ascribed to Vararuci. Udāharaṇa is a commentary thereon attributed to Kātyayana (=Vararuci himself). For another MS. cf. Stein, p. 40. A work of the same name noticed at I. O., No. 726 is quite different from this one. This work is noticed at I. O., Nos. 5111-12 under the title Prayoga-viveka-samgraha which we are told, is the correct designation of this work. But this does not seem to be borne out by our MSS. See the same for references concerning the authorship of the commentary.

Foll. 30; size 11 in. by 4½ in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 30*b*. It is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1689 by Harirāyamiśra. The left margin on each folio has the title धातुमं० or धातुमंजरी. All folios are more or less wormeaten; but no damage is done to the text. Yellow pigment is occasionally used for correcting the slips.

The Work:—The Dhātumañjarī is a manual on the use of roots of all conjugations in their different tenses, moods and voices. It is composed by Kāśīnātha who must have lived earlier than 1633 A. D. which is the date of our MS.

It begins:—

Foll. 4; size 11½ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 or 13 lines in a page and 40 to 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*a*. The text occupies the middle of each folio and has the commentary both above and below it. The MS. is almost accurate. All folios are slightly eaten by worms but no damage is done to the text. All folios ars marked न० के० का० in the left top corner.

The Work:—The Nandikeśvarakārikā (or kāśikā as it is otherwise called, see Hall, Index, p. 137) is a small poem in 17 ślokas composed by one Nandikeśvara, who in this poem explains the Śivasūtra (i. e. the alphabets as given in the beginning of Pāṇini's grammar) as initiating the dogmas of the Vedantic belief. Our MS. contains this poem together with Tattva-vimarśinī, a commentary thereon composed by Upamanyu. The work is quoted in Nāgeśa's Śabdenduśekhara. For another MS. of the Kārikā comprising 27 ślokas see Vel., No. 81; Also cf. I. O. No. 4978A.

Foll. 41; size 11½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 12 lines in a page and 60 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 41*a* Foll. 1*a* and 41*b* are blank. The MS. is very neatly and accurately written. The Pratīkas representing the text are marked red Foll. 1, 2, and 41 are slightly torn.

The Work:-The Paribhāsenduśekhara is a commentary on the Paribhāsās or technicalities of Sanskrit grammar. It is composed by Nāgojībhaṭṭa, son of Śivabhaṭṭa and Satī. For his Laghuśabdenduśekhara see Nos. 62 to 64 above. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 677–78.

Foll. 34; size 10 in. by 6 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 or 11 lines in a page and 22 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 38*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. All folios are slightly broken and discoloured with damp, but the text is nowhere damaged. Foll. 11-24 have pieces of paper pasted on to them. Foll. 7-10 are missing. The MS. is dated Saṃvat 1855.

The Work —The Bodhapaddhati is an elementary treatise on Sk. grammar composed in Saṁvat 1786 (c. 1730 A. D.) by Dharaṇidhara, son of Śrīmat Jvālānanda of Tīkṣṇa Jñāti. Our MS. is defective in the middle.

with टीका (Anon)

Foll. 36; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*b*. Folio 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in red ink. Folio 2 is missing;

The MS. is almost accurately copied in Samvat 1913 by Śrībhavānanda. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The text is marked red upto the fifteenth śloka which appears to be the last one.

The Work.—The Saṭkārakavyavahāra is a small manual on the functions of cases comprising fifteen Ślokas. In our MS. the text is accompanied by a commentary. Both the text and the commentary are anonymous. This is quite different from the Saṭkāraka-vivecana noticed at I. O., No. 726. For other MSS. of our work with this commentary see I. O., Nos. 785, 786 and 787 where the work is ascribed to Vallabhānada, Vahasanandin, and Maheśanandin respectively. In any case the author of the stanza 1 below is a Buddhist writer; and in all probability the stanza belongs to the commentator.

भग्नं मारबलं येन निर्जितं भवपञ्जरम्।
निर्वाणपदमारूढं तं बुद्धं प्रणमाम्यहम्॥ १॥
षट् कारकाणि संबन्ध उक्तानुक्ततया द्विधा।

It ends:—

इहायं कर्ता बाल्व्युत्पत्तिसिद्ध्ये संबन्धमभिदधानः प्रस्तुवन्नाह।

(This is the अवतरण for stanza 2 which shows that stanza 1 belongs probably to the commentary, so that the text proper will have only 14 stanzas).

The comm. ends:—

Foll. 14; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios. The MS. is not very neatly written and is far from being accurate. All folios are worm eaten in the left lower corner, and the text is also slightly damaged. The scribe Kāśīnāthabhatta—is a clumsy writer and is required to use yellow pigment in many places.

The Work.—The Anekārthadhvanimañjarī is a vocabulary in 184 stanzas divided into three parts called Adhikāras. The Ekākṣaranighaṇṭa is another metrical glossary in 30 Ślokas giving the various senses in which the different letters of the Devanāgarī alphabet are used. Our MS. contains both these vocabularies, but the names of the authors are not metioned. The Anekārthadhvanimañjarī is variously ascribed to Mahākṣapaṇaka, Durgasiṃha and Gadasiṃha (cf. Vel., No. 90 for the authorship and editions of this work). The Ekākṣaranighaṇṭa is attributed to Purusottamadeva at I. O., No. 1042. For a MS. wholly agreeing with ours cf. I. O., No. 5165 where are also to be found further references. For other recensions see I. O., Nos. 5166–67. Also see Nos. 98–100 below.

I The Anekārtha. begins:—

अनेकार्थध्वनिमञ्जरी

Foll. 14; size 7 in. by 4½ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 22 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 14*b*. It is not quite acccurate. It is copied in Saṃvat 1666 by Madhusūdana, son of Gaṇapatibhaṭṭa. Figures and colophons are marked red. The last two folios are slightly broken. All folios are also slightly worm-eaten, but the text is not much damaged.

The Work:—The Anekārthadhvanimañjarī, another copy, cf. No. 96 above.

अनेकार्थध्वनिमञ्जरी and एकाक्षरीकोश

character, 7 to 9 lines in a page and 18 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 32*a*. Foll 1*a* and 32*b* as well as the fly-leaf at the end are left blank. The MS. is almost accurate and every folio is marked अ० मं० denoting the title.

The Work.—The Anekārthadhvanimañjarī, complete in three parts comprising 95, 97, and 22 ślokas respectively and the Ekākṣara-kośa complete in 33 stanzas but wanting the colophon. Authors' names are not mentioned. cf. No. 96, where the latter work is named Ekākṣaranighaṇṭa.

अनेकार्थध्वनिमञ्जरी and एकाक्षरनिघण्टु of वररुचि

Foll. 6; size 12¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 to 15 lines in a page and 60 to 65 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 6*b*. It is neatly and almost accurately written and the folios are all slightly broken along the edge. The text, however, is not much damaged.

The Work:—The Ekākṣaranighaṇṭu comprises forty-four ślokas in this MS. and is here ascribed to Vararuci. Our MS. also contains the Anekārthadhvanimañjarī, complete in three parts containing 95, 68, and 19 stanzas respectively. For both cf. Nos. 96 and 98 above.

I Ekākṣara. begins.—

इत्येकाक्षरनिघण्टुः समाप्तः ॥

Our MS. differs from the one noticed at I. O., No. 1043.

II The Anekārthadhvanimañjarī begins:—

शुद्धवर्णमनेकार्थं शब्दमौक्तिकमुत्तमम्।
कण्ठे कुर्वन्तु विद्वांसः श्रद्दधाना दिवानिशम् ॥ १ ॥

अनेकार्थध्वनिमञ्जरी and एकाक्षरनिघण्ट

Foll. 10; size 11¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish white paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 10 to 12 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 10*b* is blank. The MS. is written by Raghunātha Devasthalī very carelessly and the last two folios which are also unnumbered are much worn out.

The Work:—The first two parts only (called Sargas in this MS.) of the Anekārthadhvanimañjarī containing 103 and 88 stanzas respectively. Our MS. also contains the Ekākṣaranighaṇṭa, complete in 36 ślokas. cf. I. O. No. 1042; and also No. 96 above.

Ekākṣara begins:—

अनेकार्थसंग्रह of हेमचन्द्र with अवचूर्णि

Foll. 28; size 10¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; good, Jain Devanāgarī character; 18 lines in a page and 74 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 28*b*. The text is written in round letters with Pṛsthamātṛkās. The commentary is also written in very small round letters at the top and bottom and in both the margins of each folio. Colophons and figures are marked red. The MS. is much broken on all folios, along he right border and foll. 1-18 are also more or less eaten by worms. But the text is only slightly damaged. The MS. is dated Saṃvat 1466.

The Work:—The Anekārtha-saṅgraha of Hemachandra comprising about 2000 ślokas divided into seven parts called Kāṇḍas. The text is also accompanied by some Avacūrṇi (gloss) based on some other commentary. The work under notice forms the second part of the Haima-kośa and deals only with homonyms. The first part of the Haimakośa, dealing with synonyms is named the Abhidhāna-cintāmaṇi. For MSS. of both these parts see I. O., Nos. 1010 and 1004 respectively.

अव्ययानेकार्थ कोश of हेमचन्द्र

Foll. 3; size 12 in. by 6 in.; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 30 lines in a page and 48 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 3*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 3*b* are blank. The MS. is not very neatly written nor very accurately, by Śrīdhara, son of Kṛpālu, in Saṃvat 1776. All folios are broken, but the text is not much damaged, except for the 1st line. All folios are also discoloured with damp. The colophon is marked red.

The Work:-The Avyayānekārthakośa, a metrical vocabulary of indeclinables in 60 ślokas forming the last portion of the Anekārthasaṅgraha of Hemacandra. See No. 101 above. Our MS. is mutilated in the beginning.

It begins:—

अमरकोश of अमरसिंह

Foll. 117; size 11 in. by 4½ in.; material coarse yellowish dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 117*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is much tattered. All folios are discoloured and many of them are torn and worm-eaten. Foll. 13-18 are almost torn into pieces and are irreparably damaged. The MS. is very incorrect and many corrections have been made in the margin. In many places Marāṭhī equivalents also are written above the words from the text. The book once belonged to Miśra Bhavānīdāsa Ligaṇa.

The Work —The Amarakośa, complete in three Kāṇḍas.

It ends:—

Foll. 16; size 12 in. by 4 in; material yellowish thin paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 58 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a*, and ends on fol. 16*a*. Fol. 16*b* is blank. Foll. 1, 2, 15, and 16 are slightly broken. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:—The Amarakośa, Kāṇḍa I only with the Śiśubodhinī, a commentary thereon composed by Maheśvara, son of Rāmacandra, surnamed Sukaṭhāṇakara and a devotee of Śāntā Durgā. He appears to be a disciple of Svaprakāśa (Svayam-prakāsayati ?). [See quotation under No. 110]. A Maheśvara, a pupil of Svayamprakāśatīrtha noticed at I. O., No. 3578 is obviously the famous Mahādeva Vedāntin as is clear from the introductory stanza quoted there. For this Mahādeva's commentary on the Amarākośa see No. 112 below.

Foll. 9; size 11 in. by 4¾ in., material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 17 lines in a page and 53 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*b*. It is neatly and almost accurately written in Samvat 1811. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The folios are all slightly torn as well as worm-eaten.

The Work:-The Amarakośa, Kāṇda III only, with Budhamanoharā, a commentary thereon by Mahādeva Vedāntin, a pupil of Svayamprakāśatīrtha. For another MS. see Mitra, Notices, No. 846. Our commentator wrote his commentary on the Visṇu-sahasranāma-stotra in 1694 A. D. (q. v.).

अमरकोश of अमरसिंह (Kāṇda I only) with पदविवृति of लिङ्गभट्ट

Foll. 12; size 12 in. by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 58 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 12*b* are blank. The MS. is almost accurate. Foll. 1 and 2 are slightly eaten by worms; but no damage is done to the text. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:-The Amarakośa, Kāṇda I only and a few lines of Kāṇāa II, with the Padavivrti, a commentary on the same. A MS. of this commentary is also noticed at Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 45 where the name of the commentator is given as Lingayasūri and it is stated that he was the son of Vaṅgalakāmaya Bhattopādhyāya and that the commentary is popularly called Liṅgabhaṭṭīya. But that information is not borne out by our MS. Our commentator follows Ksīrasvāmin and other older commentators.

We have in Nasik a MS. of this commentary owned by Mr. Nirantara, a physician. This MS., which is about 200 years old, is defective at the end; but it contains two complete Kāṇḍas and in every colophon (except the one quoted below) the author's name appears as Liṅgaṇabhattasūri. All folios ars marked लि० टी० in the left margin which shows that the work is popularly called Liṅgaṇabhattī. From the colophon at the end of the Vaiśyavarga in the 3rd Kānda in this MS. it becomes quite celar that the name of the commentator is Liṅgasūri (or Lingaṇasūri) and that of his father is Vaṅgalakāmaya. The commentator, as a general rule, makes no references whatsoever to any persons or books, but in one place we get a sort of introductory stanza which, though apparently meant to apply to God Śiva, appears to contain a covert reference to a contemporary king, perhaps even a patron, Tāpansiṃha. The verse runs as follow:—

उद्दण्डस्मरकोदण्डमदखण्डनपण्डितः।
भाति तापनसिंहोयं मन्त्रकूलाद्रिशेखरः॥

The colophon at the end of Vaiśyavarga referred to above runs as follows:—

The limits for the date of our commentator are supplied by the facts that he refers to Kṣīrasvāmin and quotes Subhūticandra's commentary on the Amarakośa and is himself quoted by Mallinātha in his Vaiśyavaṃśasudhākara. cf. NIA., II. p. 446 f. and p. 273 n. 1.

अमरकोश of अमर

with उद्घाटन by क्षीरस्वामिन्

Foll. 72; size 11½ in. by 5½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 24 lines in a page and 70 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 72*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 72*b* are blank. All folios are much discoloured with damp and also slightly broken along the edges. Foll. 1 and 72 are also eaten by worms. Every folio has the title अमरटीका in the left margin. The MS. is dated Saṃvat 1619.

The Work:—The Amara-kośa with the commentary of Kṣīrasvāmin who is certainly different from the grammarian of the same name who flourished under king Jayapīḍa in the 8th Century. Both the text and the commentary are often published. For another MS. containing both and also for further references see Vel. No. 102. For the date of our commentator see Zacharae, Die indische Wörterbucher, p. 21 and I. O., No 5022.

एकाक्षरनिघण्टु of वररुचि

Foll. 2; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 35 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 2*b*. It is not very accurately written. Ink has faded away throughout and both the foll. are also broken and worn out. Figures are written in red ink.

The Work:—The Ekākṣaranighaṇṭu in 38 ślokas. The concluding stanza ascribes this work to Vararuci. Another copy, see No. 99 above where we get two stanzas at the beginning which are wanting in this MS.

It begins:—

Foll. 2; size 10¾ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yowllowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 30 lines in all and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 2*a*. Both the folios are slightly broken as well as worm-eaten. The MS. is very neatly copied in Śaka 1766.

The Work:—The Ekākṣaranighaṇṭu, another copy, cf. No. 101 above where, however, the order of the stanzas appear to be much altered.

It begins:—

अंकारो वासुदेवः स्यादाकारस्तु पितामहः । etc.

एकाक्षरकोश (from रत्नमाला)

Foll. 7; size 9¾ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 7*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is left blank. The MS. is far from being accurate. All folios are mutilated along the edges and are also discoloured.

The Work:—The Ekākṣarakośa is a small metrical lexicon in about 80 stanzas and is said to form part of the Ratnamālā (cf. the colophon of the next MS.). Our MS. is defective towards the end.

It begins:—

Foll. 12: size 12¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yollwish white paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*b*. The MS. is far from being accurate. It is written by Laksmana Mehendale. Every folio has the title धनंजय in the left margin.

The Work:—The Dhanañjayakośa is a lexicon in about 260 ślokas divided into five chapters (Sargas). It is composed by Dhanañjaya who proudly declares that the word "Kavi" can apply to him alone and that he is superior to even Vyāsa, Vālmīki and Daṇḍin. For other MSS. cf. I. O., Nos. 1014, 1015.

नाममाला of हर्षकीर्ति

Foll. 27; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1*b* and ends on fol. 27*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 27*b* have the title. The scribe Yajñeśvara Dīksita Sānye has written the MS. carefully and also accurately. Foll. 1 and 27 are slightly worn out.

The Work:—The Nāmamālā (or the Śāradīya-vyākhyā-nāma-mālā) is a lexicon in about 400 ślokas divided into three parts (called Kāṇḍas) composed by Harsakīrti, a Śvetāmbra Jaina, disciple of Candrakīrti of the Nāgapūrīya Tapāgaccha. Stanzas 70 to 102 of the first kāṇḍa are missing in our MS. as fol. 5*b* is left blank. Our author has to his eredit several works of which one, a medical work called the Yogacintāmaṇi, is noticed below (q. v.). For further details and references concerning our author see vel, Nos. 1801 and 1828. Our author in a Praśasti to his commentary on the Sārasvata Grammar tells us that his preceptor was honoured by Sāhi Salem (1545-1558 A. D.), the emperor of Delhi. cf. Bel., systems, p. 98.

मातृकानिघण्ट of महीदास and बीजकोश (Anon)

Foll. 15, size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 15*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 15*b* have the title. The folios are numbered 11-25 instead of 1-15. The MS. is profusely marked red. All folios are more or less eaten by worms; but no damage is done to the text. In the Bijakośa the letters indicated by the verses are given in the margin and present a funny sight. e. g. श्रीं

The Work:—The Mātṛkānighṇta is a small glossary ol the Tantric Mātṛkās, in 59 ślokas composed by Mahīdāsa. (See I. O. No. 1047) The Bījokośa is another glossary in 121 stanzas explaining the signficance of Tantric Bījas. Besides these two lexicons we also have in this MS. a mystic charm for winning over any person. Our Mahīdāsa is the same as Mahīdhara, the famous author of the Mantramahodadhi (q. v.). Also cf. Gode, B. O. R. I. Annals, XXI, pp. 248-61.

I Mātṛkānighaṇṭa begins —

Foll. 122; size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 5 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 120*a*. Fol. 121*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. Foll. 108, 112 and 119 are missing. The MS. is almost accurate. The scribe had, however, to correct his slips in many places which he has done with yellow pigment

The Work:—The Medinikośa, a lexicon by Medinikara, son of Prāṇakara. This lexicon is also called the Nānārthaśabdakośa. Medinikara refers to many old lexicographars like Amara. He also refers to the Viśvaprakāśa of Maheśvara (q. v.) only to find fault with it. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 1024-1026.

Foll. 127; size 8¼ in. by 3¾ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 126*a*. Fol. 126*b* is blank and the fly-leaf at the end has the title. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1729 by Mahādeva, son of Nāgeśa. विश्वप्रकाश of महेश्वर

Foll. 52; size 13 in. by 4½ in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 52*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 52*b* are left blank. On fol. 1*a*, however, we find the title scribbled in pencil. The MS. is very carefully written. All folios are slightly discoloured and fol. 1 is also slightly torn.

The Work:—The Viśvaprakāśa is a lexcon by Maheśvara, son of Brahma and grandson Keśava. It was composed in 1111 A. D. and was abused by Medinikara as being full of mistakes. (cf. Nos. 123-24 above). Haricandra, a commentator of the Carakasaṃhitā and a physician at the court of Sāhasāṅka, had a descendant named Kṛṣṇa whose son and grandson were Dāmodara and Malhaṇa respectively. Keśava, the grandfather of our author was the nephew of this Malhaṇa. All these ancestors are described as being good physicians, though none of them is credited with any work of any kind. For quotations etc. cf. Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 428 and Vel., Nos. 107-108. Our MS. is defective towards the end.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 9*b* have the title. The MS.

is neatly written, but is not quite free from inaccuracies.

The Work:—The Śabdabhedaprakāśa also called the Dvirūpakośa, is a vocabulary of words spelled in different ways; and forms part of the Viśvaprakāśa of Maheśvara. This vocabulary in our MS. contains 132 Ślokas. For another MS. and further references etc. see Vel., No 110. Also see Nos. 125-126 above.

Foll. 36; size 11 in. by 5 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 36*b* have the title added by a very shabby hand. The MS. is written neither neatly nor very accurately. Foll. 26-36 and foll. 1-13 are worm-eaten and slightly damaged. The colophons are in some places marked red.

The Work:—The Śabdamauktika appears to comprise (i) The Avyayānekārthakośa (1 Muktaka); (ii) The Dhvanimañjarī (4 Muktakas) and (iii) The Anekārthanāmasāroddhāra (3 Muktakas). The authors' names are not mentioned. But the Stanzas 2-3 in beginning of ours MS. are the same as those of No. 97 above. The Avyayamuktaka containg 20 stanzas appears to be only a shorter recension of the Avyayānekārthakośa noticed above (See No. 102). The Dhvanimañjarī contains 321 ślokas divided into four different parts, called Adhikāras as well as Muktakas; and appears to be only another recension of the Anekārthadhvanimañjarī slightly differing from those noticed above (cf. Nos. 96-100). The first three parts in this MS. contain 114, 90 and 32 stanzas respectively. The fourth part of the Dhvanimañjarī in this MS. is called the Nāmamālā and contains 85 stanzas. The Anekārthasamgraha has three parts comprising 122, 202 and 43 stanzas respectively. This Anekārthasamgraha (also called Anekārthasāroddhāra) is differrent from the Anekārthasamgraha of Hemacandra, noticed under No. 101 above.

Foll. 20; size 13 in. by 7 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 to 16 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 20*b* have the title. The MS. is fairly written in Saṃvat 1896; but is not quite free from inaccuracies. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. Foll 1, 2, and 20 are dilapidated and the text on them is slightly damaged. Other folios are only slightly discoloured with damp. Yellow pigment is profusely used for correcting the slips.

The Work.–The Kīrticchandomālā (or Vanamālikīrticchandomālā) is a small treatise on prosody comprising forty-eight verses composed by Rāmanārāyaṇa who in this work defines and illustrates thirty-seven different classical metres and at the same time sings the praise of Lord Kṛṣṇa. Viṣṇudāsa Rāmanārāyaṇa, our author, is the son of King Sucetarāma, pupil of Rāmasiṃha, Sadāsukha and Harinātha. Our author also mentions Bhavānīdāsa as one who taught him the Gayatrīmantra. Our MS. contains the full text together with the Modaprasārikā, the author's own commentary on this work. Stanzas 1–10 form an introduction and the definitions and illustrations of metres begin from st. 11. For information about other works of our author and his probable date see my article in Festschrift Kane, pp. 155–157. Also see pp. 158–60 there for our author's Anumitinirūpaṇam which clearly reveals his indebtedness to Annambhaṭṭa's Tarka-saṃgraha.

The metres defined and illustrated are:—

आर्या, गीति, उपगीति, अक्षरपंक्ति, शशिवदना, मदलेखा, अनुष्टुभ्, मानवकाक्रीड, नगस्वरूपिणी, विद्युन्माला, चम्पकमाला, मणिमध्य, मन्दाक्रान्ता, हंसी, शालिनी, दोधक, इन्द्रवज्रा, उपेन्द्रवज्रा, उपजाति, विपरीताख्यानकी, इन्द्रवंशा, वंशस्थ, रथोद्धता, स्वागता, वैश्वदेवी, तोटक, भुजङ्गप्रयात, द्रुतविलम्बित, हरिणीप्लुता, प्रभावती, प्रहर्षिणी, वसन्ततिलका, मालिनी, हरिणी, शिखरिणी, पृथ्वी, शार्दूलविक्रीडित and स्रग्धरा

Each metre is defined and illustrated in one stanza only; thus these metres are dealt with in stanzas 11–47 while stanza 48 forms the conclusion.

Foll. 18, size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $6\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material thin glazed bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line

The MS begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol 18*a*. Fol. 18*b* is blank. The MS. is almost accurate. The text occupies the middle of each folio and has the commentary both above and below it. Foll. 2–5 are almost torn and discoloured with ink

The Work·—The Chandaḥsāra is a metrical manual of prosody comprising fifty stanzas composed by Cintāmaṇi, son of Jīva, the chief court astrologer in the state of Kolhāpura. The Śyāmalābhāṇa is another work which our author composed at Kolhāpura in Śaka 1748 (c. 1826 A. D.) during the reign of Śāhū, the fifth decendant of the great Śivājī. (See Vel., No. 1302). Our MS. contains the Chandaḥsāra together with a commentary on the same composed by Śrīkhaṇḍa, son of Bājīrāya who was an adept in Vyākaraṇa and Alaṇkāra.

छन्दःसूत्र of पिङ्गल

Foll. 6; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 6*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 6*b* have the title. The MS. is neatly written in Śaka 1720 by Lakṣmaṇa Jāyade and is almost accurate. Figures are marked red.

The Work:-The Chandaḥsūstra of Piṅgala, complete in eight Adhyāyas (which are not marked). The introductory verses from Halāyudha's commentary are given by the scribe in the beginning of our MS. It is often printed with Halāyudha's commentary. For another MS. and references see Vel., No. 113.

with मृतसंजीविनी by हलायुध

Foll. 33; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish white paper; good Devanāgarī character; 8 or 9 lines in a page and 46 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 32*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank; and fol. 32*b* as well as the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1714 and once belonged to Lakṣmaṇa Bālambhaṭṭa Hardīkara.

The Work.-The Chandaḥsūtra of Piṅgala, complete in eight Adhyāyas together with the Mṛtasaṃjīvinī, a commentary thereon by Halāyudha who lived in the latter half of the tenth century. For Halāyudha, his date and works see Vel., No. 113.

The commentary begins:—

छन्दःसूत्र of पिङ्गल

Foll. 40; size 12 in. by 4¾ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 39*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is almost accuratety written in Śaka 1739 by Janārdana Dhautapāpeśvara. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The first ten and the last ten folios are torn and worm-eaten.

The Work:-The Chandaḥsūtra with Mṛtasaṃjīvinī, another copy, cf. No. 132 above. This MS. has three introductory stanzas which are not found in the other MS. noticed above. They are.—

(प्राकृत) छन्दःसूत्र of पिङ्गल

Foll. 31; size 9 in. by 4½ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks on fol. 31*b*. From the entry on fol. 1*a* it appears that the MS. had originally 33 folios, but now foll. 32 and 33 are missing. The MS. is much inaccurate and is eaten by worms on almost every folio. The text is also damaged on foll. 21-31.

The Work:-The Chandaḥsūtra of Piṅgala, dealing with Prākṛta metres. Incomplete, breaks with the definition of Sundariā (i. e. Sundarikā). For another MS. and information about the probable date and author of this work cf. I. O., No. 1107.

It begins:—

छन्दोमञ्जरी and सर्वानुक्रमणिका

Foll. 10; size 8¾ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish white paper; Devanāgarī character; 12 or 13 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line

The MS begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*b*. Fol. 10*a* has the table illustrating the Chandas and fol. 10*b* has the contents of the Sarvānukramaṇikā in a tabular form. The MS. is not very accurately written in Śaka 1739 by Yajñeśvara Sānye.

The Work:-The Chando-mañjarī is a small treatise giving the number of syllables and pādas in each of the Vedic metres together with their varieties. Our MS. also contains a section of the Sarvānukramaṇikā which gives the number of Ṛcas and Anuvākas composed in each one of these metres. For a similar work cf. vel., No. 114 which is slightly different from ours. Another work of the same name but totally different from ours is noticed at I. O., No. 1099.

I छन्दोमञ्जरी begins:—

छन्दोमञ्जरी

Foll. 4; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; material thin yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgrī character; 16 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*a*. It is neatly and accurately written in Śaka 1724 by Janārdana Dhopeśvara. The last folio is much torn and the text damaged. Headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Chandomañjarī, another small pamphlet on the same topic but quite different from the one noticed under the last number. The first five stanzas in the beginning of our work give the number of syllables in the Pāda of each of the Vedic metres. After these stanzas are given illustrations from the Vedas.

It begins:—

Foll. 9; size 10 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*b*. Fol. 1*a* is left blank. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. All folios are much worm-eaten along the borders; but no damage is done to the text. Headings and colophons are marked red. The MS. is dated Śaka 1572.

The Work:—The Vṛtta-ratnākara is a metrical treatise on prosody in 360 stanzas divided into six chapters called Adhyāyas composed by Kedāra, son of Pabbeka, a Brāhmaṇa of the Kauśika Gotra, and an adept in the Śaivasiddhānta. He cannot be later than the middle of the 12th century A. D. See Vel., No. 119. Mr. Gode has tried to fix the date of our author as being earlier than 1000 A. D. cf. B. O. R. I. Annals XVII, pp. 397-99. But his argument is not convincing.

वृत्तरत्नाकर of केदार with सेतु by भास्कर

Foll. 25; size 12 in. by 6 in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 24*a*. The fly-leaf in the beginnig has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is almost accurate. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below the text. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and also discoloured with damp; but no damage is done to the text. Yellow pigment is often used for correcting the slips. The MS. is dated Saṃvat 1900.

The Work:—The Vṛttaratnākara, together with the Setu, a commentary thereon composed in Saṃvat 1732 (c. 1676 A. D.) by Bhāskara or Haribhāskara, son of Āpājī surnamed Agnihotrī. Haribhaṭṭa and Puruṣottamabhaṭṭa were the names of his grandfather and great-grandfather respectively. They all were residents of Benares. In this commentary Haribhāskara refers to his own Pāṇinīyaparibhāṣābhāskara and Jasavanta-bhāskara. He also quotes the views of other previous commentators viz. Bhaṭṭa and Sallakṣana and criticises them. The latter he has criticised in many places. He also refers to Krisnmiśra's Prabodhacandrodaya, to Jagddhara's commentary on the Gītagovinda and to Kālidāsa's Śrutabodha. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 122 and I. O., No. 1019. For Bhāskara's Padyāmrta-taranginī see I. O., No. 7229; and also No. 166 below, where he refers to his father's work called Kaiyaṭīyacintyasamuccaya.

Foll. 12; size 8 in. by 4½ in.; material glazed yellowish paper; Devanāgarī character; 8 or 10 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*b*. The MS. is not carefully written and is far from being accurate. Almost all folios are much discoloured making the MS. almost illegible. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:-The Śrutabodha, a work on prosody in forty-five stanzas attributed to Kālidāsa in our MS. But it is sometimes attributed to Vararuci and with equal discretion too (cf. Vel., No. 123). Our MS. contains the full text of this work together with the Saṃjīvī, a commentary on the same by some unknown commentator.

Foll. 9; size 12 in. by 6 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character: about 11 lines in a page and about 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Fol. 9*b* is left blank. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below the text. All folios are slightly worm-eaten, but no damage is done to the text. The folios are also discoloured with damp.

The Work –The Śrutabodha together with the Subodhinī, a commentary thereon composed by Manohara at the command of king Māṇikyamalla. Our commentator is also said to have written a commentary (Subhāṣiṇī) on the Kirātārjunīya for which see Mitra, Notices, No. 2223. The text in this MS. begins as in No. 140 above, but has fortyone verses instead of forty-five.

अलङ्कारतिलक of भानुदत्त

Foll. 42; size 8 in. by $3\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper, bad Devanāgarī character; 10 to 13 lines in a page and 35 letters in line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 42*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is very badly copied in Śaka 1521 and is far from being correct. Foll. 3–10 have become illegible the ink on them having much faded. All folios are much discoloured and also broken along the edges.

The Work –The Alamkāratilaka is a work on poetics in five chapters called paricchedas composed by Bhānudatta who is no doubt to be identified with the author of the Rasataraṅgiṇī and the Rasamañjarī. Our author refers to the Kaṇṭhābharaṇa, the Kāvyaprakāśa and the Gītagovinda. Bhānudatta's patron, Vīrabhānu, is said to have flourished between 1500 and 1550 A. D. Bhānudatta must, therefore, be assigned to the beginning of the 16th century A. D. cf. COJ., II, pp. 197–99 and 254–58. For other MSS. of the Alaṃkāratilaka see Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 54, and Peters., Report VI, p. 29. For the other works of Bhānudatta see Nos. 153–163 below.

Foll. 15; size 9 in. by 5 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 15*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. All folios are slightly worm-eaten but no damage is done to the text. The metrical portion, which is perhaps the text, ends on fol. 5*b* and then follows the prose portion which appears to be something like a commentary. The MS. is neatly copied but is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Kāvyakalpalatā is a manual of poetics composed by Amaracandra, pupil of Jinadattasūrī of the Vāyaḍagaccha. The author himself wrote a commentary thereon called the Vṛtti. Our MS. contains the Parimala (or Kāvyakalpalatāparimala) which is probably only an exposition of the original work with the Vṛtti. We also have a sort of commentary on this Parimala. Amaracandra's Guru, Jinadatta was the author of the Vivekavilāsa and several other works and is said to have flourished in the first half of the 13th century A. D. For a MS. of the Kāvyakalpalatā and an analysis of the work see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 497. For information about the author and further references see Vel., No. 130. Our MS. appears to contain only the fourth chapter (Prasara) of the Kāvyakalpatāparimala dealing with the relations denoted by various cases. For details see De, I, p. 210 f.

काव्यदीपिका

Foll. 38; size 7 in. by 10½ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 22 lines in a page and 22 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 35*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil; and the two fly-leaves at the end are left blank. The MS. is in book form, though not bound and is very accurately written. All folios are much wormeaten, but the text is only slightly damaged. Some explanatory foot-notes are marked red. Every folio has the title at the top on one side and the number of the chapter on the other. It is dated Saṃvat 1942.

The Work:—The Kāvyadīpikā is an elementary manual of poetics in eight chapters called Śikhās based on the works of Mammaṭa (Kāvyaprakāśa) and Viśvanātha (Sāhityadarpaṇa) and others. For authorship etc. see De, I, pp. 287 and 325.

Foll. 254; size 13 in. by 7 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, bold, Devanāgarī character; 5 to 14 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS is defective in the beginning, folio 1 being missing; and ends on fol. 254*a*. Fol. 254*b* has the title and also the number of folios. The text occupies the middle and has the commentary both above and below it. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. It is much discoloured and slightly worm-eaten on almost all folios. It is dated Saṃvat 1900.

The Work:—The Kāvyaprakāśa of Mammaṭa, together with a commentary thereon composed by Rājānanda. Our MS. is defective in the beginning. From the colophon at the end of Ullasa I the name of the commentary appears to be Śitikaṇṭhavibodhana.

कुवलयानन्द of अप्पयदीक्षित with अलङ्कारचन्द्रिका by वैद्यनाथ

Foll. 77; size 11 in. by 5¾ in.; material thick yellowish white paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 22 lines in a page and 40 to 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 76*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at the end have the title. The MS. is almost accurate. It is also much worm-eaten on all folios, but only slight damage is done to the text. Foll. 47-76 are much worm-eaten in the left margin. Fol. 39 and the fly-leaf at the end are also torn. The text occupies the middle and has the commentary both above and below it.

The Work:—The Kuvalayānanda is a work on Alaṃkāra by Appaya Dīksita, son of Raṅgarāja Adhvarin, written at the desire of king Veṅkata I of Pennakoṇḍa (1586-1613 A. D.) The work is based on Jayadeva's Candrāloka. Vṛttavārtika and Citramīmāṃsā ara two other famous compositions of Appaya Dīksīta. At Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 283, Alaṃkāra-candrikā is described as "a comprehensive treatise on rhetoric by Kuvalayānanda." "The work", Mitra adds, "is ordinarily known by the name of the author and is held in high esteem." This is obviously incorrect in as much as Kuvalayānanda is only the name of a work and not that of an authour. Alaṃkāracandrikā again is not an independent work, but only a commentary on the Kuvalayānanda, composed by Vaidyanātha, son of Rāmabhaṭṭa, grandson of Viṭṭhala. Our commentator's surname is Tatsat, but he is called Pāyaguṇḍa at Cat. Catal., I, p. 612, which appears to be incorrect.

Hall on p. 175 of his Index describes this Vaidyanātha as a pupil of Nāgeśa and father Bālambhatta, a commentator of the Mitākṣarā. But it is unlikely that our commentator should be a pupil of Nāgeśa; for our Vaidyanātha is already known to have written his Udāharaṇacandrikā, a commentary on the Kāvyaprakāśa in 1683 A. D. He, therefore, is probably only a contemporary of Nāgeśa. It was Vaidyanātha, the son of Mahādeva and Venī that was the pupil of Nāgeśa and was also called Bālambhaṭṭa and had commented on the Mitākṣarā. Our Vaidyanātha, therefore, can neither be the father of Bālambhaṭṭa. with अलङ्कारचन्द्रिका by वैद्यनाथ

Foll. 113; size 13½ in. by 5½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; good, Devanāgarī character, 10 to 16 lines in a page and 40 to 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 113*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 113*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurate. The text occupies the middle and has the commentary both above and below it. All folios are slightly worm-eaten; but foll. 112-113 are much dilapidated. The text is, however, undamaged.

The Work:—The Kuvalayānanda with the Alamkāra-candrikā, another copy, cf. No. 150 above.

Foll. 22; size 12¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish thin paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 22*a*. Fol. 22*b* is blank. The scribe's surname is Jadye, who is a very careful scribe. The MS. is, however, not quite free from inaccuracies. Foll. 1 and 2 are dilapidated. Foll. 15-18 are much eaten by worms.

The Work:—The Rasataraṅgiṇī is a small work mainly in prose with numerous examples in verses illustrating and explaining Bhāvas, Vibhāvas and Rasas in eight chapters. It is said to be a sort of commentary on chapters VI and VII of the Nāṭyaśāstra of Bharata. It is composed by Bhānudatta Miśra, son of Gaṇanātha, a resident of Mithilā. For other MSS. see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 506; and Vel., No. 149. For information about the author see Winter., Gesch., III, p. 24 and B. O. R. I., Annals XVII, pp. 243-258.

Foll. 92; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 92*b*. A folio appears to be missing. The MS. is much dilapidated and worm-eaten on all folios and the text is also much damaged. The MS. is defective also in the beginning though no folio is apparently missing. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work.—The Rasataraṅgiṇī of Bhānudatta with the Tarī (or Nūtnā Tarī), a commentary thereon, composed by Bagavadbhatta, son of Ānandarāma and pupil of Āśādhara. Bhagavadbhatta speaks very highly of Mallinātha and his Sampradāya and must, therefore, be a very recent writer. Āśādhara who belongs to a date later than Mallinātha is mentioned as the author of the Triveṇikā where he refers to himself as the author of the Kovidānanda. (See Vel., No. 148). This Āśādhara might be the same as the preceptor of our Bhagavadbhatta.

रसमञ्जरी of भानुदत्त

Foll. 22; size 12½ in. by 5½ in.; material rough yellowish blue paper; fair Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 22*b*. Fol. 1*a* has two verses thereon—one in Sk. and the other in Marāṭhī. The MS. is very carefully written and is almost accurate. Headings are marked red. The MS. is dated Śaka 1795.

The Work.—The Rasamañjarī is a work in prose by Bhānudatta, son of Gaṇeśvara, describing the characteristics of lovers and their mistresses in erotic poetry. This Bhānudatta, who is also a resident of Mithilā, is the same as the author of the Rasataraṅgiṇī and is otherwise called Bhānudāsa.

It begins:—

Foll. 81; size 12 in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 45 in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 79*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 79*b* are blank. Two fly-leaves at the two ends have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written by Bālakṛṣṇa Dhūpakara in Śaka 1689. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:—The Rasamañjarī of Bhānudatta with the Vyaṅgyārthakaumudī a commentary thereon composed in Saṃvat 1692 (c 1635 A. D.) by Ananta Paṇḍita, a resident of Puṇyastambha on the Godāvarī. The names of his three immediate ancestors are Tryambaka (or Timājī) Paṇḍita, Bālo Paṇḍita and Nīlakaṇṭha Paṇḍita. This Ananta Paṇḍita also wrote a commentary on Govardhana's Āryāsaptaśatī, in 1645 A. D. For quotations, see I. O., No. 1224.

Foll. 21; size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 5 in.; material thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 21*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 21*b* are left blank. The MS. is almost accurately written by Rāmacandra.

The Work:—The Praśasti-kāśikā or the Praśastikā or the Praśasti-paddhati is a short manual of letter-writing composed by Bālakṛṣṇa Tripāṭhin, pupil, of Brahmānanda. In this work the author illustrates the modes of addressing persons of the four different castes and also such relations as preceptor, father, mother, wife and brother. For quite a different manual on the same subject by Śambhudeva see Mitra, Notices, No. 4024.

It begins:—

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1 and 2 being missing. It ends on fol. 31*a* and fol. 31*b* is blank. The scribe Kṛṣṇa Bhāṭavaḍekara is a very careful writer. All folios are so much discoloured that it is hard to read the text of the MS. on foll. 15-30; and foll. 4-5. It is dated Śaka 1781.

The Work:—The Prasastikāśikā, another copy, cf. No. 164. This copy is defective in the beginning.

Foll. 6; size 12 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 52 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 6*b*. It is not quite free from inaccuracies.

The Work:—The Praśastitaraṅga, a manual of letter-writing, forming part of the Padyāmṛta-taraṅgiṇī, an anthology by Haribhāskara who wrote his commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara in 1676 A. D. (see No. 138 above). The author has also added some remarks by way of explanation. Our MS. is incomplete. For a MS. of the whole work see I. O., No. 7229.

It begins:—

Foll. 25; size 9¾ in by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 6 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 25*a*. It is much worm-eaten. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 25*b* is blank. It is far from being accurate.

The Work —The Bhāṣā-mañjarī is a small treatise, describing a full day in the life of a Brāhmaṇa from morning till night, composed by Dhuṇḍhirāja, son of Śrīraṅgabhaṭṭa. On fol. 1*a* its title is given as the Vāgmañjarī, but its full name appears to be the Gīrvāṇa-śabdapadamañjarikā. For another MS. see Vel., No. 1268. This work is also meant as a practical guide to conversation in Sanskrit. For quotations see I. O., No. 4109.

PART III—MEDICINE

अष्टाङ्गहृदय (सूत्रस्थान) of वाग्भट

Foll. 39 (9–47); size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 to 13 lines in a page and 43 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1–8 being missing. The MS. begins with the 7th Adhyāya on fol. 9*a* and ends on fol. 47*a*; while fol. 47*b* is left blank. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. Incorrect words or letters have been scratched out with yellow pigment. Colophons are marked red. The MS. is rather worn out and ink has faded on the last folio.

The Work:—Adhyāyas 7–30 only of the Sūtrasthāna of Vāgbhaṭa's Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya. For information see No. 171 below.

अष्टाङ्गहृदय (उत्तरस्थान) of वाग्भट

Foll. 105; size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material glazed yellowish or white paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 104*a*. Fol. 104*b* is left blank, as also fol. 1*a*. The fly-leaf at the end has the title. Headings and stops are written in red ink. The MS. is very carefully and almost accurately written in Śaka 1768 by Kṛṣṇa Bhāṭavaḍekara.

The Work:—The Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya, a work on medicine in 120 Adhyāyas by Vāgbhaṭa (the younger), son of Saṅghagupta and grandson of Vāgbhaṭa the author of the Aṣṭāṅgasaṃgraha. The younger Vāgbhaṭa lived probably in the 8th century. Our MS. contains only the Uttarasthāna of this work which consists of 40 Adhyāyas. For a complete MS. of the Aṣṭāṅgasaṃgraha and other references see Vel., No. 162. For the probable date of the two Vāgbhatas see Winter. Gesch., III, p. 549 f. The Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya has been recently published by the NSP. with the commentaries of Aruṇadatta and Hemādri, and a very valuable introduction by Gode.

अष्टाङ्गहृदय (सूत्रस्थान) of वाग्भट with आयुर्वेदरसायन by हेमाद्रि

Foll. 343; size $13\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b*. After fol. 136 the folios are again numbered from unity upto 107. The MS. ends on fol. 107*a*. Foll. 1*a*, 136*b* and 107*b* are all blank. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies which in many places are corrected with yellow pigment. Portions from the text are marked red in many places. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work:—The Sūtrasthāna only of Vāgbhaṭa's Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya with the Āyurvedarasāyana (or °nī), a commentary on the same, composed by Hemādri, the author of the Caturvargacintāmaṇi, son of Kāmadeva and grandson of Vāmana. He lived under king Mahādeva (1260–1271) of Devagiri, son of Caitrapāla, and under his successor Rāmacandra (1271–1309). In this commentary he refers to Haricandra's commentary on the Carakasaṃhitā and to Jaijjaṭa's commentary on the Suśruta. For another MS. see I. O., No. 2656.

अष्टाङ्गहृदय (कल्पस्थान) of वाग्भट with आयुर्वेदरसायन by हेमाद्रि

Foll. 37; size $13\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 50 letters in line.

The MS. has separate pagination for each Adhyāya. Fol. 1*a* of each Adhyāya as also the last folio has the title of the Adhyāya. Foll. 2–4 of the third Adhyāya, foll. 4–7 of the fourth and foll. 3 and 4 of the fifth are dilapidated. The number of folios in the several Adhyāyas is 5, 6, 5, 8, 7, and 6 respectively.

The Work:—The Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya with the Āyurvedarasāyana, Kalpasthāna only, complete in 6 Adyāyas. For a MS. of the Sūtrasthāna with this commentary see No. 172 above.

अष्टाङ्गहृदय (निदानस्थान) of वाग्भट with सर्वाङ्गसुन्दरा by अरुणदत्त

Foll. 64 (53–117); size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse thick yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 52 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1–52 being missing. The MS. begins in the middle of the sixth Adhyāya on fol. 53*a* and ends on fol. 117*a*. Fol. 117*b* has the title and the number of folios. The MS. is very badly written and is far from being accurate. Colophons are marked red. Fol. 53 is slightly torn.

The Work:—The Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya, Nidānasthāna, Adhyāyas 7–16 only, together with the Sarvāṅgasundarā by Aruṇadatta, son of Mṛgāṅkadatta. Aruṇadatta, according to Jolly, lived in the fifteenth century; while, according to Heornle, he must have lived in the beginning of the 13th century at the latest.

For a discussion about the date of our commentator and for another MS. of the work under notice see Vel., No. 163. Also cf. I. O., Nos. 2655 and 6228; and BUJ., III. pp. 96–97.

चरकसंहिता of चरक

Foll. 267; size $6\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $11\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 22 lines in a page and 16 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 267*b*. The four fly-leaves in the beginning and three at the end are all left blank. The MS. is bound in book form and on one side of the upper cover we have the table of contents. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. It is deted Saṃvat 1808. Fol. 263 is missing.

The Work:—The Carakasaṃhitā, one of the oldest works on medicine by Agniveśa, pupil of Punarvasu Ātreya and fellow-student of Bheḍa. It was afterwards remodelled by Caraka who is described in the Chinese Tripiṭaka (translated in 472 A. D.) as a court physician of king Kaniṣka. Caraka, therefore, must have lived very probably in the second century A. D. It was then again enlarged in the 8th or 9th century A. D. by a Kāśmirian Paṇḍita named Dṛḍhabala, son of Kapilabala. It was also translated into Arabic about 800 A. D. from Persian into which it was translated at some earlier date. Patañjali, the author of the Mahābhāṣya, appears to have commented upon this work. For references and another MS. see Vel., No. 172

The work comprises eight parts called Sthānas viz. Sūtra, Nidāna, Vimāna, Śārīra, Indriya, Cikitsā Kalpa, and Siddhi. Our MS. contains only the fifth of these Sthānas viz. Indriyasthāna. For a full analysis of the work see I. O., No. 2637. It has been variously printed.

It begins:—

with निबन्धसंग्रह by डल्हण

Foll. 75; size 12½ in. by 5½ in.; material thin glazed yellowish white paper; good Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 75b. Fol. 1a is blank and so also the fly-leaf at the end. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. The MS. is very carefully and almost accurately written by Kṛṣṇa Bhāṭavadekara in Śaka 1770.

The Work:—The Śārīrasthāna from the Suśrutasaṃhitā with the Nibandhasaṃgraha, a commentary on the same, by Ḍalhaṇa who lived in the twelfth century. He quotes Cakrapāṇidatta, the commentator on the Caraka and also the Nyāyacandrikā, a commentary on the Suśruta by Gayādāsa. He is also quoted by Hemādri, Vācaspati and Vopadeva. For another MS. and references see Vel., No. 212. Both the text as well as the commentary are printed at the NSP., Bombay. For a discussion regarding the date of Suśruta see I. O., No. 6223.

Foll. 4: size 7½ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10–12 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurate. Fol. 1 is much broken and all folios are slightly worm-eaten. But the text is not damaged.

The Work:—The Ajīrṇa-mañjarī is a small metrical manual in 42 verses in different metres dealing with indigestion in all its varieties and remedies to cure the same. These verses appear to be taken from some standard works on medicine. For another MS. cf. Mitra, Bik. cat., p. 626. For another work of the same name ascribed to Kāśīnātha or Kāśirāja see. Nos. 183-185 below.

अञ्जननिदान of अग्निवेश

Foll. 15; size 11¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin yellowish dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7–9 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 15*a*. Fol. 15*b* has the title scribled in pencil. The MS. is very accurately written in Śaka 1779 by Kṛṣṇaśāstrī Bhaṭavaḍekara. All folios are much worm-eaten and the text is also slightly damaged. All folios are also much discoloured.

The Work.—The Añjananidāna is a metrical work in 233 stanzas composed by Agniveśa, the author of the Carakasaṃhitā. It is divided into 65 Avalokas (parts), each Avaloka treating of one separate disease. This work thus deals with a number of diseases of various kinds and not merely the eye-diseases as the title [might appear to suggest. At Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 650 this work is called "Netrāñjana" and is described as being a treatise on eye-diseases. The same is done at I. O., No. 2714. But this is incorrect and the mistake is probably due to the word Añjana (collyrium) occurring in the title of the work. The author's intention in giving this name to his work is to suggest that the work will serve as collyrium (Añjana) to the eye of the ignorant physicians cf. st. 1 quoted below. He therefore, gives the method of diognosing all different diseases, the method being called Avaloka. For a list of other works of our author cf. New Cat. Catal., prov. fasc., p. 19 f.

अञ्जननिदान of अग्निवेश

Foll. 21: size 8 in. by 4 in., material thick blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1b and breaks off on fol. 21b. Fol. 1a is blank. A fly-leaf in the beginning has the title, and the MS. is almost accurate; headings are marked red. Foll. 1 and 21 are slightly torn and foll. 12, 13, and 15-21 are white.

The Work:—The Añjananidāna, another copy, cf. No. 181 above. This MS. breaks off with st. 221, a little after Pradarāvaloka. B. M. C. 33. 11].

अमृतमञ्जरी of काशीनाथ

Foll. 6; size 6½ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and about 20 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 6a. Foll. 1a and 6b have the title. The scribe Dinakara Jyotisī has written the MS. almost accurately in Śaka 1725.

The Work:—The Amrtamañjarī (also called the Ajīrṇamañjarī) is a small manual on indigestion in 40 stanzas in varying metres compiled by Kāśīnātha. This work, though having some verses in common with the Ajīrṇamañjarī noticed above, (cf. No. 180 above) is yet different from it in the remaining portions. For another stupendous work of this name, containing antidotes against poison, composed by Rāma Bhatta cf. I. O. Nos. 1706-1707, st. 22 (Quotation).

यो रावणं रणमुखे भुवनैककारं

अमृतमञ्जरी of काशीनाथ

Foll. 5; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thick rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning fol. 1 being left blank and fol. 2 being missing. On fol. 3*a* the MS. begins with stanza 19 and ends on fol. 5*b*. The title at the end is marked red. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1753 by Śrīdhara Rāmachandra Lavāṭe.

The Work:—The Amṛtamañjarī of Kāśīnātha, a larger recension containing fifty two stanzas. Our MS. begins with stanza 19 and has thus only 34 verses (i. e. 19–52). cf. No. 183 above.

It ends:—

अमृतमञ्जरी of काशीनाथ

Foll. 6 (26–31); size 8¼ in. by 4 in. material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 26*a* and ends on fol. 31*a*. Fol. 31*b* has the title. The folios are numbered 26–31 instead of 1–6. Foll. 26–28 are much wormeaten and the rest only slightly so. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies.

The Work:—The Amṛtamñjarī of Kāśīnātha, another copy, (cf. Nos. 183–184 above), containing 47 stanzas. Though having the same beginning as the last two MSS. it has yet some verses which are not found in them. Even the end is quite different.

It ends:—

अमृतमञ्जरी

Foll. 27; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse white yellowish paper; fair, Devanagarī character; 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 25*b*. There are two more folios having the index. The MS. is almost accurate. The MS. originally had 31 folios, but the last six are now missing.

The Work:—The Amṛtamañjarī, much different from the one noticed above (see Nos. 183–185 above) dealing not only with indigestion but also with other diseases. The work is defective towards the end and the author's name is not known.

It begins:—

अष्टपरीक्षा

Foll. 11; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.: material glazed thin yellowish paper; fair Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 11*b* which is unnumbered. Fol. 1*a* is blank and the last folio (wrongly numbered 11) has the title. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is almost accurate.

The Work.—The Asta-pariksā is some medical treatise giving the details of the eightfold method of diagnosing a disease. Our MS. contains only 127 verses and is obviously defective in the end.

It begins —

आयुर्वेदप्रकाश of माधव

Foll. 110; size 10¼ in. by 5 in.; material rough thick yellowish white paper; fair; Devanāgarī character 10 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 104*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. In the beginning there are six separately numbered folios having the index. The MS. is carefully and almost accurately written by Bhāskara Ballāla Gāḍagiḷa. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and also mutilated; but the text is not damaged.

The Work —The Āyurvedaprakāśa appears to be a complete system of medicine composed by Mādhava, surnamed Upādhyāya, a resident of Benares, belonging to the Sārasvata community (Kula). Our MS. contains only one section (of this work) which treats of the preparation of mercury and other mineral substances. For another MS. of this work; containing this section and another containing another section of this very work see I. O., Nos. 2697, 2696 respectively. Also see Nos. 264-265 below.

कालज्ञान of शम्भुनाथ

Foll. 11; size 7 in. by 4¼ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī charecter; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 10 (which is left unnumbered). The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is very neatly written and is only moderately accurate.

The Work:—The Kālajñāna is a medical work giving the various signs of the approach of death in about 150 stanzas divided into six chapters composed by Śambhunātha. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 169, Auf., Bodl.

Cat., p. 317*a*, and I. O., No. 2716. Our MS. breaks off towards the end of the 6th chapter. It begins:—

कालज्ञान of शम्भुनाथ

Foll. 7; size 9¼ in. by 5½ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*b*. The MS. is neatly copied but is only moderately correct. All folios are slightly worm-eaten; but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Kālanjñāna of Śambhunātha, another copy, cf. No. 189 above. In this MS. the work (though complete) contains only 125 stanzas which are not divided into chapters.

with टीका (स्वोपज्ञ)

Foll. 8; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material glazed bluish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 8*b*. The MS. is much incorrect, Though the scribe has nowhere corrected himself. Fol. 1*a* is blank, but for the first word of the text which the scribe wrongly wrote there. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title.

The Work:—The Kūṭamudgara is a small medical work in eighteen stanzas in which the author, Mādhava, gives the causes and effects of the excessive increase or discrease in the Doṣas. This Mādhava is very probably not to be indentified with the author of the Mādhavanidāna. Our MS. contains the text together with the author's own commentary. The title on the fly-leaf is Mudga-kūta while that in the colophon is कूटभङ्ग. For another MS. see Mitra, Notices, No 792. See also next number. For information about Mādhava and for further references see NIA., II, p. 273 f.

Foll. 46; size 8½ in. by 5 in.; material coarse thick yellowish paper; bad Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 46*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and some verses, while fol. 46*b* has the title and some quotations. The MS. is badly written and is very incorrect. Foll. 1 and 46 are sligtly torn.

The Work:—The Cikitsāmañjarī is a work on medicine in seven chapters (Kusuma) composed in Śaka 1619 (c. 1697 A. D.) by Raghunāthapaṇḍita Kavi of Manoharakula, son of Bhikambhaṭṭa and grandson of Śrīkṛṣṇabhaṭṭa. From st. 79 quoted below it appears that our author was first a resident of Kālgiri (=Kolagiri ?= Coorg) which he afterwards left for Campāvatīpura which is our Revadaṇḍā in the Colābā district in Northern Konkan. The identification of Campāvatī with Bhāgalpura (at I. O., No. 269) does not seem plausible in view of the fact that our author's original residence, Kāllagiri is far in the south and that Revadaṇḍā, rather than Bhāgalpura, is much nearer to it and on the same coast-line of India.

In the beginning of the work we get a chapter named Nāḍijñānavidhi (also by the same author) which forms a sort of introduction to the whole work. For the author's Vaidyavilāsa composed in the same year see Nos. 246–247 below.

Nāḍijñānavidhi begins:—

Foll. 72; size 9 in. by 5¼ in.; material thick coarse yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 24 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 72*b*. Fol. 1*a* has some quotations added by a reader. The MS. is very badly written by Keśobhata Śukla and is far from being accurate.

चिकित्सामहार्णव of वङ्गसेन

Foll. 362; size 13¼ in. by 6¼ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 54 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 362*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 362*b* have the title added recently. The MS. is very neatly written and is almost accurate. It is full of lacunae in some places. Almost all folios are much wormeaten and many are eaten by rats. The text on foll. 283-362 is irreparably damaged. Headings and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Cikitsāmahārṇava (or the Cikitsāsārasamgraha or the Cikitsātattvasamgraha) is a work on pathology and materia medica. It is composed Vaṅgasena, son of Gadādhara, whose ancestors were the residents of Kāñjikā. Vaṅgsena's time-limit on one side is fixed by the fact that a Cambridge MS. of this work is dated 1276 A. D. The uppermost limit is also fixed by the fact that almost the whole of the Mādhava-nidāna is incorporated in this work. Some portions from the Suśruta also are taken up word for word. Vaṅgasena must, therefore, have lived at least a century or two later than Mādhava and prior to the date of the cambridge MS. of this work. His probable date therefore, must fall somewhere in the 11th or the 12th century A. D. For another complete MS. and quotations etc. see I. O., Nos. 2698-2699. It is variously published. Also cf. Winter., Gesch. III, p. 550 f.; Hoernle, JRAS., 1909, p. 860 and NIA., II., p. 275 f. and n.

Foll. 277; size 10 in. by 6 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 to 20 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 277*a*. The MS. is full of lacunae and is also not quite accurate. Yellow pigment is used in many places for correcting the slips. Foll. 241-277 are written by a different scribe, and are slightly discoloured with damp.

चिकित्सामृतसागर of देवीदास

Foll. about 300, size $10\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; about 16 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. is only fragmentary and much worm-eaten on all folios. Foll. 1-7, 117-21, 124-25, 220, 242-44, 249-50, 252-53, 293-312, 315, 326-70, 383, 385-89, 399-400 and 404-62 are missing. The MS. breaks off on fol. 468*b*. Headings, colophons and stop lines are marked red. The MS. is neither uniformly nor neatly copied and is far from being accurate.

The Work:—The Cikitsāmṛtasāgara appears to be a big compendium dealing with several topics generally dealt with in medical treatises. Like Vaṅgasena our author Devīdāsa also has largely drawn upon the Mādhava-nidāna. He has also incorporated in this work several portions from the Śārṅgadharasaṃhitā of Dāmodara as is clear from some of the colophons quoted below. Another work thus exploited by Devīdāsa is the Ātreyasaṃhitā which is in the form of a dialogue between Ātreya and Hārīta. A MS. of this work (i. e. the Ātreyasaṃhitā) has been noticed at I. O., No. 2648 and Prof. Goldstucker's analysis of this work is given by Mrs. Manning in her 'Ancient and Mediaeval India', Vol. I, on pp. 339-42. Sannipātakalikā is another small manual which is included in the work under notice and the first two verses of our Trayodaśa-sannipāta-cikitsā (see No. 207 below) agree with the stanzas appearing here. A MS. of this work also is noticed at I. O., No, 2712 where in the colophon it is styled Sannipātakalikā—a name under which our author incorporates it in his work. The beginning of the I. O., No. 2712 is exactly the same as the beginning of the quotation in Devīdāsa's work. Towards the end of his work Devīdāsa has incorporated sections from another work on medicine which professes to be only a section of some stupendous work on Dharmaśāstra ascribed to Vedavyāsa. In one place it would appear from the colophon that Devīdāsa has incorporated a section from the Madhukośa also. If this be true then Devīdāsa must have lived after Vijayaraksita, the author of the Madhukośa which is a commentary on the Rugviniścaya of Mādhavakara. The earliest date to which our author can, therefore, be assigned can't be earlier than the middle of the 13th century A. D. and taking into consideration the fact that he has incorporated sections after sections from several works may point to a much later date. Nothing definite can be gathered about Devidāsa beyond the fact that he was the son of Nāgamā and Devadatta.

The work itself is divided into chapters called Taraṅgas. But they are not all of them regularly numbered. The last numbered chapter we meet with is on fol. 272 and is numbered seventy. This only shows that our work has more than seventy chapters; but the exact number of chapters comprising the whole work cannot be ascertained. One more curious feature about the work under notice is the threefold outlook which Devīdāsa has brought to bear on the various diseases he has dealt with in his work. Thus he discusses a disease from a medical, a religious and an astrological point of view and suggests remedies accordingly.

Foll. 56; size 9¾ in. by 5¼ in.; material glazed bluish paper fair, Devanāgarī character; 16 lines in a page and about 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 56*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 56*b* have the title. The MS. is very accurately written by Kṛṣṇa Dhuṇḍirāja Bhāṭavaḍekara in Śaka 1778. Foll. 1–9 are written in bad handwriting with nine or ten lines in a page; and only about thirty letters in a line. The remaining folios are written in beautiful small round letters. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and foll. 10–20 much more so.

The Work.—The Cikitsāsāra is a medical treatise on materia medica, preparation of oxides and pathology by Gopāladāsa (who styles himself Vādīndra) who has based his work on such old authorities as Suśruta, Caraka, Vṛnda, Hārīta and Ātreya. This work is quite different from another work of the same name noticed at Mitra, Notices, No. 1333. Also see No. 214 below for an extract from the Cikitsāsāra of Moreśvara.

The MS. consists of three parts separately paginated. Part I contains only 5 folios giving an index of various subjects which have formerly been compiled together by the scribe from the Madanamahārṇavakarmavipāka and other works. The second part consists of 15 folios giving the index of the Jñānabhāskarakarmavipāka which ends on fol. 14*b* and the last folio is left blank. the Index in part I is written in threee columns on each folio; while part II has only two columns on each. Part III containing the text has only 16 folios (2–17) and is defective in the beginning, folio 1 being missing. Almost all folios are slightly broken or worm-eaten, though the text is not much damaged. The MS. is also defective in the end

The Work:—The Jñāna-bhāskara (or °prakāśa) fragmentary with index. The main work has the form of a conversation between the Sun and Aruṇa and deals with various diseases, their causes from the religious point of view and the religious remedies to get rid of them. For other MSS. and information etc. see I. O., No. 2719 and Weber, Berl. Cat., p. 287.

ज्वरपराजय of जयरत्न

Foll. 19; size 8½ in. by 4 in; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 19*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 14*b* is left blank. Headings are marked red. The MS. is not very accurate and is also slightly eaten by worms on all folios. No damge is, however, done to the text.

The Work·—The Jvaraparājaya is a metrical treatise on fevers composed by Jayaratna, pupil of Bhāvaratna who wrote a commentary on the Jyotirvidābharaṇa in Saṃvat 1761 (c. 1705 A. D.) A MS. of our Jayaratna's Dosaratnāvatī dated Saṃvat 1761 exists in the Bhandarkar Oriental Institute, Poona (cf. No. 1347 of 1884–87) and is described by Peterson in his catalogue of Ulwar MSS., Extract No. 507.

Jvaraparājaya is ascribed to Jarara at Cat. Catal., I, p. 214; but it is a mistake. Our author refers to Jvaratimirabhāskara (on fol. 5) which was composed in Śaka 1545 (c. 1623 A. D. cf. Mitra, Bik. Cat., No. 1404). Jayaratna must, therefore, have lived in the latter half of the 17th century. Winternitz's statement (Geschichte, III p. 552 n. 2) that it was written in 1849 is evidently a mistake.

त्रयोदशसंनिपातचिकित्सा

Foll. 4; size 6½ in. by 3 in.; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 6 lines in a page and about 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 4*b*. The MS. is very neatly written and is also accurate. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and the last folio is also torn; but the text is not damaged.

The Work:—The Trayodaśa-sannipāta-cikitsā is a small metrical treatise dealing with the diagnosis and treatment of (sannipāta) fever in thirteen varieties in about fifteen stanzas. The author's name is not mentioned. A similar work—perhaps only a larger recension—is noticed at I. O., No. 2712 and the beginning of our MS. agrees with the 2nd verse of the MS. noticed there. At I. O., No. 2712 the work is called Sannipātakalikā in the colophon and is ascribed to Vāidyamathana-siṃha and is said to agree mostly with the Trayodaśa-sannipāta-lakṣaṇam consisting of thirteen verses published at Colombo. Apparently the work under notice is incorporated by Devīdāsa in his Cikitsāmṛtasāgara (see No. 199 above).

त्रिशती of शार्ङ्गधर रावळ

Foll. 48; size 9½ in. by 4¾ in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 6 or 7 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 17*a*. Foll. 47*b* and 48*a* are blank; while fol. 48*b* has the title. Fol. 1*a* has the title and also the index which runs upto the 26th folio only. The MS. is written by two different hands. Foll. 1–30 are very carefully written; but the remaining folios which are copied by Janārdana Gaṅgādhara Jośī, Cipalūṇakara are not as carefully and accurately written as the others. Vernacular equivalents for the names of medical substances are also supplied between the lines by the former scribe.

The Work –The Triśatī (also called Jvara-triśatī or Vaidyatriśatī) is a medical treatise dealing with the diagnosis and treatment of fevers of all kinds. It contains about 300 stanzas composed by Śārṅgadhara Rāvala, son of Devarāja Sukavi and pupil of Vaikuṇṭhā-śrama. For analysis see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 755. At I. O. No. 2713 Vaidya-Vallabha is given as another name of this work. But Vaidyavallabhā is only the name of a commentary on this work. cf. No. 210 below.

Foll. 142; size 9 in. by 5½ in ; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 10 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 142*b*. It is neatly written and is almost accurate. It is broken on all folios, but much more so on foll. 1, 140–142. It is also profusely marked red. The text and the commentary intermingled

The Work:—The Triśatī with Vivṛti by Nārāyaṇa, son of Kṛṣṇa and younger brother of Nāgeśa who was also his preceptor. This Nāgeśa has written a commentary on the Mādhavanidāna (see I. O., No. 2671); and both the brothers are the preceptors of Lakṣmaṇa, son of Datta, and the author of the Yogacandrikā for which see No. 294 below.

The comm. begins·—

त्रिशती of शार्ङ्गधर रावळ with वैद्यवल्लभा by वल्लभ

Foll. 100; size 10 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 5 to 10 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1*b* and ends on fol. 99*a*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have a quotation. Fol. 99*b* is blank. The MS. is almost accurate. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. Every folio is marked सा० प० टी० or त्रि० टी०. Headings and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Triśatī, with Vaidyavallabhā, a commentary thereon by Vaidyvallabhabhaṭṭa. For the author see No. 208 above. Also see No. 209 above for Nārāyaṇa's Vivṛti on this work.

Foll. 3; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{3}{4}$ in; material thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*b* It is not quite free from inaccuracies and all folios are slightly torn and worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Nāḍī-prakaraṇa, a portion from the Yogasārasamuccaya, dealing with pulse-feeling in 38 stanzas, ascribed in the colophon to Śivadāsa who is probably to be identified with the author of the Tattva-candrika, a commentary on Cakrapāṇidatta's Cikitsā-saṃgraha. This Śivadāsa is said to be a Bengal writer of the 16th century. cf. NIA., II, p. 274.

The Yogasārasamuccaya described at I. O, Nos. 2565-2566 also called the Akulāgamamahātantra is only a tantra treatise having nothing to do with medicine.

It begins:—

नाडीप्रबोध of रामचन्द्र

Foll. 17; size 10 in. by 4¾ in. material rough yellowish white paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and about 38 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 17*a*. Foll. 1*a*, 17*b* have the title. The MS. is much dilapidated and worm-eaten on all folios. The scribe's name is Sadāśiva Nārāyaṇa Hātavalaṇe. The MS. is very neatly and almost accurately written in Śaka 1772.

The Work.—The Nāḍīprabodha is another manual in 158 stanzas dealing with pulse-feeling as an aid to diagnosis. It was composed in Saṃvat 1504 (c. 1446 A. D.) by Rāmacandra Vājapeyin, son of Sūryadāsa and Viśālākṣā, and grandson of Śivadāsa. He was a resident of the Naimiṣa and was honoured by King Rāma of Ratanpura. His guru's name was Śrībhāratī. His other works are Samarasāra, Kuṇḍamaṇḍapalakṣaṇa, Karmapradīpikā, Yantraprakāśa and Karaṇcintāmaṇi. Our MS. contains the full text apparently divided into two parts of 93 and 65 stanzas each and also some sort of commentary on some of those stanzas. The title on foll. 1*a* and 17*b* is Nāḍīparīkṣā; but in the introductory stanza we get the title Nāḍīprabodha.

It begins.—

Foll. 25; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 22*b*. It is almost accurate. Headings are marked red. Foll. 1, 21 and 22 are slightly worm-eaten as well as discoloured.

The Work:—The Nidānasiddhi is a small metrical work on pathology composed by Moreśvara. According to the colophon it forms part of a big work called the Cikitsāsāra. For Gopāladāsa's Cikitsāsāra see Nos. 200-204 above.

बसवतन्त्र of बसवराज

Foll. 138; size 10 in. by 6¼ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 126*b*. At each end there are two fly-leaves one of which has the title. Basides these there are eight more folios in the beginning which have the index. The MS. is much incorrect. It was copied in Śāka 1830 from an older MS. at the Ānandāśrama granthasaṃgraha which was dated Śaka 1745.

The Work —The Basavatantra (or Basavarājīya or Vṛṣarājīya) is an exhaustive treatise on medicine in 25 chapters called Prakaraṇas composed by Basava or Basavarāja who styles himself the moon of the race of Nīlakaṇṭha who is probably the same as Nīlakaṇṭha Koṭari or Koduru to whom the work is ascribed in the colophons. This Nīlakaṇṭha is described as a great physian, a poet of a very high rank and the best desciple of Raghurāmadeśika.

This work is quite different from another work also called Basavarājīya which deals with the tenets of the liṅgāyat sect. It is also doubtful whether our author is to be identified with the reputed founder of that sect who was a contemporary of Vijjala who died in 1167 A. D. (cf. Bhand., EHD.,? p. 93 f.).

बालतन्त्र of कल्याण

Foll. 43 (2–44); size 9 in. by 4½ in ; material rough white thin paper, good, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective at both ends, fol. 1 is missing and the MS. breaks off on fol. 44b. It is very neatly written bnt not uniformly. Some folios are written by a very slovenly hand. Headings are marked.

The Work:—The Bāla-tantra is madical treatise divided into several Patalas, dealing with the diseases of children. It is composed in 1587 A. D. by Kalyāṇa, son of Mahīdhara the famous author of the Mantra-mahodadhi (q. v.). Rāmadāsa or Rāmabhakta was the name of his grand-father and that of his great-grandfather was Ratnākara. Our MS. is defective in the beginning and the first eight stanzas of the first Paṭalas are missing. We have in our MS. only Paṭalas I-III and IIV-XII. Paṭalas IV-VI are wanting. The MS. is also defective at the end. For a complete MS. of this work see Mitra, Notices, No. 818.

प्रत्योषधं प्रवक्षा(r. क्ष्या)मि येन गर्भोभिजायते।
उत्पलं नागरं कुष्ठं यष्टी मधुकचन्दनम्॥ १ ॥

The Patalas end —

I इति श्रीकल्याणकृते बालतन्त्रे षोडशवन्ध्याप्रतीकारो नाम प्रथमः पटलः (st. 50) fol. 4a; II साधारणवन्ध्योषधकथनम् (st. 35) fol. 6a; III पुरुषवीर्ये वृद्धिकथनम् (st. 64) fol. 10a.

After this there appears to be a break. The scribe then writes श्री and leaving some blank space begins the next line much below on the same folio. The part that begins is the 7th Patala, which begins —

The part that follows deals with various diseases:—

अतिसार, ग्रहणी, अजीर्ण, तृष्णा, हिक्का, क्षय, स्वरभेद, मूर्छा, दाह, उन्माद, रक्तपित्त, उदावर्त, वातगुल्म, नेत्ररोग, नासारोग, कर्णरोग, शिरोरोग, मुखपाक, and विष.

Foll. 131; size 9½ in. by 5¼ in.; material thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, folios 1-14 being missing. The MS. ends on fol. 131a. Fol. 131b has the title. The MS. is almost accurate. Headings and colophons are marked read. It is written by Gaṇeśa Ācārya in Śaka 1766; but one Trimbakabhaṭa Vaidya has added some quotations three years later in Śaka 1769.

माधवनिदान of माधवकर

Foll. 197; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material coarse thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 197*a*. Fol. 197*b*. is blank. In the beginning as well as at the end there is a fly-leaf with the title. The MS. is copied not very accurately by Trimbaka Keśava Vaidya who is not a very careful scribe. Headings and colophons are written in red ink. All folios are more or less eaten by worms; but only slight damage is done to the text. Foll. 91–100 and 186–188 are missing. Some folios are almost discoloured.

The Work:—The Mādhavanidāna, another copy, text only, cf. No. 217 above. At the end there are quotations reagarding वाजीकरण, पुष्पधन्वा नाम रसः, कामदायकम्, मुक्तापञ्चामृतरसः, and, लघुमालिनीवसन्त.

माधवनिदान of माधवकर
with मधुकोश by विजयरक्षित

Foll. 166; size 13½ in. by 8½ in.; material thick glazed bluish paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 17 lines in a page and about 46 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 164*b*, Fol. 165*a* is blank and fol. 165*b* as well as the fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The text occupies the middle and has the commentary both above and below it. The MS. is almost accurate and is dated Śaka 1782.

The Work:—The Mādhavanidāna, otherwise known as the Rugviniścayasaṃgraha, is the most authentic work on pathology composed by Mādhavakara, son of Indukara. This Mādhava cannot be identified with Mādhavācarya, the author of the Sarvadarśanasaṃgraha; for, Vācaspati, one of the commentators on this work, lived at the close of the 12th century. The date of our work has been fixed at about the 7th or the 8th century A. D. (for references see Vel., No. 180).

Our MS. also contains the Madhukośa (or Vyākhyāmadhukośa), a commentary on the Mādhvanidāna, the significance of which title is explained by the commentator Vijayarakṣita himself in his introduction. He says that he, like a bee, has gathered information from the works of Jaijjaṭa, Gadādhara, Bāṣpacandra, Cakrapāni, Bakuleśvara, Bhoja, Mādhava and others. One of the authors referred to viz. Cakrapāṇi who has written a commentary on the Suśruta, is also the author of a big compendium on therapeutics, called the Cikitsāsārasaṃgraha written about the year 1060 A. D. If this date of Cakrapāni's Cikitsāsārasaṃgraha given by Winternitz (Geschichte, III, p. 550) be correct then our commentator must have lived after 1060 i. e. at the end of the 11th and in the beginning of the 12th century A. D. at the earliest.

Vijayaraksita composed his commentary only upto the end of the 32nd chapter and the rest of the work was commented upon by his pupil, Śrīkaṇṭhadatta who has been referred to by Vācaspati, another commentator of the Mādhavnidāna. Vācaspati is said to have flourished towards the close of the twelfth century (cf. Vel., No. 180). Our commentator and his pupil may, therefore be said to belong to the 2nd and 3rd quarters of the 12th century A. D

For another MS. of this commentary see I. O., Nos 2668, and 2669. For references etc. see. NIA., II, p. 273 and also n. 6 and 8. The comm begins —

Foll. 251; size 8¼ in. by 9 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 18 lines a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. has two parts separately paginated and having their index also on separate folios The first part has seven folios for the index and 214 folios for the text; while the second part has two folios for the index and 28 for the text. Fol. 1*a* of the index of the first part and fol. 28*b* of the second part have the title. Headings and colophons are marked red. Some folios are slightly discoloured. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1744.

The Work:—The Yogataraṅgiṇī, a manual of dietetics and therapeutics in several parts called Taraṅgas composed by Trimalla, son of Vallabha who must have lived towards the end of the 14th century A. D. For the author's Dravyaguṇaśataślokī see Nos. 272-75 below. Our MS. contains only some select chapters from this big work. For another MS. containing the whole work and for quotations and authorities quoted in this work see I. O., No. 2705. This work is found in two recensions of which our MS. contains extracts from the bigger one. For the shorter recension see the next number.

Foll. 160; size 8¾ in. by 4¾ in., material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 157*b*. Foll. 1*a*, 158*a* and 158*b* are blank. There are also three separate folios in the end with the index on them. The MS. is much dilapidated and discoloured. It is also much incorrect. Folio 111 is missing.

The Work:—The Rasaratnākara is an exhaustive medical treatise comprising five parts called Khaṇḍas composed by Nityanātha, son of Pārvatī. The five Khaṇḍas are Rasakhaṇḍa, Rasendrakhaṇḍa, Vādakhaṇḍa, Rasāyanakhaṇḍa, and Mantrakhaṇḍa. Of these our MS. contains only the first two khaṇḍas comprising ten and twentynine chapters (or Upadeśas) respectively. The Rasakhaṇḍa deals with preparation of oxides etc., while the Rasendrakhaṇḍa deals with diagnosis of diseases and remedying them. For another MS. see Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 656f.

Our work is refered to by Trimalla in his Yogataraṅgiṇī and by Heramba in his Gūḍhabodhasamgraha which has been freely drawn upon by Cakrapāṇidatta who is said to have flourished in the second half of the 11th century A. D. (cf. NIA., II, p. 274). Nityanātha must, therefore, have lived at least about a century earlier than Cakrapāṇidatta, so that he may be said to belong to the later half of the tenth century at the latest.

Foll. 24; size 8¼ in. by 6 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; Fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 22b. Then follow quotations added by the scribe and also by a reader. The fly-leaf in the beginning and fol. 22b have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written by Paraśurāma Śrīdhara Deva. Stops are written in red ink. Foll. 1, 22, and 23 are slightly broken at the corners.

The Work.—A portion from the Rasaratnākara, dealing with Diabetes. For information see Nos. 223-24 above.

Foll. 31, size 9 in. by 5½ in.; material rough thin yellow paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 18 lines in a page and 44 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1b; and the first chapter ends on fol. 9b. The folios are then again numbered from one and the MS. breaks on fol. 22a (i. e. 31a from the beginning). The MS is far from being accurate and colophons are marked red.

The Work.—The Vāgbhatamaṇḍana is a small treatise in defence of Vāgbhata and his Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya. It is composed by Viṭṭhalpaṇḍita, a pupil of Rāmakaviśvara. The author refutes the charges levelled against Vāgbhata and his work by one Vidyādhara. In the course of his defence the author refers to his Dīpikā, a commentary on Vāgbhata's Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya. The present work is divided into several chapters called Prakaraṇas of which our MS. contains only ten and a portion of the 11th.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 160a. Fol. 160b has the colophon of the scribe and foll. 161b and the whole of fol. 162 are blank. Fol. 1a has the title. Besides these there are four other seperately numbered folios in the beginnig giving the index. The MS. is not very accurate. It was copied in Śaka 1712 at the instance of Veṅkājī Vithojī. Foll. 1-16 and 150-152 and all the folios of the index are slightly worm-eaten. But no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Vīrasimhāvaloka is an exhaustive medical treatise giving the threefold method of treatment of maladies based on religious law, astrology and medicine. It is compiled by Vīrasiṃha Deva, son of Devaśarman and grandson of Kamalasiṃha a descendant of Tomaravarman, the founder of a dynasty in Gwalior about 1375 A. D. According to Jolly Vīrasiṃha wrote this work in 1388 A. D. (see Jolly, Medicine, p. 5). A MS. noticed in Bhandarkar, Private MSS., pt. I, p. 125, No. 246 has a verse which also gives Saṃvat 1439 (c. 1383 A. D.) as the date of the composition of this work. Śrīpati, Citragrahayoga and Sārāvalijātaka are the astrological works often refered to by our author. He also refers to the Atreyasaṃhitā, Caraka, Suśruta, Vāgbhata, Rugviniścaya, Vṛndasaṃgraha and Tisaṭa among other works on medicine. For another MS., references, quotations etc see Vel., No. 191 and I. O Nos. 2631 and 6233.

वैद्यजीवन of लोलिम्बराज

Foll. 12; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 12*b* are left blank. The MS. was copied by Veṇunāda Vāḍekara who presented it to Lakṣmaṇabhaṭa Sahasrabhojane. The MS. is much worn out and all folios are slightly broken along the borders.

The Work:—The Vaidyajīvana is a work on pathology in five chapters called Vilāsas composed in 1633 A. D. (see No. 240 below) by Lolimbarāja, son of Divākara. This Lolimbarāja, has been wrongly identified with the author of the Harivilāskāvya, which was composed by one Lolimbarāja at the command of Harihara who is probably to be identified with the founder of the Vijayānagara empire (1336-55 A. D.) If Lolimbarāja had composed the Harivilāsa at the command of this Harihara it must have been composed before 1355 A. D. The author of the Harivilāsa must, therefore, have lived in the 14th century at the latest. This conclusion is also supported by the fact that the Harivilāsa Kāvya has been commented upon by Kamalākara, son of Caturbhuja who (i. e. Caturbhuja) composed his Haricaritkāvya in 1493 A. D. (See Krishn., p. 298). Kamalākara, the commentator of the Harivilāsakāvya must have lived in the beginnig of the 16th century; and hence the author of the Harivilāsa kāvya must have lived before the 16th century. Harivilāsa is quoted by Puruṣottamadeva (cf. Cat Catal., I, p. 761) whose Hārāvalī is quoted in the Medinikośa (cf. Cat. Catal., I, p. 765) of Medinikara who is said to have lived in the 14th century A. D. (cf. Winter., Gesch., III. p. 414 f.). The author of the Harivilāsa cannot, therefore, be identified with our Lolimbarāja, the author of the Vaidyajīvana who is said to have lived in the 17 century. A MS. of Kamalākara's commentary on the Harivilāsakāya has been noticed at Peters., Report III, p. 396. For another MS., quotations and references see Vel., No. 198. Bühler has noticed a MS. of the work under notice which is dated Saṃvat 1664 (cf. Bühler, IV, p. 241). But the work is said to have been composed in Śaka 1555 (c. 1633 A. D.). Also see No. 251 below.

Colophon:—

इति श्रीमद्दिवाकरपण्डितसुतलोलिम्बराजकृतवैद्यजीवने पञ्चमो विलासः ॥

Dated:—

शाके १६३७ मन्मथनामसंवत्सरे माघ वद्य ११ इन्दुवासरे तस्मिन् दिने वाडेकरोपनाम्ना वेणुनादेन पदार्थं लिखितम्। लक्ष्मणभट्टसहस्रभोजनेत्युपनामकवृष्णभट्टेभ्यो लिखित्वा दत्तम् ॥

After this the scribe adds the following verse.—

शाके मिते बाणनभःशरेन्दुभिः सुभानुसंवत्सरमाघमासे।
कृष्णे जयायां मणिकर्णिकायां चकार लोलिम्बकविः प्रवेशम् ॥

This verse is interesting in that it tells that Lolimbarāja died in Śaka 1505 (c. 1584 A. D.). If this be correct he must have lived in the 16th century, and not in the 17th century. But the work under notice is said to have been composed in Śaka 1555 (see No. 240 below).

वैद्यजीवन of लोलिम्बराज

Foll. 18; size 12 in. by 4 in., material coarse white paper, fair, Devanāgarī charactar; 8 or 9 lines in a page and 41 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 18*a*. Fol. 18*b* has the title. Foll. 1 and 2 are much worm-eaten and others are only slightly so. The last folio is dilapidated while others are slightly broken along the borders. The MS. is not very accurately written in Śaka 1762 by Narāyaṇa Sadāśiva.

The Work.—The Vaidyajīvana, another copy, cf. Nos. 232–234 above. At the end there is a quotation about गन्धकरसायन.

वैद्यजीवन of लोलिम्बराज with दीपिका by रुद्रभट्ट

Foll. 58; size 9 in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in., material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 or 12 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 58*b*. All folios have become somewhat brittle and some folios in the beginning are even broken. The MS. is not quite accurate.

The Work:—The Vaidyajīvana with the commentary by Rudrabhaṭṭa, son of Koneribhaṭṭa. According to the information given at the end in a Praśasti of ten stanzas it appears that Rudrabhaṭṭa had composed five commentaries on diffent sanskrit medical works of which the present one was written at the command of Mīrākhāna. Rudrabhaṭṭa's father Koneribhaṭṭa was also a physician at the court of Khānkhāna (?) and had also composed a work on medicine containing about a million ślokas. Koneribhaṭṭa's father, Viṣṇubhaṭṭa, too was a physician and his elder brother (i e. Koneribhaṭṭa's uncle) Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa was an author of one Oṅkāragrantha. Koneribhaṭṭa's great-grand father, Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa, was the author of a bhāṣya on the Carakasaṃhitā and also another work called the Sāhityasudhāsamudra. This Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa of the Māṇḍa family was patronised by one king, Rāmadevarāva who cannot be be identified with the famous Rāmadevarāva of Devagiri.

Our MS. is defective in the end and the Praśasti giving the commentator's account is missing. For another MS. and the Praśasti see Vel., No. 198.

Foll. 46; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective at both ends. Foll. 1 and 2 are missing. The MS. ends on foll. 48*b*. The text and the commentary are intermingled; but are marked by the the words श्लोक (for the text) and टी० (i. e. टीका) for the commentary. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and discoloured too.

The Work:—The Vaidyajīvana, with Rudrabhatta's commentary, another copy, cf. Nos. 236–238 above. St. 1–3 of chapter I, the stanzas from 46 to the end of chapter IV and the whole of chapter V are missing.

(and the author's life-sketch in Marāthi)

Foll. 79; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $6\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin glazed bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 or 13 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 70*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 70*b* have the title. The text occupies the middle of each folio and has the commentary both above and below it. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. Each folio is marked वै० जी० स०. In the beginning of the MS. there are nine separately numbered folios giving the life-sketch of Lolimbarāja in Marāṭhī, and also a summary of the contents of the work in the same language.

The Work:—The Vaidyajīvana with Rudrabhaṭṭa's commentary, another copy, cf. Nos. 236–239 above. This MS. also contains a short life of Lolmbarāja in Marāṭhī to-gether with a short summary of the contents of his work. According to the information given in this sketch, the work under notice was composed in Śaka 1555 (c. 1633 A. D.)

वैद्यभूषण of भीम

(नाडीप्रकरण only)

Foll. 17; size 9¼ in. by 3¾ in.; material rough thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 17*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 17*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurate.

The Work:—The Vaidyabhūṣaṇa appears to be a big work on medicine composed by Bhīma who was highly respected by Kṛṣṇarāja, king of Mahiśūrapura (i. e. Mysore) and was patronised by Cāmaraja, son of Kṛṣṇarāja. Kṛṣṇarāja was placed on the throne of Mysore by the British in 1799 A. D. He died in 1868 A. D. Cāmarāja was his adopted son. Bhima, therefore, belongs to the close of the 19th century A. D. Our MS. contains only a section of this work dealing with pulse-feeling as an aid to diagnosis.

It begins:—

This Āyurveda was studied by eight sages viz. Kāśyapa, Bhardvāja, Vasiṣṭha, Gautama, Suśruta, Ātreya, Caraka and Parāśara who individually wrote eight works each comprising one lac of ślokas.

The six sages viz. Agniviś, Śāstradaksa, Kṣirapāṇī, Parāsara, Ātilā and Melakarṇa studied these works and composed "the six Śāstras" viz. Nāḍiśāstra, Bhaiṣaja, Nayana, Yogaśātra, Jala and Manodaya respectively. It was Hārita who composed a work containing the gist of all these Śāstras; and it is after studying it that Bhīma has prepared this work.

Foll. 118; size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 12 or 13 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 113*a*. Fol. 113*b* is blank, and wrongly numbered 112. In the beginning there is a flyleaf with the title and four separately written, but the index is written rather carelessly. All the folios of the index and fol. 16 of the text are worm-eaten. The last few folios are also much discoloured and slightly torn.

The Work:—The Vaidyarahasya or Vaidyarahasyapadhati is a work on medicine by Vidyāpati, son of Vaṁśidhara surnamed Upādhyāya. It was composed in Samvat 1754 (c. 1698 A. D.) for Dyānatirāya. The author tells us that he composed this work only for the preservation of all the traditional Yogas or formulae. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 202; and I. O., No. 2694.

Foll. 32; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 16 lines in a page; and 36 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 31*b*, after which follows a quotation. The MS. is badly written. Headings are written in red ink. Marāthī equivalents for sk. names of herbs etc. are supplied above the lines in red ink. All folios are discoloured and foll. 31 and 32 are slightly broken. The MS. is far from being accurate.

The Work:—The Vaidyavallabha is a manual of medicine dealing with the treatment of various diseases in eight chapters called Vilāsas comprising 222 stanzas. It is composed in Samvat 1726 (c. 1670 A. D.) by Hastiruci, a pupil of Hitaruci, who himself was one of the pupils of Prājnodayaruci of the Tapāgaccha. For another MS. references and analysis see Vel., No. 204.

वैद्यविलास of राघव

Foll. 48, size $12\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 48*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 48*b* are blank. The MS. is carefully written, but is not quite free from inaccuracies. Headings and figures are marked red only upto fol. 10. All folios are slightly discoloured with damp.

The Work:—The Vaidyavilāsa is a medical treatise comprising 234 ślokas divided into ten chapters called Tarangas composed in 1697 A. D. by Rāghava (Raghunātha)paṇḍita, bebelonging to the Manoharakula, a resident of Campāvatī. In the same year was composed our author's Cikitsāmañjarī, for which see No. 195 above. For another MS. and quotations see I. O., No. 2695, which has only six chapters.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 20*b* have title. The MS. is much damaged and worm-eaten on all folios. It is only modertely accurate

The Work:—The Vaidyāmrta is a medical treatise in about 180 stanzas divided into four chapters called Alamkaras dealing with the treatment of various diseases. It was composed in Śaka 1503 (c. 1581 A. D.) by Moreśvara, son of Māṇikabhaṭṭa, who was also a physician, and a resident of Ahmednagar. At MC., p. 659 Mānikabakta is given as the name of our author's father and the date of the composition of the work under notice is given as Śaka 1603. But this information is not accurate.

Foll. 8; size $9\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse thick yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 26 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 8*b*. It is almost accurately written by Bābubhaṭa Mallāri Vaidya. Headings and colophons are marked red. Foll. 7 and 8 are slightly eaten by worms. The MS. is dated Śaka 1721.

The Work:—The Vaidyāvataṃsa is a popular manual in 62 stanzas in different metres composed by Lolimbarāja, the author of the Vaidyajīvana (q.v.). In the introductory stanzas the poet styles himself Kavikulasulatāna and also calls himself Kavipātaśāha in the last stanza. This shows that Lolimbarāja must have lived when the Mohamedan kings were in the ascendancy. It is not, therefore, likely that this Lolimbarāja should be the same as the author of the Harivilāsakāvya which was written at the command of Harihara. Had our Lolimbarāja been patronised by Harihara he would certainly not have called himself Sulatāna or Pātaśāha. For the probable dates of these two Lolimbarājas see Nos. 232 and 240 above. For other MSS. cf. Burnell, Tanj., Cat., p. 67 and Stein, p. 190.

Foll. 138; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 136*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 136*b* are blank. There are also two fly-leaves left blank at the end. Headings are marked red or yellow in many places. The MS. is far from being accurate.

The Work:—The Śārṅgadharasaṃhitā is a big treatise on therapeutics composed by Śārṅgadhara, son of Dāmodara who cannot be identified with the author of the Śārṅgadharapaddhati. For other MSS., analysis etc. see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 748; and Weber, Berl. Cat., Nos. 935, 936. For discussion about the probable date etc. see Vel., No. 209.

Foll. 113; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line

The MS. consists of two parts separately paginated, having 22 and 91 folios respectively. A fly-leaf in the beginning has the title; and foll. 20*b* and 21*a* are blank. Fol. 1-3 of the first part appear to have been supplied by some later scribe for the original ones which must have been missing. The scribe Mādhavapandita is a careful writer and the MS. is almost accurate. Foll. 1*a* and 91*a* and b of the second part are left blank. The MS. is dated Śaka 1774.

The Work —The Śārngadharasamhitā, another copy, cf. No. 252 above.

The scribe adds two verses in the beginning:—

Foll. 120; size 12 in. by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 10 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. contains three parts seperately paginated. Every part has the title on fol. 1*a* and begins on fol. 1*b*. At the end of the first two parts there is a fly-leaf with the title; while folio 34*b* of the 3rd part has the title. Krsna Dhundirāja Bhātavadekara is a very careful writer. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1766-1767. Headings and figures are marked red, and in some places they are written in red ink. Foll 15-45 of the second part are much worm-eaten.

Foll. 78; size 9¾ in. by 5 in.; material coarse rough yellow or blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 to 13 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 78*b*. The foll. are several times numbered in sections, though running numbers are also given to all of them. The MS. is far from being accurate.

The Work.—This is some medical treatise with pathology and allied topics. This MS. is only a patchwork of two or more MSS.; and hence we find in it a number of repetitions. Thus for example, foll. 19-22, 23-24, 32-33, 35-37, and 48-53 correspond to foll. 64-66, 62-63, 71-72, 76-78 and 72-74 respectively.

Some वैद्यकग्रन्थ

Foll. 32; size 9¼ in. by 5¼ in; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 or 12 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 32*b*. It is almost accurate. Some folios are, however, written very badly. The last folio is slightly torn.

The Work·—This is some medical treatise dealing with the eightfold method of diagnosis and preparation of Rasa, Gutī etc. Fragmentary. Also see No. 212 above which begins with a stanza that is indentical with st. 2 here. The two works, however, dare not identical.

It begins.—

with टीका (Anon)

Foll. 21; size 9¾ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; good. Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 21*b*. It is almost accurate.

The Work:—The Astamahāmātrā is a medical treatise giving the method of preparing the Mātrās and also their uses. The work is apparently divided into eight parts and comprises about 75 stanzas. Our MS. also contains a commentary which is given at the end of the text of each part. The name of author or even the commentator is not given.

आयुर्वेदप्रकाश (पाकावली only) of माधव

Foll. 38; size 10 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., material coarse white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks on fol. 38*b*. It is very inaccurate and many corrections have been introduced by the scribe himself. All folios are more or less worm-eaten on the left hand border, but no damage is done to the text. —

The Work:—The Āyurvedaprakāśa of Mādhava, only that section which gives directions for the preparation of various decoctions. This part is generally called the Pākāvalī. Our MS. breaks with Āmra-pāka. See I. O., Nos. 2696-97. Also see No. 188 above, for another section of this work.

It begins:—

आयुर्वेदप्रकाश of माधव (पाकावली only)

Foll. 25; size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 to 14 lines in a page and 25 to 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 24*a*. Fol. 1*a* has a quotations from Cikitsāsāgara. An additional folio in the beginning has the index. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. The last two folios are very thin and the text on them is hardly legible.

The Work:—The Āyurveda-prakāśa of Mādhava, Pākāvalī only, another copy, cf. No. 264 above.

आयुर्वेदमहोदधि of सुषेण

Foll. 9, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Fol. 9*b* is blank. The MS. is almost accurate; and is copied in Śaka 1779 by Govinda Mayūra Āmbḍekara.

The Work:—The Āyurvedamhodadhi appears to be an exhaustive work on medicine composed by Suṣeṇa. Our MS. contains only a section of it giving the medical qualities of various articles of daily consumption. For another MS. containing this very section see I. O., No. 2732. Annapānvidhi appears to be the title of this section.

It begins:—

आयुर्वेदमहोदधि of सुषेण

Foll. 14; size 7 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper, bad, Devanāgarī character, 12 lines in a page and 26 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1 and 2 being missing. It ends on fol. 15*b*; and then follows a quotation added by the scribe which ends on fol. 16*a*, fol. 16*b* is blank. The MS. is for from being accurate.

The Work:—The Āyurvedmahodadhi of Suṣeṇa, only that section which gives the medical qualities of various articles of daily consumption. Incomplete. It begins in the middle of Iksuvarga and ends with Tāmbūlavarga, another fragmentary copy, cf. No. 266 above.

Foll. 31; size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, Foll. 1-7 being missing. It is much old and ink has faded away on many folios. All folios are more or less eaten by worms. Fol. 8 is also torn. Headings and colophons are marked red. Fol. 14*b* is left blank. The MS. is dated Śaka 1468.

The Work:—The Āyurvedamahodadhi, the the section dealing with the articles of daily consumption. Our MS. also appears to contain a quotation from the Vaidyasārasamuccaya. But the MS. has become hard to read on many folios and it is impossible to make out where the one ends and the other begins.

Foll. 16; size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 15*b*. A fly-leaf is left blank at the end. The MS. is not quite free from innaccuracies. The text and the commentary are intermingled. All folios are discoloured

The Work:—The Āścaryaratnamālā or Yogaratnamālā or Āscaryayogamālā is a small metrical treatise on medicine in 140 stanzas composed by Nāgārjuna, a pupil of Bhāskara. At Mitra, Notices, No. 1954 it is wrongly described as being an extract from a larger work. The author himself tells us he has picked only some jewels from the ocean (Ratnākara) of his teachers doctrines (Gurumata).

The Yogaratnamālā noticed at Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 569 is only a manual of the first principles of the Yoga doctrine and is quite different from the present one, though it is put down as a medical work by Aurfrecht, in his Cat. Catal., I, p. 478.

This work of Nāgārjuna is commented upon by a Śvetāmbara Jain physician named Guṇākara in Saṃvat 1296. (c. 1240 A. D.).

Our MS. contains both the text as well as the commentary intermingled with one another. For quotations etc. see Auf., Bodl. Cat, No. 761, and Mitra, Notices, No 1954. Our commentator is obviously different from Guṇakara, the pupil of Guṇacandra, who composed his commentary on the Bhaktāmarastotra in Saṃvat 1426. (cf. Vel. 1817).

द्रव्यगुणशतश्लोकी of त्रिमल्ल

Foll. 14, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 13*b*, fol. 1*a* and 14*b* have the title. Fol. 14*a* is left blank. The MS. is far from being accurate. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Dravyaguṇaśataślokī (or simply Śataślokī) is a medical work giving in 102 stanzas the medical qualities of various articles of every-day consumption divided into several vargas. It is composed by Trimallabhaṭṭa, son of Vallabhabhatta, grandson of Siṅghaṇabhaṭṭa (a Telagu Brahmaṇa, resident of Benares) and brother of Rāma and Gopa. Trimalla's date is said to fall between 1383 A. D. and 1499 A. D. For another MS. of this work and references etc. see Vel., No. 175. This work is also otherwise called the Pathyāpathyanighaṇṭu. For the author's Yogataraṅgiṇī see Nos. 221–222 above.

द्रव्यगुणशतश्लोकी of त्रिमल्ल

Foll. 31; size 9 in. by 5 in.; material coarse thin dark yellowish paper, bad, Devanāgarī character, 6 or 7 lines in a page and 20 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 31*b*. It is far from being accurate. The last two folios are slightly worm-eaten. It is copied by Nimbābhaṭṭa Śukla.

The Work:—The Dravyaguṇaśataśloki, another copy, cf. No. 272 above.

Colophon:—

द्रव्यगुणशतश्लोकी of त्रिमल्ल

Foll. 15; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks on fol. 15*b*. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. All folios are slightly torn and worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Dravyaguṇaśataślokī, another copy, cf. Nos. 272-73 above. Defective in the end. Breaks in the middle of the last varga with st. 100.

द्रव्यगुणशतश्लोकी of त्रिमल्ल

with द्रव्यदीपिका by कृष्णदत्त

Foll. 39; size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in., material thin rough yellowish dark paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 11 lines in a page and 55 to 65 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 37*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The fly-leaves at both the ends have the title and also the number of folios. The MS. is quite free from inaccuracies. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below it. Foll. 1, 2, 35-37 and fly-leaves are slightly broken. Fol. 13 is much broken and damaged.

The Work:—The Dravyaguṇaśataślokī with Dravyadīpikā, a commentary thereon, composed by Kṛṣṇadatta, son of Śivadatta, who himself was a son and pupil of Caturbhuja, a man commanding the respect of all. For another MS. containing this commentary see Bhandarkar, Reports, 1884-87, No. 922. Śivadatta, our commentator's father composed his Śivakośa in 1627 A. D. (cf. Auf., Bodl. Cat., p. 195*a*).

The comm. begins:—

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वतरि

Foll. 289; size 8 in. by 4 in., material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 5 lines a page and about 25 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. Foll. 39, 50, 51, 160, 176, 177, 294 and 295 are also missing. Same folios are slightly discoloured and fol. 2, 296-298 are also slightly broken. The text is not damaged. The MS is almost accurate. It is dated Śaka 1560.

The Work:—The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu is a manual of materia medica composed by Dhanvantari who according to Kṣīrasvāmin is older than Amara. But on account of the mention of quicksilver in this work, Winternitz thinks that the work as we have it before us cannot be in its original form. (cf. Winter. Geschichte, III, p. 553); also see No. 278 below.

This work is found in two different recensions one containing seven parts and the other containing nine. This MS. contains the work in seven parts only. It is defective in the beginning for another MS. and quotations see Vel., No. 176. For the other recension see Nos. 280-81 below.

It ends.—

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वन्तरि

Foll. 88; size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 6 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 87*a*. Fol. 87*b* and the fly-leaf at the end are blank. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. Many folios are discoloured and fol. 1 is also torn.

The Work:—The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu, another copy, cf. No. 276 above. Breaks in the middle of the last i. e the seventh varga.

B. M. C. 52. 1].

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वन्तरि

Foll. 132; size 10 in. by $5\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material thick yellowish white paper, fair, Devanāgarī charecter; 10 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. It ends on fol. 132*b*. Fol. 133*a* has the colophon and fol. 133*b* has the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1772 by Śivarāma Gurjara and once belonged to Trymbakabhaṭṭa Vaidya. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu in seven parts, another copy, cf. Nos. 276-277 above. It is defective in the beginning.

It ends:—

इति धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टौ रसवीर्यसहिते सप्तमो वर्गः।
इतीदमुक्तमखिलं निघण्टं ज्ञानमुत्तमम्।

The verse cited above after the colophon appears to confirm the opinion of Dr. Winternitz that the work as we have it at present is not to be found in its original form. It appears from that verse that the Nighaṇṭu was again worked upon and remodelled by Kāśyapa who must have tried to add some information to the older work of Dhanvantari in order to bring the work upto-date. But this stanza is not found in other MSS. noticed elsewhere and it is not easy to identify the Kāśyapa mentioned in it.

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वन्तरि

Foll. 85; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 85*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 85*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1779 by Govind Mayūra Āmbḍekara. Headings are marked red and the folios are almost all slightly worn out.

The Work —The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu, another copy, cf. Nos. 276-278 above. Complete in seven vargas.

Dated:—

शके १७७९ पिङ्गलब्दे भाद्रकृष्ण ९ भौमे आंब्डेकरोपनाम्ना मयूरात्मजगोविन्देन लिखितम्॥ श्रीशुक॥

B. M. C. 33. 7].

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वन्तरि

Foll. 165; size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; material thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 144*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. It is almost accurately written. In the beginning there are 18 separately numbered folios with the index having one fly-leaf at either end. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title, while that at the end is left blank.

The Work:—The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu, bigger recension in nine vargas together with four more sections forming a sort of vocabulary of names having one, two, three or more than three senses. For another MS. see Auf, Bodl. Cat., No. 541. For the shorter recension see Nos. 276-279 above.

At the end of the 9th varga on fol. 136b we get two verses giving the names of all the vargas —

गुडूच्यादिः शतपुष्पस्तथान्यश्चन्दनादिकः ।
करवीरादि आम्रादि सुवर्णादिविमिश्रितः ॥ १६ ॥
विषोपविषवर्गश्च व(r वि)षहारि तथैव च ।
इत्येवमेते क्रमशो वर्गा नव प्रकीर्तिताः ॥ १७ ॥
इति नवमो वर्गः ॥

Then follow the other sections which are introduced by the following two verses:—

प्राक्सूचितानां वर्गाणामस्मिन्नामविनिश्चये ।
निघण्टोरुत्तरं वक्ष्ये द्रव्याण्यत्राश्रितानि तु ॥ १ ॥
एकार्थानि च व्यर्थानि नानार्थानि तथैव च ।

धन्वन्तरीयनिघण्टु of धन्वन्तरि

Foll. 6; size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; about 12 lines in a page and about 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and breaks off on fol. 5b. The fly-leaf at the end is left blank. The MS. is not very accurately written by Nimbābhaṭṭa Śukla.

The Work:—The Dhanvantarīyanighaṇṭu, the 8th and the 9th vargas together with the four sections containing the vocabulary. cf. No. 280 above. It is defective at the end and breaks in the middle of the 3rd stanza of the last section (viz. Anekārthanāmāni) of the vocabulary.

Foll. 23; size 12 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. is far from being accurate. All folios are much discoloured. The last folio is slightly torn.

The Work:—The Dhātumāraṇa is a small metrical work giving the medical process of preparing oxides and other compounds of gold and various other metals. Anonymous.

It begins —

अथ स्वर्णादिधातूनां शोधनमारणानि लिख्यन्ते ।

धातुरत्नमाला (from अश्विनीकुमारसंहिता)

Foll. 14; size 9 in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 12b. Fol. 1a has the title. The MS. is only moderately accurate. Headings are marked red. In the beginning there are two unnumbered folios, one having the title and the other having the index.

The Work:—The Dhāturatnamālā is an elementary treatise on the preparation of oxides and other compounds of gold and other metals. For another MS., practically agreeing with ours, but wanting the two introductory stanzas that are found here, see Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 637. There this work appears as forming part of a biggei work named Aśvinīkumārasaṃhitā.

It begins:—

Foll. 18; size 9 in. by 5¾ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 23 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 18*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 18*b* have the title, inscribed in a diagram. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately written. All folios are slightly broken along the edges, but no damage is done to the text on any folio.

The Work.—The Dhāturatnamālā, another copy, cf. No. 283 above.

It begins:—

Foll. 35; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 35*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank and fol. 35*b* has the title. There is also a fly-leaf in the beginning which has the title.

The Work:—The Nighaṇṭu is a materia medica in several parts. Our MS. contains only the first four parts (vargas) of which the fourth is incomplete. In some places the original text also appears to be intermingled with a sort of commentary; but the beginning of the commentaiy cannot be traced.

It begins:—

Foll. 325, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $6\frac{3}{4}$ in material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 325a. Foll 1a and 325b have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written. Foll. 1-3 and 323-325 are slightly worm-eaten; but no damage is done to the text.

The Work —The Nighaṇṭarāja (or Rājanighaṇṭa) is a dictionary of materia medica composed by Naraharipaṇḍita, a resident of Kāśmīra, son of Īśvarasūri, descendant of Somānanda and a pupil of Amṛteśānanda. The work is also called the Abhidhānacūḍāmaṇi. For another MS. and full quotations and analysis see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No 765. According to Winternitz (cf. Geschichte, III, p. 554) the work was composed beetween 1235 and 1250. (Also cf. I. O., No. 2743). But this is not correct. Narahari in his introduction tells us that he had studied Madana (=Madana-vinoda-nighaṇṭu) among other works. Also see the introductory verse below which is found in all MSS. and for which our author, is evidently indebted to Sāyaṇācārya. Our author, therefore, cannot have written this work before the year 1374 which is the date of the work of Madanpāla. It is published in the AS. Series., No. 33. For editions and references see I. O., Nos. 2743 and 6246.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 5*b*. It is far from being accurate. All folios are slightly broken and discoloured. Fol. 5 is much torn.

The Work:—The Yogacandrikā is a treatise giving descriptions of various medicinal plants and articles of food in 38 chapters composed by Lakṣmaṇa Paṇḍita, son of Datta and pupil of Nāganātha and Nārāyaṇa. His younger brother was named Viṭṭhala while the names of his elder brothers were Gaṇeśa, Raghunātha and Rāma. Nāganātha and Nārāyana, our author's preceptors, were two brothers, residents of Benares. Of these the elder, Nāganātha, the preceptor of the younger, Nārāyaṇa, has written a commentary on the Mādhavanidāna. (See I. O., No. 2671). Nārāyaṇa also has written a commentary on the Triśatī of Śārṅgadhara for which see No. 209 above.

Our MS. contains only fifty-three verses from the first chapter of this big work which comprises thirtyeight chapters. For a complete MS. of this work see I. O., No. 2753.

Foll. 135, size $13\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{3}{4}$ in., material thin glazed bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 to 13 lines in a page and 45 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 135*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 135*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written by Kāśīnātha Phaḍake, a resident of Naragunda. The MS. is much worn out and also slightly worm-eaten. Foll. 76 to 92 are written by a different hand. Headings and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Yogacintāmaṇi is a medical treatise in seven chapters dealing with modes of preparing medical decoctions, powders, pills etc. composed by Harṣakīrti Sūri the royal sage of the Tapā Gaccha of Nāgapūra and pupil of Candrakīrti. Harṣakīrti has also composed a lexicon called the Nāma-mālā for which see No. 121 above. He must have lived about Saṃvat 1635 (c. 1578-9 A. D.), the year in which a MS. of Nyāyāvatāra was copied for him. (cf No. 91 of 1873-1874 of B O. R. I. Poona.). Yogapradīpa and Yogaśata are described by our author as being two works of great fame and merit. For another MS. see Mitra, Bik. योगशतक of वररुचि

Foll. 18, size 8½ in. by 4 in., material coarse yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 18*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 18*b* have the title. The MS. is only of moderate accuracy and is profusely marked red. All folios are slightly torn and worm-eaten, but the text is not damaged.

The Work.—The Yogaśataka is a small metrical treatise comprising 154 verses dealing with some medicinal preparations to be used as specific remedies against particular diseases. This work is variously ascribed to more than one authors in various places. Thus our MS. ascribes it to Vararuci Paṇḍita. According to Nandalāla, a commentator on this work (see No. 302 below) the author's name is Ananta Yogīśvara. Being misled by the expression विदग्धवैद्यप्रतिपूजितस्य occuring in the work in the 3rd line of the 1st stanza, some have ascribed the work to Vidagdhavaidya (cf. Stein, p. 106). At Mitra, Notices, IX, p. 204 it is described as a work of Vararuci. Dr. Jolly also refers to a MS. of the Yogaśataka ascribed to Nāgārjuna, accompanied by the commentary of Dhanvapāla. This MS. is dated 1415 A. D. (cf. Jolly, Medicine, p. 125).

The work seems to have two recensions, the bigger one called the Vṛddhayogaśataka and the smaller one called simply Yogaśataka. The number of stanzas in the smaller recension varies from 101 to 154. Very often the number is only 106, while the remaining verses occur only as quotations added at the end. The number of stanzas in the bigger recension varies between 200 and 400.

A comparison of the texts of the various MSS. shows that in each MS. there are a number of verses which are not found in any other MS., while there are some verses which are found in some other MSS. only. In fact there are very few verses which are common to all MSS. including the MSS. of even the bigger recension. It would thus appear that the Yogaśataka had no fixed text. It is, however, remarkable that the beginning and the end of all these MSS. including even those of the Vṛddhayogaśataka are the same. Thus it is probable that originally some stanzas not necessarily hundred were grouped together by some author under the name Yogaśataka, not because the work comprised 100 stanzas, but possibly because it gave 100 Yogas or specific preparations. Such is, in fact, the interpretation put on the name by the commentator Nandalāla. See No. 302 below. In course of time, however, the work was altered or enlarged by addition of similar stanzas from some other sources, which came in first as quotations but were eventually incorporated into the text itself.

The popularity of this work can very well be seen from the number of commentaries that have been composed on it. Nandalāla's Anvayacandrikā and the commentary of Dhanvpāla have already been referred to above. Besides these, three more commentaries have been noticed—Yogaśatakabhāsya by Amitaprabha (cf. I. O., No. 2756); Yogaśatakaṭīkā by Rūpanārāyana (cf. I. O., No. 2757) and a ṭīkā by Sūryasena (cf. Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 962). For another MS. containing 105 stanzas see Vel., No. 186 where, as in our MS., the work is ascribed to vararuci.

Foll. 14; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material thin rough bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 7 to 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 14*a*. Fol. 14*b* has the title. The MS. is only moderately correct. The first four verses are written in small characters.

Foll. 14; size 10½ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 or 9 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. All folios are slightly worm-eaten. Foll. 1-4 are slightly torn. Headings, figures and stops are written in red ink. The MS. is dated Saṃvat 1625.

The Work.—The Yogaśataka in 106 stanzas, another copy, cf. Nos. 296-99 above.

Dated:—

योगशतक

Foll. 18, size 8 in. by 4 in; material rough thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. It ends on fol. 19*b*. The MS. is neatly copied by Mahādeva Tryambaka.

The Work:—The Yogaśataka in 123 stazas, another copy, cf. Nos. 296-300 above. Stanzas 101-123 of this MS. appear in the next number as only a quotation.

with अन्वयचन्द्रिका by नन्दलाल

Foll. 50; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 or 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 50*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 50*b* have the title. The MS. is very badly written and is far from being accurate. It is copied in Śaka 1705 by Keśava, Sadāśiva Vaidya. The text and the commentary are intermingled. On many folios some reader has added some quotations at the top or the bottom. The scribe has also left a number of lacunae in the MS.

The Work —The Yogaśataka in 123 stanzas together with the Anvayacandrikā, a commentary thereon composed by Nandalāla who has commented only on 107 stanzas; and has left the rest without even noticing them. According to the commentator, the author of the Yogaśataka is Anantayogīśvarācārya. Nandalāla mentions Kalyāṇa as his Guru; and if this Kalyāṇa is the same as the author of the Bālatantra (composed 1587 A. D.), our commentator must have lived towards the close of the 16th century A. D.

रसप्रकरण (from रसपारिजात) of लक्ष्मीधरसरस्वती

Foll. 30; size 13 in. by 4 in.; material thick glazed dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 to 9 lines in a page and 54 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 2*b* and ends on fol. 30*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and foll. 1*b* and 2*a* are left blank. The MS. is almost accurate.

The Work.—The Rasaprakaraṇa is a section from a bigger work called the Rasapārijāta giving information about the preparation of various Rasas to be used as specific remedies against various diseases. It is composed by Lakṣmīdharasarasvatī. But the colophon attributes the work to Sakala-vaidya-śiromaṇi which, however, is only a sort of title and not a proper name. For another MS. see Bhand., List. I, No. 235.

It begins:—

Foll. 32; size 8½ in. by 6½ in.; material thin rough bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 30*a*. Fol. 31*b* has the colophon and a quotation in Marāṭhī. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1783. Some Marāṭhī synonyms are supplied for the original words. Headings are marked red. All folios are slightly worm-eaten; but no damage is done to the text.

रसरत्नप्रदीप of रामराज

Foll. 45; size 9¼ in. by 5 in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 45*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. Headings and colophons are maked red. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Rasaratnapradīpa (also called Rasaratnadīpa or °dīpaka) is a small work on the practice of medicine in five chapters called Adhikāras composed by Rāmarāja, son of Ratna of the Tākā family by the order of king Sādhāraṇa, who perhaps might be the same as the father of Madanpāla, the author of the Madanavinoda. For other MSS. see Stein., No. 187, Peters., Ulwar Cat., No. 1663; and Extracts, No. 425.

It begins.—

Foll. 163; size 11¾ in. by 4¼ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 161a. Foll. 1a and 161b are blank. There are two fly-leaves, one at each end, with the title. The MS. is almost accurate. Foll. 9–34; 49–54 and 71–94 are slightly worm-eaten. The first eight folios were obviously missing and hence replaced by twelve folios not regularly numbered. The MS. once belonged to Dr. Bhālacandra Bhātavaḍekara.

The Work:—The Rasaratnasamuccaya is an exhaustive treatise giving directions for the preparation of various specific medicines. It is composed by Vāgbhaṭa, son of Saṅghagupta. From a verse occuring on fol. 12a it would appear that king Somadeva is the author of this work while the colophon at the end wrongly makes the author (i. e. Vāgbhaṭa) a son of Dāmodara. The work comprises thirty chapters (Adhyāyas).

It begins:—

Foll. 5; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character: 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 5*b*. It is not quite free from inaccuracies. All folios are much discoloured.

The Work:—The Rasasāra is an exhaustive medical treatise in twentyfive chapters called Paṭalas composed by Govinda who declares that he has studied all Śāstras before composing this work. Govindācārya is a pupil of Śrīdhara; and Rasahṛdaya is said to be another work composed by him. At vel., No. 192 the author of the Rasahṛdaya is said to be Govindabhiksu who is descsibed as having composed the work at the request of a Kairāta prince.

Our MS. contains only the 21st chapter dealing with Divya Osadhīs and a portion of the following chapter which deals with Yantras or mystic diagrams. For a complete MS. of this work see Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 70.

Foll. 362, size 8 in. by 4½ in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of several parts, separately paginated and dealing with different topics. Fol. 86 is missing and is substituted by two other folios of smaller size bearing the same number. Nos. 59, 61 and 204 are omitted; the folio after fol. 130 is left unnumbered and No. 128 is given to two folios. Foll. 208 and 209 contain different versions of the same text; and foll. 274 and 295 are again copied on two separate folios with slight variations.

The Work.—A medical treatise dealing with the process of preparing certain medicines. This work appears to be based on various authorities which are given on a fly-leaf in the beginning, for which see below.

रसेन्द्रचिन्तामणि of रामचन्द्र

with टीका (स्वोपज्ञ)

Foll. 20, size 7 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., material thick glazed bluish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 or 10 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 20*b*. Foll. 1–10 are bluish: while foll. 11–20 are yellowish.

The Work:—The Rasendracintāmaṇi is an exhaustive medical treatise in 8 chapters dealing with the preparation of chemical powders, oxides etc. composed by Rāmacandra of the Guha family. The author tells us that he has composed this work in order to expound various processes (Saṃskāra) which are backed up by experience, though not explicitely stated in any work on medicine. Our MS. contains only the first three Adhyāyas, together with a brief commentary which is very probably composed by the author himself. For a complete MS. see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 762 and Weber, Berl. Cat., p. 299. It is also printed at Calcutta in 1878.

The text begins:—

Foll. 50; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 50*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is much broken on many folios. Figures and headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Vrddhayogaśataka or the larger recension of the Yogaśataka (cf. Nos. 296-302 above). According to the information found in this MS. the work is composed by Gaudavamśatilaka who is also a prominent physician. For a detailed discussion about the recensions and authorship of this work see No. 296 above.

Foll. 270; size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 5 in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11–13 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. appears to be defective in the beginning, though no folio seems to be actually missing. It begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 270*b*. Foll. 50*b*, 231*b* and 269*b* are blank. Fol. 1*a* has the title संग्रहवृन्द in the left margin. Foll. 125–223 and 230 are missing. The MS. is also full of lacunae in several places.

The Work:—The Vrndasamgraha, also called Vrndamādhava, is a manual of remedies against various diseases. It is otherwise known as Siddhiyoga. The author has so closely followed the Rugviniścaya of Mādhavakara that Heornley is tempted to establish an identity between Vrnda and Mādhavakara. Both the works according to him, belong to the same author. Cf. Wint., Gesch., III., p. 550. It is published with Śrīkanthadatta's commentary (Kusumāvali) in the AS. Series.

Foll. 14; size 13½ in. by 8½ in.; material thick glazed yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 18 lines in a page and 53 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 14*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1782. Foll. 1 and 14 are slightly discoloured. All folios are marked आ० सि० or म० सि०.

The Work:—The Mahāsiddhānta of Āryabhaṭṭa comprising 630 stanzas divided into 18 chapters dealing with astronomical matters. This Āryabhaṭṭa is quite different from the author of the Laghusiddhānta who was born in 476 A. D. Mr. Dīkṣita places this Āryabhaṭṭa somewhere about Śaka 875 (c. 953 A. D.) cf. Dīkṣita, pp. 230ff. Also see Wint., Gesch., III, pp. 562f. For analysis see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 770.

Foll. 50; size 13¼ in. by 8½ in.; material coarse dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 48 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 50*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The text and commentary are intermingled. The MS. is much dilapidated and worm-eaten. This MS. appears to be the original from which the MS. noticed under No. 329 above was copied. All folios are much discoloured with damp. Colophons are marked red.

आर्यसिद्धान्त(लघु) of आर्यभट्ट

Foll. 6; size 13 in. by 4¼ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 56 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 5*a*. Fol. 5*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1785 from an old MS. dated Śaka 1760. The colophon is written in pale red ink.

The Work:—The Laghusiddhānta of Āryabhatta in 123 stanzas divided into four chapters (Adhyāyas). The last three Adhyāyas of this work comprising 108 stanzas are known as Aṣṭaśatī; and form according to some an altogether different work. But chapter I is quite necessary for the understanding of the remaining chapters and hence it cannot be said to be spurious. For the whole problem see J. F. Fleet, J. R. A. S., 1911, p. 109-26. Also cf. I. O., No. 6263 for other references.

Ch. I which is called Daśagītikāsūtra contains 15 stanzas in our MS. The other chapters called Gaṇitapāda, Kālakriyāpāda and Golapāda contain 33, 25 and 50 stanzas respectively.

Āryabhaṭṭa was born in 476 A. D. and wrote this work at the age of 23 in the year 3600 of the Kali age (c. 499 A. D.) at Kusumapura (Pāṭaliputra). None of his works has come down to us except the one under notice, though he is said to have written some other works. He is the first (or one of the first) astronomer who brought together in a concise form the system that was already developed in the Siddhāntas and improved it into one single work. He is not to be identified with the author of the Mahāsiddhānta, who lived in the 10th century A. D. (see No. 325 above.)

The work is popularly called Āryabhaṭīya, which name also appears in st. 50 of the 4th Adhyāya quoted below It has been edited with Paramādīśvara's Bhatadīpikā by Kern in 1874 cf. Winter., Gesch., III, p. 562.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 3*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is blank. The

MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1782 by Bhāskara Bāpūjī Āthalye from another MS. of Śaka 1611 sent by Dr.Buhler. A few lacunae are left in the body of this MS.

Foll. 17; size 13 in. by $8\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 27 to 32 lines in a page and 25-28 letters in a line.

The MS. is in two parts; the first part in 9 folios having the text and the second having the translation in 7 folios. The text is excellently written; but some lacunae are left in the body. All figures and colophons are in red ink. The translation is very carelessly written by a differnt hand on a different kind of paper. The folios are numbered like the pages of a book.

The Work:—The Laghusiddhānta of Āryabhaṭa, another copy, cf. Nos. 331-334 above. This MS. also contains a translation of this work into Marāṭhī composed by an unknown writer in 1860 A. D.

Foll. 35; size $13\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $8\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 43 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*a*. Fol. 3*b* is blank. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at the end have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1785 by Dayārāma of Ahmedabad. Many blanks are left in the body and yellow pigment is occasionally used for correcting the slips.

The Work —The Laghusiddhānta of Āryabhaṭṭa with the Vāsanābhāsya, a commentary thereon, by Someśvara. For other MSS. see Mitra, Notices, No. 1568; and Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 1731.

From the closing stanza of the commentary it appears that Someśvara was well up in logic, grammar and other allied sciences; and that here he has freely drawn upon another bigger commentary on this Siddhānta, composed by Bhāskara. He must, therefore have lived later than the middle of the 12th century A. D.

Foll. 9, size 9½ in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 13 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Fol. 9*b* has a quotation. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Vidyādhara Ramākānta Daivajña in Śaka 1762 All folios are slightly discoloured. Fol. 1*a* has some quotations scribled on it.

The Work·—The Karaṇakutūhala, also called the Grahāgamakutūhala or Brahamatulya, is a work on astronomical calculations in ten chapters composed in 1183 A. D. by Bhāskara, son of Maheśvara of Vijjala viḍa. Bhāskara, was born in 1114 A. D. and completed his Siddhāntaśiromaṇi in 1150 A. D. (cf. Nos. 384-89 below). For other MSS. and references cf. Vel., Nos. 216-220.

According to Bhāskara himself this work is similar to Brahmasiddhānta (cf. the expression Brahmasiddhāntatulya in st. 1 below). But Mr. Dīksita remarks that it agrees with the Rājamrgāṅkoktabījasaṃskṛta Brahmasiddhānta (see Dīksita, p. 252).

करणप्रकाश of ब्रह्मदेव

Foll. 11; size 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 11*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 11*b* have the title. The MS. is neatly written by Trimbaka Gaṅgādhara Daivajña in Śaka 1714. All folios are discoloured with damp in one corner, and are also sligthtly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Karaṇa-prakāśa is a manual of astronomical calculations in about 120 stanzas divided into 10 chapters composed about 1092 A. D. by Brahmadeva, son of Candrabhatta (or candrabudha cf. Stein. p. 156) a resident of Mathurā. For other MSS. and analysis of contents see Vel., No. 223 and I. O., No. 2918. This work has been commented upon by Dāmodara, son and pupil of Padmanābha who wrote some astronomical work in 1417 A. D. cf. I. O., No. 2915, Dīkṣita, pp. 255-57 and Bhand., Reports, 1882-83, p. 28. The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 19*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 19*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1765 by Nārāyaṇa Sakhārāma Daivajña. All folios are much worm-eaten in the left margin but the text is much damaged.

The Work:—A small treatise professing to facilitate the work of astronomical calculations as required in the work called Grahalāghava. It is composed by Kṛṣṇarāma. It is not certain whether our author is to be identified with the author of the Jyotiḥsaṃgrahaśiśuhita which was composed in 1798 A. D. (cf. Cat. Catal., I, p. 123*a*).

ग्रहप्रदीप

Foll. 6; size $10\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 5 in; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 6*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the the name Balabhadra, perhaps the owner and scribe. It is almost correct. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and also discoloured owing to the chemical action of ink. But the text is not damaged.

The Work:—The Grahapradīpa is a manual of astronomical calculations based on the Ārya-siddhānta, composed about Śaka 1287 (c. 1365 A. D.) which is taken as the basis for calculations. The work is obviously incomplete and breaks with the chapter on Sūryagrahaṇa. There is no colophon giving the name of the work or that of the author.

It begins:—

ग्रहप्रबोध of नागेश

Foll. 5; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 5*a*. Fol. 5*b* is blank. The MS. is badly written and is only moderately correct. All folios are slightly discoloured.

The Work:—The Grahaprabodha is a small astronomical work in 37 stanzas composed by Nāgeśa Diavajña son of Śiva Daivjña and grandson of Tukeśvara of the Gārgya Gotra. Nāgeśa must have lived about 1630 A. D.; for, in his Nirṇayatatva (q. v.) he refers to Nirṇayasindhu (composed 1612 A. D.) and also because he takes Śaka 1541 (c. 1629-30 A. D.) as basis for calculations. For another MS. and references see Vel., No. 232. Cf. also Dīkṣita, p. 285f.

ग्रहलाघव of गणेशदैवज्ञ

Foll. 25, size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 11 lines in a page and 25 to 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 25*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 25*b* is blank. All folios are much worm-eaten fol. 25 is much damaged and fol. 8*b* is left blank. The MS. is of moderate accuracy.

The Work:—The Grahalāghava is an astronomical treatise in 16 chapters composed in 1520 A. D. by Gaṇeśa Daivajña, son of Keśava Daivajña of Nandigrāma. For another MS. see Vel., No. 234 where is also given a list of some of the works composed by Gaṇeśa. For full information about the author see Dīkṣita, pp. 259-267. Viśvanātha, a follower of Gaṇeśa, in his commentary on this work gives two stanzas giving the names of all the works composed by Gaṇeśa Daivajña and tells us that these stanzas are found in another commentary on this work, composed by Nṛsiṃha Daivajña, the nephew of Gaṇeśa Daivajña himself. See No. 347 below.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. It ends on fol. 12*a* after which follows a quotation. The MS. is torn and mutilated on almost all folios.

The Work.—The Grahalāghava of Gaṇeśa, another copy, cf. No. 344 above.

with मनोरमा by गङ्गाधर

Foll. about 10; size 9 in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 34 letters in a line.

The MS. contains only stray folios. It is not very neatly written and is only moderately correct. All folios are also worn out.

The Work:—Some stray folios from Gaṇeśa's Grahalāghava together with Manoramā, a commentary thereon composed in Śaka 1508 (c. 1586 A. D.) by Gaṅgādhara, son of Nārāyaṇa Cāturmāsyayājin (author of the Muhūrtamārtaṇḍa, composed in 1571 A. D.). For another MS. of this commentary see Bhand., Reports. V, No. 837. For information about the commentator see Dīkṣita, p. 277. Our commentator has also written a commentary on his father's Kuṇḍamaṇḍapadarpaṇa (cf. Vel., No. 418).

Colophon at the end of chapter II.—

ग्रहलाघव of गणेश with उदाहरण by विश्वनाथ

Foll. 95; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character: 11 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 94*b*. Fol. 95 has the title on both sides. The MS. is written by two different hands; foll. 1-42 are written by one scribe and the remaining which again number from the beginning are written by another. The latter scribe is more careful and accurate than the former. The MS. is dated Śaka 1778.

The Work.—The Grahalāghava of Gaṇeśa with Udāharaṇa, a commentary thereon composed by Viśvanātha, son of Divākara of Golagrāma on the Godāvarī. His elder brother Mallāri also has composed a commentary on the Grahalāghava. (cf. I. O., No. 2931). In his commentary Viśvanātha also refers to and quotes from another commentary on this work composed by Nṛsimha Daivajña, nephew of Gaṇeśa Daivajña. (see No. 348, quotations, below). For full information about Viśvanātha and his works see Dīksita, pp. 281-282. For another MS. and quotations see I. O., No. 2932, where the probable date of the commentary is said to lie between 1612-1615 A. D. According to Dīksita (p. 282) our commentator's literary activity must have extented from Śaka 1534-1556 (c. 1612-1634 A. D.)

ग्रहलाघव-उदाहरण by विश्वनाथ

Foll. 33, size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 6 in., material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 33*b*. It is only moderately correct. Heading and Pratīkas are marked red. All folios are much discoloured and slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—Viśvanātha's Udāharaṇa on Gaṇeśa's Gṛhalāghava, without the text, defective in the end. Our MS. agrees with I. O., No. 2932 in having the two stanzas quoted by our commentator from Nṛsiṃha's commentary on the Gṛhalāghava giving a list of all the works composed by Gaṇeśa Daivajña. This Nṛsiṃha was the nephew of Gaṇeśa Daivajña. For a complete MS. of the commentary accompanied by the text see No. 347 above. In this MS. we find our commentator referring to Gaṇeśa Daivajña as Guru. This is, however, more honorific than real as is obvious from the fact that the two writers are separated by a period of more than 100 years. It begins —

ग्रहलाघव-उदाहरण by विश्वनाथ

Foll. 52; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 6 in.: material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 52*b*. It is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1747 by Vidyādhara Daivajña, son of Ramākānta. The last folio is much broken and all other folios are worm-eaten in one corner. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work.—The Udāharaṇa, Viśvanātha's commentary on Gaṇeśa's Grahalāghava, without the text. The MS. begins with Candragrahaṇādhikāra only. For a complete MS. of this commentary accompanied by the text see No. 347 above. Our MS. agrees with I. O., No. 2934 in having the last verse of the commentary giving the name of our commentator's father and his dwelling place.

It begins:—

Foll. 2; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 2*b*. The MS. is neatly and fairly accurately copied.

The Work.—The Grahasāriṇī is a small metrical pamphlet in 22 stanzas dealing with the calculation of the movements of the heavenly bodies (Grahas) A work of this name is ascribed to Tryambaka at Peters., Reports V, 469. Śaka 1442 is taken as basis for calculation. Our work differs from the works of the same name noticed at I. O., Nos. 2923 and 2930.

It begins —

Foll. 7; size $7\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 6*a*. Fol. 7 appears to be a modern substitute for the missing old one. Foll. 6*b*, 7*a* and 7*b* have some quotations. The MS. is copied by Vidyādhara Ramakānta Daivajña.

The Work.—A portion of an astronomical work called the Cintāmaṇi ascribed to Gaṇeśa Daivajña of Nandigrāma. The work is called Śeṣacintāmaṇi in this MS.

It begins:—

चिन्तामणि (लघु) of गणेशदैवज्ञ

Foll. 2, size 7½ in. by 4¼ in., material coarse yellow thin paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; about 50 lines in all and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 2*b*. It is neatly and almost accurately written.

The Work.—The Laghucintāmaṇi or Tithisiddhi is the author's own abridgement of a bigger work called the Cintāmaṇi. In this work, consisting of 18 stanzas, the author Gaṇeśa Daivajña gives the easiest and quickest methods of astronomical calculations. It must have been composed in Śaka 1474 (c. 1552 A. D.) which is taken as the basis for calculations. For another MS. with a different beginning see Vel., No. 238 and also cf. Nos. 353–354 below. According to another recension the basis for calculations is Śaka 1447 (c. 1525 A. D.) and not Śaka 1447 as stated in this recension. (cf. No. 355 below).

चिन्तामणि (लघु) of गणेशदैवज्ञ

Foll. 8; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough thin yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and some other quotation. Fol. 8 has the names of Muslim months on one side and the of Saṃvatsaras on the other. Headings and colophons are marked red. All folios are slightly worm-eaten in one corner. The MS. is almost correct.

The Work.—The Laghucintāmaṇi, an abridgement of Gaṇeśa's Cintāmaṇi by the author himself in about 20 stanzas, divided into various parts. There are, however, about 25 more stanzas on various astronomical topics added at the end, though they do not form a genuine portion of the work under notice. For other MSS. see Vel., Nos. 238–40. For a different version see No. 352 above.

It begins:—

Foll. 8; size 8 in. by 4¼ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 or 16 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 8*b*. Foll. 2 and 8 are almost broken into two. The MS. is written by Vidyādhara in Śaka 1799.

The Work:—Vivaraṇa, a commentary on the Laghucintāmaṇi of Gāṇeśa Daivajña. Anonymous.

Foll. 106; size 11½ in. by 6½ in.; material glazed yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 38 letters in line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 106*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1697. Almost all folios are slightly eaten by worms.

The Work:—The Jyotirvidābharaṇa is an exhaustive work on astronomical matters in 1435 stanzas divided into 22 chapters (Adhyāyas) attributed in the work itself to the famous poet Kālidāsa, the author of the Raghuvaṃśa and other poems. It professes to have been composed in the year 3068 of the Kali Age (c. 67 A. D.); but was probably composed about 1220 A. D. as shown at Dīkṣita, pp. 212 and 476. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 235, I. O., No. 2999 and Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 1743. For other references cf. Vel., No. 235.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 346*b*. The MS. is written by two scribes; and hence fol. 200*b* is left half blank, though there is no break in the text. Some folios are discoloured with damp. After 200 the folios are again numbered from unity. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work.—Sukhabodhikā is a commentary on the Jyotirvidābharaṇa composed in Saṃvat 1768 (c. 1712 A. D.) by Bhāvaratna, a pupil of Mahimaprabhasūri of the Purṇimīya Gaccha. In the Praśasti at the end the commentator gives us several names in the line of the preceptors in his Gaccha. He begins with Candraprabhasūri who in the court of Siddharāja in a long contest lasting for six months vanquished all his opponents and founded (or rather supported) the Pūrṇimā Gaccha with the sacred Āgamas of the Jains. (cf. S. Vidyābhusana, p. 206). Then came Dharmaghoṣa (not necessarily a pupil of Candraprabha) in whose time the Gaccha had grown into 120 branches all going by the same name Pūrṇimikā. Then came Vidyāprabha, who was separated from Dharmaghosa by several Sūris. He was followed by Lalitaprabhasūri and Vinayaprabhasūri. Then is mentioned Mahimaprabhasūri whom the commentator extols as being an adept in grammar, poetics, logic, and Mathematics, and as being a benefactor and teacher of all. According to a stanza which comes after the colophon of our MS., our commentator, Bhāvaratna, is the son of Māṇḍaṇa and Vālhā, pupil of Mahimaprabhasūri of the Paurṇimīya Gaccha and a resident of Śrīpattana, where the commentary was composed. For another MS. of the commentary see Stein, p. 162 and also Stein, p. 340, (for quotations).

Siddharāja, referred to above, is possibly to be identified with Jayasiṃha Solāṇki who is said to have ruled between A. D. 1093 and 1142.

तिथ्यादिपत्र of मकरन्द with उदाहरण by विश्वनाथ

Foll. 27, size 9½ in. by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 to 14 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 27*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work.—The Tithyādipatra also called Makaranda is a manual of astronomical calculations according to the Sūryasiddhānta composed by Makaranda Ānandakanda at Benares towards the close of the 15th century A. D. (cf. Dīkṣita, p. 257).

This work is quite different from the Horāmakaranda of Guṇākara which is a more comprehensive work than the present one. For the Horāmakarnda see I. O., Nos. 3097-98.

Our MS. also contains the Udāharaṇa, a commentary on the work under notice, composed by Viśvanātha Daivajña, the fifth son of Divākara Daivajña of Golagrāma on the bank of the Godāvarī. For another MS. of this commentary see Mitra, Bik. Cata., p. 314 where, however, no information is given about the text. Aufrecht, mistaking this work for the Horāmakaranda, has wrongly mentioned the commentary under notice among the commentaries on the Horāmakaranda. For other MSS. containing both the text as well as the commentary see Auf., Leip. Cat., No. 983; and I. O., No. 2957. Printed at Benares in 1869. For another commentary on this work see the next number. Also see I. O., No. 2953 for Vivaraṇa, a commentary on Makaranda's work, composed by Divākara, the father of our commentator, about Śaka 1540 (c 1618 A. D.) cf. Dīkṣita, p. 257. Also see No. 363 below for a work dated 1612 A. D. professing to be based on the work under notice.

Foll. 12, size 9½ in. by 4¼ in.; material glazed yellowish dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 12*b*. The MS. is not very accurately written. Corrections are made in black ink. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work:—The Abhinavatāmarasa is a gloss on the Tithyādipatra of Makaranda, composed by Puruṣottama, son of Kṛṣṇa. At I. O., No. 2958 the name of the commentator is wrongly given as Kṛṣṇa. For other MSS. see Auf., Leip. Cat., No. 982 and I. O., No. 2958. It begins.—

Foll. 19, size 13 in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material glazed yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 19*b*. The MS is excellently copied and is remarkably accurate. Each folio has the title in the left margin.

The Work:—The Dhīvṛddhidatantra, (or Śiṣyadhīvṛddhidamahātantra) is an astronomical treatise in about 350 stanzas divided into 14 chapters (Adhikāras) composed by Lalla, son of Bhaṭṭa Trivikrama. He says that he has based this work on the Āryabhaṭīya Siddhānta and adds that this work renders astronomical calculations much easier than what is done by a host of other works (also based upon the same Siddhānta) composed by the pupils of Āryabhaṭa. Lalla's date has been fixed at about Śaka 560 (c. 638 A. D.). cf. Dīkṣita, pp. 227-29.

Foll. 32; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., material glazed blue paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 32*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 32*b* are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1928 by Nāthurāma Pārikha. Foll. 1-9 are written by a different hand. All folios are slightly discoloured owing to chemical effect of ink.

The Work:—The Pañcasiddhāntikā of Varāhamihira is a treatise on astronomy containing the Patāmaha, the Vāsiṣṭha, the Romaka, the Pauliśa and the Saura Siddhāntas. Of these the last three were still useful in the days of Varāhamihira; but the first two had fallen out of use. (cf. st. 4 quoted below.) These Siddhāntas are very old and are quite different from others of the same name which are comparatively modern. The Romakasiddhānta, according to Dīkṣita, must be placed somewhere before the Śaka era; and others are still earlier. Cf. Dīkṣita, pp. 150-168. The work under notice was, however, composed in Śaka 427 (c. 505 A. D.) which is taken as the basis for astronomical calculations. cf. Winter., Gesch., III, p. 559f. Edited by G. Thibaut and Sudhākara Dvivedi, Benares 1889. For another MS. cf. I. O., No. 6288.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 5*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. All folios are worm-eaten; but no damage is done to the text on any folio. The MS. is almost accurately copied.

The Work:—The Bālaprabodha or Makaranda-paddhati-maṇi is a small metrical work on astronomical calculations in about 50 stanzas divided into 5 chapters called Adhikāras composed in Saṃvat 1667 (c. 1612 A. D.) by Harikarṇa, son of Sundaraśarman, pupil of Śrī Govinda, and resident of Hisāranagara. The author in this work gives easier methods for calculations based on another work called the Makaranda or Tithyādipatra for which cf. Nos. 358-59 above.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. All folios are much worm-eaten. The MS. is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Brahmavyavahāra is a compilation of 102 stanzas dealing with astronomical topics composed by Trivikrama, son of Nārāyaṇa and younger brother of Jñānamalla. For other MSS. see Stein, p. 164 and also I. O., No. 2884 where the work is called Trivikrama-śataka. In the former place is also to be found Gopīnātha's commentary on the work under notice.

ब्रह्मसिद्धान्त (from शाकल्यसंहिता)

Foll. 32, size 9¾ in. by 4½ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 12 to 16 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 31*b*. Fol. 32 is blank on either side. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1763 by Vidyādhara, son of Ramākānta. Colophons are marked red except the one at the end of Chapter V.

The Work —The Brahmasiddhānta, an astronomical work in the 765 verses divided into 6 Adhyāyas and forming part of the second book (Praśna) of the Śākalyasaṃhitā. It is said to have been expounded by God Brahman to Nārada. This Siddhānta, according to Dīksita, cannot be earlier than 821 A. D. (see Dīksita, pp. 188-89). For another MS. see Vel., No. 248. For another work of the same name but quite different from the present one see No. 370 below.

Foll. 43; size 12 in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material glazed yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 44 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 43*b*. It is badly copied in Śaka 1514. Almost all folios are worm-eaten; though the text is not much damaged. Fol. 1*a* is blank.

The Work:—The Brahmasiddhānta (or the Brahmaguptasiddhānta) is a compendium of astronomical science composed in 628 A. D. at the age of thirty by Brahmagupta, son of Jisnu in the reign of Vyāghramukha of the Cāpavaṁśa. For full information about the author, his date, residence etc. see Dīksita, pp. 216 seqq. For another MS. cf. I. O., No. 2768 where is also given an analysis of the contents of the whole work.

Foll. 5, size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 13 lines in a page and 57 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 5*b*. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately copied in Śaka 1888. Yellow pigment is used in some places for correcting slips. Headings, colophons and figures are marked red.

The Work:—The Bhāsvatīkaraṇa is a small metrical treatise on astronomical calculations in 84 stanzas divided into 8 chapters composed in 1099 A. D. by Śatānanda, son of Śaṅkara and Sarasvatī and a resident of Puruṣottamaksetra. For other recesions in 69 and 142 stanzas cf. Vel., Nos. 251-52.

Foll. 24, size 11 in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 15 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 24*b*. After 13 the folios are again numbered from one. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Saṃvat 1920. All folios are slightly broken along the edges and also slightly worm-eaten. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work —The Bhāsvatīkaraṇa of Śatānanda with Bālabodhinī, a commentary thereon, composed in 1544 A. D. by Balabhadra Daivajña, son of Vasanta. This commentary is otherwise named Bhāsvatīdyota by the commentator himself (cf. st. 2 quoted below). For another MS. of this commentary see Mitra, Notices, No. 785.

यन्त्रचिन्तामणि of चक्रधर
with टीका (स्वोपज्ञ)
and प्रतोदयन्त्र of गणेशदैवज्ञ

Foll. 15; size $7\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 23 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 14*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is left blank. The MS. is only moderately correct. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The initial words of the verses from the text are marked red.

The Work:—The Yantracintāmaṇi is a small metrical treatise giving the movements of the heavenly bodies in 26 stanzas composed by Cakradhara, son of Vāmadeva (or Vāmana) who has also written a commentary thereon. Our author seems to have been patronised by some king. He is said to have flourished between the 12th and the 16th centuries A. D. For another MS. containing both the text as well as the commentary see I. O., No. 2909 which exactly agrees with our MS. in containing also another work describing the Pratodayantra in 13 stanzas composed by Gaṇeśa Daivajña of Nandigrāma. This latter also helps the speedy measurements of the movements of heavenly bodies etc. and is not to be used as a sort of charm in battle as it is described at I. O., No. 2909. At I. O, No. 2910 is noticed a commentary on Cakradhara's work by Rāma Daivajña son of Daivajña Madhusūdana of Pārthapura composed in Śaka 1547 (c. 1615 A. D.) which is identical with the one noticed under No. 376 below. See also Dīksita, p. 352 for both the works.

It begins.—

यन्त्रचिन्तामणि–टीका by कृष्णदैवज्ञ

Foll. 12; size 8 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 15 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 11*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is left blank. The MS. is only moderately correct.

The Work:—Another commentary on Cakradhara's Yantracintāmaṇi composed by Kṛṣṇa Daivajña, son of Madhusūdana. For another MS. see I. O., No. 2910 where, however, the name of the commentator appears as Rāma Daivajña. Our MS. does not contain the introductory portion. It begins with the 4th verse of the text. According to Mr. Dīksita this Rāma Daivajña was a resident of Pārthapura on the bank of the Godāvarī and wrote this commentary in Śaka 1547 (c. 1615 A. D.). cf. Dīkṣita, p. 352.

रोमशसिद्धान्त

Foll. 45; size 5 in. by $6\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 19 letters in line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 45*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 45*b* are blank. The MS. is fairly accurately written; but is full of lacunae. The margins are drawn in red ink.

The Work:—The Romaśasiddhānta (or the Romakasiddhānta) which was first revealed by Viṣṇu to Romaśa and Vasiṣṭha. It comprises about 375 stanzas divided into 11 chapters (Adhikāras) dealing with astronomical matters. This is quite different from the Śrīsavāyaṇa Saṃhitā which is also known as the Romaśasiddhānta. This latter is only a modern fabrication, for which see, No. 460 below.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 3*b*. It is very badly copied by Icchārāma Jośī in Śaka 1765, and is very illegible. All folios are much worm-eaten and the text is also much damaged.

The Work:—The Vasiṣṭhasiddhānta is a small metrical treatise dealing with astronomical matters in 95 stanzas divided into five chapters ascribed to Vasiṣṭha who is said to have disclosed this science to Māṇḍavya to supplement what was expounded by Brahman. This work appears to be later than the Brahmasidhānta. For Vṛddhavasiṣṭhasiddhānata also called Viśvaprakāśa see I. O., No. 2766.

व्याससिद्धान्त of व्यास

Foll. 6; size 13¼ in. by 8¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 18 lines in a page and 62 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 6*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 6*b* have the title. The MS. is excellently copied in Śaka 1782. Foll. 1 and 6 are discoloured. Other folios are torn and also slightly discoloured. But no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Vyāsasiddhānta is an astrronomical work comprising 274 stanzas divided into three chapters (Adhyāyas) attributed to Vyāsasmṛti in the colophons at Mitra, Notices, No. 1567 and Stein, p. 173. But our MS. calls it only Vedaṅgajyotiḥśāstra that it really is.

It begins:—

सिद्धान्तशिरोमणि (लीलावती) of भास्कराचार्य

Foll. 37; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse thick yellowish paper; fair Devanāgarī character; 12 to 13 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 37*a*. Fol. 37*b* is blank. The MS. is neatly and accurately written. It is much worn out and discoloured. All folios are broken along the edges. Stops are written in red ink. and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Līlāvatī is the first part of Bhāskarācārya's Siddhāntaśiromaṇi dealing with Arithmetic. The other three parts of Bhāskarācārya's work are named Bījagaṇita, Gaṇitādhyāya and Golādhyāya respectively. Bhāskarācārya wrote the Siddhāntaśiromaṇi in 1150 A. D. and the Karaṇakutūhala in 1184 A. D. (cf. Nos. 386-37 above)., The Siddhāntaśiromaṇi is published by MM. Jha in Pandit, New Series, Vols. 30-33. It is only recently published in the AS. Series together with the Buddhivilāsinī by Gaṇeśadaivajña and Vivaraṇa by Mahīdhara. For other MSS. with and without commentaries see Vel., Nos. 266-75. For MSS. of the other parts see Vel., Nos. 276-87. Also see Nos. 385-89 below.

सिद्धान्तशिरोमणि (लीलावती) of भास्कराचार्य with टीका by मोषदेव

Foll. 150; size 9¼ in by 5¾ in.; material rough yellowish thick paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 150*b*. It is very neatly and almost accurately written. Stops are written in red ink. Almost all folios are slightly broken towards the edges. Fol. 4*a* has a piece of paper pasted on to it. All folios are slightly discoloured with damp. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work:—Bhāskarācārya's Līlāvatī wtih the commentary thereon composed by Mosadeva, son of Bhīmadeva, a goldsmith. This Moṣadeva must be earlier than 1473 A. D. which is the date of a MS. of this commentary noticed at Vel., No. 274.

It begins:—

Foll. 63; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 63*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank and fol. 63*b* has the title. The MS. is badly and inaccurately written by Bāpū Hari Daivajña. The last folio is slightly torn. Other folios are worn out and broken at the corners. Headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Bījagaṇita is the second part of Bhāskarācārya's Siddhāntaśiromaṇi. For other MSS. containing this part with or without the commentaries see Vel., Nos. 276-80. This part is published in the AS. Series,

No. 99 together with Navānkura, a commentary thereon composed by Krsna son of Ballāla, during the reign of Emperor Jehangır (1605-27 A. D.).

सिद्धान्तशिरोमणि (गोलाध्याय) of भास्कर with मिताक्षरा (स्वोपज्ञ)

Foll. 63; size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 62*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf in the beginning are left blank. The MS. is neatly and accurately written.

The Work:—A section of the Golādhyāya which is the fourth part of Bhāskarācārya's Siddhāntaśiromaṇi. Our MS. contains the text as well as Mitākṣarā, a commetary thereon by the author himself. This commentary is also named the Vāsanābhāṣya. For a MS. of this part together with Nṛsiṃha's Vāsanāvārtika, see Vel., No. 286.

सूर्यसिद्धान्त

Foll. 71; size 9¾ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 5 lines in a page and 26 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 70*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and some quotation. Fol. 70*b* and the fly-leaf after it are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Vidyādhara Daivajña, son of Ramākānta and grandson of Anant Daivajña.

The Work:—The Sūryasiddhānta is a famous manual on astronomy expounded by Sūrya to the mighty demon Maya who, it is said, propitiated the former by austere penance. It contains about 500 stanzas divided into 14 chapters (Adhikāras). The last two chapters in this MS. are wrongly numbered 12 and 13 respectively. Its popularity can be realised from the large number of commentaries that have been composed on it. It has been variously printed. For other MSS. see vel., No. 292 and I. O., Nos. 2772-77. Also see Dīkṣita, pp. 177-86, for information about this work.

Foll. 30, size 11 in. by 5¾ in.; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 30*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1793 by Bālakṛṣṇa. Colophons are written in red ink. Foll. 1, 2, and 30 are slightly broken. All folios are also discoloured with damp.

The Work:—The Sūryasiddhānta, another copy, cf. No. 390 above. In this MS. the work is called an Upaniṣat; and it differs from the last MS. in counting the last two chapters of the last MS. as one chapter only under the name Golādhāya. Foll. 74; size $12\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 74*b*. The text and the commentary are intermingled and cannot be easily distinguished from one another. Yellow pigment is often used for corrections, though sometimes black ink is also used for the same purpose. Foll. 32-34 are missing.

The Work:—The Sūryasiddhānta with a commentary composed by Bhūdhara, son of Devadatta, grandson of Śrīsema of the Bhāradvājagotra, the best astrologer of Kāmpilya on the bank of the Ganges (Surasindhu). The year 4673 of the Kali Age is taken twice as basis for calculations from which Colebrooke has fixed the date of this commentary at 1571-72 A. D. But there is no other strong evidence in support of this date. For other MSS. of this commentary see I. O., Nos. 2782-83. Incomplete.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 187a. Foll. 1a and 187b are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Samvat 1775, but has some lacunae left in it. Foll. 1-10 and 180-187 are slightly worm-eaten. Foll. 1-50 are also discoloured. Every folio is marked अ० सा०.

The Work:—The Adbhutasāgara is an exhaustive astrological treatise giving directions regarding rites and observances appropriate for the removal of the evil foreboded by certain celestial and terrestrial portents. It was begun in Śaka 1090 (c. 1168 A. D.) by Ballālasenadeva (who did not live to finish his work) and was subsequently completed by his son Laksmanasena. This Laksmanasena composed his Dānasāgara in Śaka 1091. Ācārasāgara and Pratisthāsāgara are two more works composed by him. Ballālasena's literary activity must be placed in the 3rd quarter of the 12th century A. D. (See Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 341 f. Sec. 83). Vide also IHQ., V., p. 133 f. for the date of Ballālasenaveda.

कूपार्गल of सारस्वतमुनि

Foll. 10; size 9½ in. by 5½ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 10*b* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1744 by Govinda Kṛṣṇa Suvarṇapāṭhaka. All folios are discoloured with damp and foll. 1, 2, 9 and 10 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Kūpārgala, or the Udakārgala as it is otherwise called, is a small treatise in 125 stanzas on the method of finding out the underground currents of water. The colophon in this MS. appears to attribute this work to some Sārasvata Muni; but in the next MS. it is ascribed to Varāhamihira and is said to form part of the Varāhamihirasamhitā. This work is also called Jalārgala. cf. Oppert II, Nos. 461 and 3146

कूपार्गल (from वराहमिहिरसंहिता)

Foll. 9; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*b*. The MS. is almost accurately copied. All folios are discoloured and folios 1 and 9 are also slightly torn.

The Work:—The Kūpārgala, another copy, cf. No. 399 above. In the colophon of this MS. this work is said to form part of the Varāhamihirasamhitā, and has 124 stanzas. St. 123 of this MS. corresponds to the last stanza of the last MS., while the last stanza of this MS. which is not found there, ascribes the work to Varāhamihira.

It ends:—

कालामृत

Foll. 12; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 to 13 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 12*b*. Fol. 1 is slightly worm-eaten and fol. 12 is much torn. Headings are marked red. Yellow pigment is used in some places for scratching out some letters.

The Work:—The Kālāmṛta is a manual of domestic rites and ceremonies dealing with the proper time at which they should be performed. It is ascribed to Veṅkata by Wilson but without any authority. (cf. I. O., No. 5606). Also see I. O., No. 5607 for another MS containing the Ujjavalā, a commentary on this work, composed by Veṅkaṭa. Our MS. breaks with st. 100. For a MS. containg both the text as well as the commentary see Hultzch, Report, I, No. 118.

गणकमण्डन of नन्दिकेश्वर

Foll. 64; size 9 in. by 4 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 25-letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 64*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 64*b* are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1791. Alternate letters in the colophons are written in red ink. Foll. 1, 2. and 64 are slightly broken.

The Work:—The Gaṇakamaṇḍana is an astrological treatise in 8 chapters composed by Nandikeśvara, son of Vedāṅgarāya, son of Tigalabhaṭṭa, son of Ratnabhaṭṭa, a resident of Śrīsthala in Gurjaradeśa. Our author tells us that his father's original name was Mālajit and that he obtained the name Vedāṅgarāya from the Emperor of Delhi in recognition of his proficiency in the Vedas and the Vedāṅgas. He also tells us that he has composed the present work after studying the whole of the Jyotirnibandha, the Muhūrtacintāmaṇi (1522 A. D.) and several other works. For other MSS. see I. O., No. 6337; and Peterson, Reports, 1886–1889, pp. 44–45. For Vedāṅgarāya see No. 546 below.

ग्रहदशाफल of नृसिंह

Foll. 6; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough white paper; fair Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 31 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 6*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 6*b* have the title. The MS. is only moderately correct and yellow pigment is often used for correcting the slips. Headings are marked red. The last folio is much torn and damaged.

The Work.—The Grahadaśāphala, a manual of astrological topics in 86 stanzas giving in details the fruits (good, bad, or indifferent) accruing to a man according to the different positions of the various planets in different zodiacal signs. It is composed by Nṛsiṁha Daivajña, son of Rāmacandra, grandson of Keśava, nephew and pupil of Gaṇeśa and a resident of Nandigrāma on the eastern bank of the Arabian sea. Our Nṛsiṁha was born in 1549 A. D. For our author's Hillājadīpikā see Mitra, Notices, No. 4095. For another Nṛsiṁha, son of Kṛṣṇa Daivajña, the author of Vāsanāvārtika on the Siddhāntaśiromaṇi of Bhaskarācārya see Vel., Nos. 282–86.

It begins.—

ग्रहदशाफल of नृसिंह

Foll. 4; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 to 15 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*b*. The scribe is Yajñeśvara Sānye who has written the MS. moderately correctly in Śaka 1724. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Grahadaśāphala, another copy, cf. No. 403 above. The introductory and the concluding stanzas giving the names of the author and his ancestors are not given in this MS.

चूडारत्न of श्रीकृष्ण

Foll. 5 (stray folios); size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of 5 stray folios numbered 33, 36, 37, 39 and 40. It is neatly and almost accurately written. All folios are broken along the edges and also at the corners; but no damage is done to the text on any of them.

The Work:—The Cūḍāratna is an astrological treatise dealing with the various ceremonies in a Hindu household from an astrological point of view in 33 chapters (Adhyāyas) composed by Śrīkṛṣṇabhatta. Our MS. is only fragmentary containing only portions of the 27th, 30th and 33rd chapters and the 31st Adhyāya complete in 14 stanzas.

The Cūḍāratna is quoted in the Muhūrtadarpaṇa (cf. Auf., Leipzig Cat., No. 1066) which again is quoted in the Mārtaṇḍavallabhā composed in 1573 A. D. (cf. Cat. Catal., I, p. 463). Our author must, therefore, have flourished about a century at least before Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa, the author of the Mārtaṇḍavallabhā. For another MS. see Bhand., Report, 1881–82, p. 36.

Foll. 9–21 and 31–90; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 5 in.; material thin coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 to 13 lines in a page and 33 to 35 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1–8 being missing. It ends on fol. 70*b* and then follows some other work written by the same scribe and named Rājamārtaṇḍa in the scribe's colophon. The MS. is only moderately correct and is copied in Śaka 1740 by Pāṭhaka. Headings and colophons are marked red. Almost all folios are broken along the edges and at corners. Foll. 22–30 are missing.

The Work:—The Jyotiḥsāgara is an astrological work dealing with various occurrences in the daily life of a Hindu from an astrological point of view. In this MS. the work is ascribed to Muñjāditya in the colophon at the end. After this follows certain information on allied topics which the scribe seems to have copied from another work called the Rājamārtaṇḍa as would appear from his colophon at the end. The MS. is defective in the beginning. For Bālabodhasārasaṃgraha of Muñjāditya see Stein, p. 166, and also No. 428 below.

Foll. 53, size 11 in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 to 14 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 53a. Fol. 1a is blank and fol. 53b has the title and the name of the scribe, Dayārāma who has copied the MS., not very accurately, in samvat 1745. Headings and colophons are marked red. The colophon at the end is written in red ink. All folios are slightly broken along the edges: and foll. 48-50 are dilapidated. Foll. 28-45 are very badly written by a different hand and appear to be a remnant of some old MS.

The Work —The Jyotisamaṇimālā (or simply Maṇimālā or °mālikā) is a treatise on astrology in 19 stabakas composed by Keśava, son of Harinātha and pupil of Pramodaśīla. In st. 29 quoted below, we are told that Devaśīla was another name of our author given to him by his Guru. According to some colophons of our MS. (colophons of Adhyāyas XI-XVII) the author is Keśavārka. Our author, however, cannot be identified with the famous Keśavārka; for our work was composed in Samvat 1640 (c 1584 A. D.). He is quite different from Keśava Daivajña of Nandigrāma and also from Keśava, the son of Divākara to whom this work is wrongly ascribed at Auf., Cat. Catal., I, p. 127; II, p. 25. For another MS. of this work see I. O., No. 6341 where the author's name appears as Keśava Bhattācārya. Also see Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 305 for a portion of this work.

Foll. 42 (3-44), size 10 in. by 5¾ in , material rough, yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1-2 being missing. It ends on fol. 44b. The MS. almost accurately copied in Śaka 1702. Almost all folios are slightly worm-eaten. Foll. 30-36 are much eaten by worms and the text on them is also damaged.

The Work:—The Jyotisaratnamālā (or simply Ratnamālā) is an exhaustive treatise on astrology in about 650 stanzas divided into 20 chapters (Prakaraṇas) composed by Śrīpati of the Kāśyapagotra, son of Nāgadeva, grandson of Keśava and pupil of Lalla (au. of the Ratnakośa). In his Dhīkoṭidakaraṇa, Śrīpati takes Śaka 961 as the basis for calulations; and hence he is said to have flourished about 1039 A. D. corresponding to Śaka 961. The Siddāntaśekhara (cf. Auf., Cambr. Cat., p. 93) and the Jātakapaddhati (cf. No. 487 below) are two more works composed by our author. See Dīkṣita. p. 237 f. Our MS. is defective in the beginning. For another MS. see Vel., No. 303. For our author's Daivajñavallabha see Vel., No. 310.

Foll. 102, size 13 in. by 6 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 17 lines in a page and about 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1*b* and ends on folio 102*b*. Folio 1*a* is left blank. The text and the commentary are intermingled. Corrections are often made in the usual black ink. which is used for copying the MS. Almost all folios are eaten by worms and also slightly broken. The MS. is full of lacunae and also inaccurate in many places. It was copied by Megharāja in Samvat 1835.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Ratnamālā or Jyotisaratnamālā of Śrīpati, son of Nāgadeva, grandson of Keśava of Kāśyapa gotra, a pupil of Lalla (the author of the Ratnakośa). It also contains the Vivarana, a commentary thereon, composed by Mahādeva in Śaka 1185 (c. 1263 A D) From the concluding stanzas of the commentary we know that the great-great-grandfather of our commentator Mahādeva was known by the name Bandhūka, the best of the Janyālaya race, and was a friend of king Karṇa. Both Karṇa and Bhīma are very probably the kings of Kathiavad in Gujarat. Sarvajña and Mahādeva were respectively the son and the grandson of this Bandhūka. This Mahādeva had three sons of whom the eldest was a famous astrologer (but his name is not given here). Of the other two, Arjuna was a friend of king Bhīma, and Lūṇiga, the youngest, was a staunch devotee of Viṣṇu. Our commentator is the son of this Lūṇiga who, at Cat. Catal., I, p. 545, said to have annotated his son's work. cf. I. O., Nos. 6291-6293 for the text and No. 2897 for the commentary. Our commentator's grandfather, wrote the Śabdasiddhi on Kātāntra grammar, as we learn from stanza 2 at the end of the commentary under notice. A MS. of this Śabdasiddhi has been noticed by Dr. Kielhorn in his report for 1880-81 on page 44 where he speaks of it as being a commentary on Durga-simha's Vṛtti on Kātāntra. cf. Bel., systems, p. 89 and n. 3.

Foll. 77; size 9 in. by 4 in.; material coarse rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 or 12 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 74*a*. Fol. 74*b* has a quotation. In the beginning there are three separately numbered folios with the index. The MS. is not very accurately copied and all folios are broken along the edges. They are much discoloured and blackened on account of ink.

The Work:—The Jyotiṣaratnasaṃgraha is an astrological compilation composed by Govinda, son of Dharmādhikarī Rāmapaṇḍita, the eldest brother of Nandapaṇḍita. Rāma and Ananta are the names of his father and grandfather; and Mahīpati and Kṛṣṇa are the names of Ananta's father and grandfather respectively. Kṛṣṇa's father Lakṣmīdhara was originally a resident of Bidar in Sourthern India, but subsequently he went to Benares. Nandapaṇḍita was a voluminous writer and has a pretty large number of works to his credit. For information about Nandapaṇḍita and his works see I. O., No. 1342 and also Vyavahāramayukha, Introduction by V. N. Mandlik. And for a description of his principal works see Kane, Hist. Dh., I. sect. 105.

It begins:—

with भाषान्तर (Marāṭhī)

Foll. 71; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 70*b*. Foll. 1*a* and 71*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1753 by Vināyakabhaṭa Deuḷkara. Headings and colopons are marked red. The text is followed by the Marāṭhī translation.

The Work.—The Jyotiṣaratnākara, another complete manual of astrological matters with translation into Marāṭhī. It is based upon various earlier works among which the work of Śrīdhara is prominently mentioned.

It begins·—

ताजक of नीलकण्ठ

(संज्ञातन्त्र only)

Foll. 20, size 10 in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*b*. Fol. 1*a* has a quotation. The MS. is not very accurately copied. Foll. 1 and 20 are torn; and other folios are slightly worn out and discoloured.

The Work:—The Saṃjñātantra is only the first part of a big work called the Tājika (or Tājika-kaumudī) which is a manual of astronomical topics based on Muhammadan methods. It was composed in 1587 A. D. by Nīlakaṇṭha of Benares, son of Padmāmbā and Ananta (the author of the Jātakapaddhati), grandson of Cintāmaṇi of the Gārgyagotra. The work consists of two parts viz. the Saṃjñātantra and the Varṣatantra. The whole work is often but wrongly called the Saṃjñāviveka or Saṃjñātantra which signifies only the first part of the whole work.

This work is commented upon by Viśvanātha, son of Divākara (see No. 417 below); by Mādhava, son of Govinda and grandson of the author (cf. I. O., No. 3053); and also by Govinda, the author's son (cf. Peter., Ulwar Cat., Extr. No. 502). Govinda in his commentary composed (in 1622 A. D.) tells us that Nīlkaṇṭha composed the present work and the Todarānanda under the patronage of Emperor Akbar; and that Rāma, his younger brother composed the Rāmavinoda for Akbar's minister, Rāmapāla in 1613 A. D (cf. I. O., No. 2944). For other MSS. see Vel., Nos. 261, 262; and I. O., Nos. 3045-48.

From st. 40 (see quotations) it appears that Ananta, our author's father had written a commentary on some astronomical work called the Kāmadhenu and also an independent work called the Jātakapadhati. This information is also given by our author's younger brother Rāma in the concluding stanzas of his Muhūrtacintāmaṇi. (cf. No. 431 below).

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 4*b*. It is very neatly, but not very accurately, written. Stops and colophons are written in red ink. All folios are broken and worm-eaten; but the text is not much damaged. All folios are marked नी° in the left margin.

The Work:—A portion from the Saṃjñātantra of Nīlakaṇṭha. For the complete work cf. No. 415 above.

with उदाहृति by विश्वनाथ

Foll. 80; size 9¾ in. by 5⅝ in.; material thick coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 80*b*. Stops, tables headings and colophons are written in red ink. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The MS. is not very accurately written. All folios are discoloured with damp and foll. 1. 2, 79 and 80 are also slightly torn.

The Work:—The Saṃjñātantra of Nīlakaṇṭha with Udāhṛti, a commentary thereon composed in Śaka 1551 (c. 1629 A. D.) by Viśvanātha, son of Divākara Daivajña of Golagrāma. Viśvanātha's commentary on Keśava's Jātakapaddhati was composed in 1618 A. D. Mallāri and Kṛṣṇa were the elder brothers of our commentator. Nṛsiṃha, the son of Kṛṣṇa wrote his commentary on the Sūrya-siddhāta in 1621 A. D. and his son Kamalākara is the author of the Siddhāntatatvaviveka. For other MSS. of the text with this commentary and quotations from the commentary see Vel, No. 263 and I. O., No. 3050. For a genealogical tree of our commentator see Dīkṣita, p. 280.

The Work:—The Saṃjñātantra of Nīlakaṇṭha with Udāhṛti, a commentary thereon composed by Viśvanātha, son of Divākara of the Golagrāma. Our MS. in one colophon wrongly ascribes the commentary to Divākara. But from the first stanza we know that it is Viśvanātha, and not Divākara, who has composed the commentary. Our MS. breaks off with the chapter dealing with Sahamānayana. Another copy, cf. No. 417 above.

ताजकतन्त्रसार of समरसिंह

with विवृति by नारायण समुद्र

Foll. 65; size $12\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{3}$ in.; material thichk rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10–13 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 65b Fol. 1a is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it. The MS. was copied in Saṃvat 1870. Fol. 14 is burnt and damaged, and fol. 28 is missing.

The Work.–The Tājakatantrasāra (or Karmaprakāśa or °śikā) is an astrological treatise in about 350 stanzas divided into 20 chapters (Adhikāras) composed by Samarasimha, son of Kumārasimha, son of Sumati, son of Śobhanadeva who was a descendant of Caṇdasiṃha of the Prāgvāta family. The Prāgvāta family of Gujarat is a very ancient family belonging to Hinduism. References to it are often found in the Praśastis to the MSS. of Jaina works of the 12th century A. D. (cf. Peters., Reports, III, pp. 43, 71 and 104). This work of Samarsiṃha is also alluded to by Balabhadra in his Hāyanaratna composed in 1655 A. D. (cf. Vel., No. 346; and No. 477 below). This work is also quoted by Nīlakaṇṭha in his Praśnakaumudī (cf. I. O., No. 3055). Samarsiṃha must, therefore, have flourished in the 14th century A. D. For another MS. see Stein, p. 162.

Our MS. also contains the Vivrti, a commentary on this work composed by Nārāyaṇa Surnamed Sāmudrika (see the colophon at the end of chapter III quoted below). For other MSS. containing this commentary cf. Stein, p. 163, and Peters., Ulwar cat., No. 1894 where Karma-prakāśikā is wrongly given as the name of the commentary. From the last line of the opening verse of the text it is clear that Karma-prakāśa is the name of the text only. This is also corroborated by verse 2 of the commentary which styles itself Vrtti on the Karma-prakāsa.

The colophon at the end of chapter III again shows that the name of the text is Karmaprakāśikā and the name of the commentary is only Vivrti. Also cf. the colophon at the end of chapter I quoted below.

The Work:—The Tājakabhūṣaṇa is a small manual dealing with astrological matters in 14 chapters composed by Gaṇeśa, son of Dhuṇḍhirāja, a resident of Pārthapura on the bank of the Godāvarī in the territory of king Rāma of Devagari. The present work according to Dīkṣita (see Dīkṣita, p. 182 and 273) belongs to Śaka 1480 (c. 1558 A. D.). But this date can be pushed back by half a century. Dhuṇḍirāja, our author's father, the author of the Jātakābharaṇa (q. v), is said to be the younger brother of Nāganātha, grand-father of Sūryadāsa who wrote his commentary on Bhāskarācārya's Siddhāntaśiromaṇi in Śaka 1460 (cf. Vel., No. 279). Our author can, therefore, be said to have lived in the last quarter of the 15th and the first quarter of the 16th century A. D. For another MS. see I. O., No. 3063. For our author's Jātakālaṃkāra see Nos. 422, 495-96 below.

ताजकपद्धतिव्याख्या (Inc.) and जातकालङ्कार (Inc.) of गणेश

Foll. 11, size 8 in. by 4 in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 to 15 lines in a page and 40 to 44 letters in a line.

The MS. is made up of two fragmentary MSS. Foll. 1–3 contain a portion of one work; while the remaining folios contain a portion of another work. Fol. 1*a* has a quotation. All folios are worm-eaten, but no damage is done to the text on any of them. The MS. is only moderately correct.

The Work:—This MS. contains portions of two different works. The Tājakapaddhati-vyākhyā or the Tājakavarsaphalapaddhati-vyākhyā is a commentary on Keśava's Tājaka-paddhati; and Jātakālamkāra. a manual of horoscopy by Ganesa Daivajña of Pārthapura (see Nos. 495–96 below). Besides these we also have the Astottarīdaśā comprising 7 stanzas only on fol. 1*a*.

The commentator here takes Samvat 1679 (c. 1623 A. D,) as जन्मकुण्डलीसमय. The commentary must, therefore, be dated somewhere about 1623 A. D.

I The अष्टोत्तरी दशा begins.—

अथाष्टोत्तरी दशा।

The अष्टोत्तरीदशा ends:—

इत्यष्टोत्तरीदशा ॥ fol. 1*b*.

II The ताजकवर्षफलपद्धतिव्याख्या begins —

III The जातकालङ्कार begins with the 17th stanza of the second Adhyāya and breaks with the 1st stanza of the last i. e. the Vamśādhyāya. For information see No. 495 below.

ताजकभूषण—उदाहरण

Foll. 24; size 8 in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 24*b*. Fol. 1*a* has a शोधपत्र added by the scribe to correct his own slip. The MS is not very carefully written and is only moderately accurate. Headings and Pratīkas representing the text are marked red. Every Pratīka is followed by its explanation followed by an illustrative example.

The Work—The Tājakabhusana, is a manual of astrology composed by Ganeśa Daivajña son of Dhuṇḍhirāja, a resident of Pārthapura on the Godāvarī. Our MS contains only the Udāharaṇa a commentary thereon while the text is represented by Pratīkas only. The name of the work in our MS. is found in the margin of one folio. The sometime owner, however, of the MS. seems to have mistaken it for the Tājakapaddhati of Keśava. The analysis of the contents given below would show that the work is not the Tājaka-paddhati, but the Tājakabhūsaṇa. The commentator refers to Śaka 1646 (c. A. D. 1724) as the current year. The name of the commentator is not known. But evidently he cannot be Viśvanātha whose literary activity extended over the first quarter of the 17th century A. D

नक्षत्रचूडामणि (सटीक)

Foll. 17, size 8½ in. by 4 in. material coarse yellow paper, fair. Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 17*b* The MS. is very neatly written by Raghunātha Dhūpakara in Śaka 1665. All folios are much dilapidated and the text is also damaged to some extent.

The Work—The Naksatracūḍāmaṇi (or Muhūrtanakṣatracūḍāmaṇi) is a small metrical manual in 27 stanzas telling from an astrological point of view what acts should or should not be performed on particular Nakṣatras. Our MS. also contains a gloss perhaps by the author himself.

It begins —

Foll. 2; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 2*b*. Both the folios are dilapidated and discoloured.

The Work·—The Naksatracūḍāmaṇi complete in 27 stanzas, another copy, cf No 424 above, and the Indrāksīstotra in 10 stanzas from the Rudrayāmalatantra. This Stotra is said to form part of the Skanda Purāṇa also. cf other MSS. of this stotra described in the stotra section below.

निषेकाध्याय–विवृति

Foll. 9; size $10\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair. Devanāgarī character; 20 lines in a page and about 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*b*. It is only moderately correct. The text is represented by Pratīkas only which are marked red. Foll. 1 to 4 are worm-eaten, and the rest are slightly broken. All folios are discoloured. Eevery folio is marked आधान in the left margin.

The Work:—This MS. contains the commentary on the Nisekādhāya which appears to be a small metrical work dealing with conception (Niseka) from an astrological point of view. Our commentator refers to Nityānanda and Viśvanātha. His base for calculation is Śaka 1617 which may perhaps be taken as the approximate date of the composition of this commentary. The work is incomplete.

The comm. begins:—

प्रस्तावरत्नाकर of हरिदास

Foll. 17 (stray folios); size 11 in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. is fragmentary. It originally contained 61 folios of which only 17 stray folios are now preserved. The rest are all missing. The MS. ends on fol. 61*a*. The colophons are written in red ink. All folios are broken and the text also is somewhat damaged. The MS. is neatly copied in Saṃvat 1654 by one Tārācandra.

The Work:—The Prastāvaratnākara is a work on various topics including astrology and palmistry composed in 1557 A. D. by Haridāsa, son of Purusottama and ornament of the Karaṇakula, and younger brother of Kṛṣṇadāsa, Dāmodara, and Nārāyana. For other MSS. see Band., Report 1883-84, Nos. 56, 262, 272, and 359.

बालबोध of मुञ्जादित्य

Foll. 33, size 10¾ in. by 4½ in., material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 33*b*. It is badly written and is far from being accurate. Ink on some folios has faded and the MS. has become hard to read. The MS. is dated Śaka 1666.

The Work:—The Bālabodha is a small astrological treatise composed by Muñjāditya. The work is also called the Sārasaṃgraha. The work is called Bālabodhasārasaṃgraha at Stein, p. 166. In the introduction our author seems to acknowledge his indebtedness to Ratnakoṣa which is possibly identical with Lalla's work of that name. Also see No. 406 above for another work called the Jyotiḥsāgara ascribed to our author.

It begins:—

मुहूर्तचिन्तामणि of रामदैवज्ञ

Foll. 64; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 or 9 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 63*b*. Foll. 1*a* and 64*b* have the title. The MS. is only moderately correct. Figures and headings are marked red upto st. 45 only. The colophon at the end is marked red.

The Work:—The Muhūrtacintāmaṇi is an astrological treatise on proper moments for the performance or commencement of certain acts and rites in 500 stanzas divided into ten chapters called Prakaraṇas composed in Śaka 1522 (c. 1600 A. D.) at Benares by Rāma Daivajña, son of Ananta, son of Cintāmaṇi and younger brother of Nīlakaṇṭha, the author of the Tājaka (cf. Nos. 415-18 above). Ananta is here mentioned as a commentator of an astronomical work called the Daivajñakāmadhenu and the author of the Jātakapaddhati. This information is also born out by our author's elder brother in his Tajaka. (cf. No. 415 above). For another MS. see I. O., No. 3019.

मुहूर्ततत्त्व (मुहूर्तखण्ड) of केशव

garī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 18*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 18*b* have the title. Fol. 18*b* has also some quotation. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Śaka 1702 by Yajñeśvara Sānye and yellow pigment is profusely used for correcting the slips. Some additions are also made at the top and the bottom of almost every folio. Figures are marked red.

The Work:—The Muhūrtakhaṇḍa, the first section of Keśava's Muhūrtatatva dealing with auspicious times and moments for the performance of various acts and such other topics. For other MSS. See Vel., No. 317 and I. O., No. 2945. For the other section of this work and for information about the author see No. 440 below.

Foll. 10; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 10*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. The MS. is not very accurately copied by Yajñeśvara Sānye, in Śaka 1704.

The Work:—The Saṁhitākhaṇḍa from the Muhūrtatatva an astrological manual composed by Keśava Daivajña, son of Kamalākara and father of Gaṇeśa Daivajña (au. of the Grahalāghava etc.). Our author was a pupil of Vaijanātha, and a resident of Nandigrāma and the author of several astrological and astronomical works enumerated in one stanza by Gaṇeśa in his commentary on this work. (See No. 441 below). For another portion of this work see Nos. 437-39 above. For authorities quoted by Keśava in his Jātakapaddhati cf. Bhand., Reports, 1882-83, p. 30.

मुहूर्ततत्त्व of केशवदैवज्ञ with दीपिका by गणेश

Foll. 159; size 11 in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 158*b*. Fol. 159 is blank on either side. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Sakhārāmabhaṭṭa Mahīpati Daivajña in Śaka 1766.

The Work—The Muhūrtatatva (complete in two Khaṇdas) of Keśava Daivajña with Dīpikā, a commentary by the author's son, Gaṇeśa. Keśava has two brothers Ananta (au. the Kālanirṇayāvabodha (cf. Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 399) and Rāma whose son Nṛsiṁha, the author of the Grahakaumudī, was born in 1548 A. D. For the works of Ganesa and further references see No. 344 above. मुहूर्तदर्शन of विद्यामाधव

Foll. 25, size 11¾ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 65 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 25*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 25*b* have the title in red ink. Figures and colophons are marked red. Stops are written in red ink. The MS. is much broken and worm-eaten, but not much damaged.

The Work:—The Muhūrtadarśana (or the Muhūrtāgama or the Vidyāmādhavīya) is an astrological manual giving in 15 chapters the proper astrological moments for the performance of various rites and ceremonies composed by Vidyāmādhava, son of Nārāyaṇa Pūjyapāda who is the son of the nephew of two sages—Sudarśanatīrtha and Ratnagiri—of the Vāsiṣṭha Gotra living in Nīlālaya, a village on the bank of the Guṇavatī to the south of Gokarṇa. Vidyāmādhava has based this work on the works of Vasiṣṭha, Parāśara, Gārgya and such other sages. For another MS. see I. O., No. 6381 A (where the work is called Muhūrtadarpaṇa which, in the light of st. 27 quoted below, would seem to be the name intended by the author) which contains only 8 chapters, as against 15 of our MS., and is obviously incomplete. Our MS. also contains the verse (cf. v. 3 quotations) in which our author gives us the names of works on which this work is based. This verse is wanting in the I. O. MS. which again being incomplete does not contain the concluding verses in which Vidyāmādhava has recorded some information about himself.

This work has been commented upon by the author's own son, Viṣṇuśarman who flourished during the reign of Mallappa, son of king Bukka of Vijayānagara c. A. D. 1363. Both the text and the commentary are edited by Dr. R. Shama Sastry, Sanskrit Series, No. 63, Mysore, 1923.

मुहूर्तमञ्जरी of यदुनन्दन

Foll. 11; size 8 in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 17 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 11a. Foll. 2-4 only are numbered: while the others are left unnumbered. One folio appears to be missing before the 1st folio, for the text is defective in the beginning. Every stanza from the text is followed by gloss. All folios are worm-eaten and the text is also damaged.

The Work:—The Muhūrtamañjarī is an astrological treatise in 101 stanzas divided into four chapters (Gucchas) composed by Yadunandana in Samvat 1826 (c. 1770 A. D.). For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 3028 and 6362, where, however, the stanza giving the date of composition is not found. Our MS. is defective in the beginning and the first nine stanzas are missing. Mr. Kane refers to Peters. Ulwar cat., Extra. No. 545 and says that the work under notice was composed in Samvat 1726 (c. 1670 A. D.). The wording of st. 48 of our MS. giving the date of the composition of the present work goes much against the date recorded by Mr. Kane. (cf. Hist. Dh., I, p. 606b). According to the scribe the date of composition appears to be Samvat 1862 (c. 1806 A. D.); but that is not right. For षड्व्यष्टैकमिते can mean 1826 alone.

The text ends·—

The MS. begins on fol 1b and ends on fol. 21a. Foll. 1a and 22b have the title. Foll. 21b and 22a have some quotations. It is copied in Śaka 1702 by Yajñeśvara Sānye.

The Work:—The Muhurtamārtanḍa is a work on astrology dealing with proper moments for performing various acts in 163 stanzas composed in Śaka 1493 (c. 1571 A. D.) by Nārāyaṇa, son of Ananta, grandson of Kṛṣṇa and great-grandson of Ananta, a resident of a village called Ṭāpara. For other MSS. cf. Vel., Nos. 319-20 and Weber, Berl. Cat., p. 238. Foll. 195; size 9 in. by 5 in., material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 194*b*. Foll. 1*a* and 195*b* have the title and the number of folios. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Śaka 1739 by Jagadīśa Dharmādhikārī of Nasirābāda. Headings, colophons and the authorities quoted are marked red. The text and the commentary are intermingled. All folios are slightly broken along the borders; and foll. 178-195 are much broken.

The Work:—The Muhūrtamārtaṇḍa with the author's own commentary called Mārtaṇḍavallabhā composed in 1573 A. D. For another MS. see Vel., No. 321, where is also given a list of authorities referred to in this work. Also see No. 346 above for information about our author's son, Gaṅgādhara.

मुहूर्तसर्वस्व of रघुनाथ

Foll. 20; size 11½ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 20*b* have the title. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Śaka 1704 by Anantabhaṭṭa Sukhaṭhāṇakara. Figures and colophons are marked red. Illustrative diagrams are drawn in red ink. All folios are worm-eaten, but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Muhūrtasarvasva is an astrological work in 213 stanzas divided into 15 chapters (Prakaraṇas) dealing with various astrological topics. It was composed at Benares in Śaka 1557 (c. 1635 A. D) by Raghuvīra Jyotirvid, son of Viṭṭhala Dīkṣita, son of Būbaśarman. Our author has also written a commentary on the Kuṇḍārka of Śaṅkarabhaṭṭa (see Mitra, Notices, No. 708). Viṭṭhala Dīkṣita, our author's father, composed his Kuṇḍamaṇḍapa-siddhi in 1619 A. D. A MS. of this work is noticed under No. 543 below.

यवनसंहिता of यवनाचार्य

Foll. 49, size 12 in. by 4½ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 48 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 49*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. All folios are much worm-eaten; ink has faded away on some folios and some folios are worn out. The text is somewhat damaged.

The Work:—The Yavanasaṁhitā is an astrological treatise in 23 chapters (Adhyāyas) ascribed to Yavanācārya. This appears to be different from another work of Yavanācārya which is otherwise known as the Mīnarājajātaka.

It begins —

योगिनीतन्त्र

Foll. 11; size 8¼ in. by 3¾ in.; material glazed white paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 10a. Fol. 10b has a table illustrating the Antardaśās in several Daśās. Fol. 1a and the fly-leaf at the end have the title. The MS. was copied in Śaka 1796 by some Gurjara and presented to some Kṛṣṇaśastrī. Fol. 8 is slightly discoloured, worm-eaten and torn.

The Work:—The Yoginītantra is an astrological manual in two parts comprising 96 and 84 stanzas respectively and professing to form part of the Śivayāmala. The first part deals with the Daśās of the Yoginīs while the second deals with other Yogas. The last four stanzas of the second part give the mode of worship. For anothei MS. containing only the Daśās of the Yoginīs see Vel., No. 326.

वृत्तशत of महेश्वर

Foll. 13, size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 13*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 13*b* are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied. It is, however, much broken and dilapidated. But no damage is done to the text on any folio.

The Work:—The Vrttaśata is an astrological manual in 104 stanzas divided into various chapters (Prakaranas) composed by Maheśvara, son of manoratha and father of Bhāskarācārya, the famous author of the Siddhānta-śiromani, who was born in Śaka 1036 (c. 1114 A. D.). Maheśvara must, therefore, have lived in the last quarter of the 11th and the first half of the 12th century A. D. Other works ascribed to our author are the Śekhara, the Laghujātakatīkā and the Pratisthāvidhidīpaka. cf. Diksita, pp. 245 and 247f. For another MS. see Vel., No. 335. This work is also called the Jyotisavrttaśata or the Jyotirvrttaśata in some of our colophons.

It begins:—

Foll. 154; size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 154b. All folios are broken and have small pieces of paper pasted on to them all along the borders. They are also much eaten by worms. It is only moderately correct. Marginal corrections are introduced in black ink.

The Work:—The Vṛddhavasiṣṭhasaṃhitā is an exhaustive treatise on astrological matters in several Adhyāyas ascribed to Vṛddhavasiṣṭha. At I. O., No. 2995 this work has only 38 Adhyāyas. Another MS. noticed at I. O., No. 6831 is also incomplete. Our MS. has 45 adhyāyas and yet the work appears to be incomplete.

At Stein, p. 345 is noticed another MS. of this work which has 91 Adhyāyas in all. The work is described there as forming only the 3rd Kāṇḍa of the whole work which is composed by Lakṣmaṇācārya at the command of Sāraṅgasādhu (see the colophon of the Stein MS. quoted below).

Our MS. as also the I. O. MSS. though essentially agreeing with the Stein MS are yet ascribed to Vṛddhavasiṣṭha.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and breaks off on fol. 25b. It is only moderately correct. All folios are slightly broken along the edges and also much discoloured. Illustrative diagrams also are drawn; but not quite neatly

The Work—The Vyavahāraratna is an astrological treatise composed by Bhānunātha Daivajña, son of Candanānanda of the Bhaunāla Race. He is said to have composed another work called the Bhaktiratna, cf. Mitra, Notices, No. 2902. Our MS. is fragmentary. For a complete MS. see Mitra, Notices, No. 1875.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 67*a*. Fol. 67*b* has some quotation. The MS. is only moderately correct. Fol 1 is much broken. All folios are more or less worm-eaten; but the text is not much damaged.

The Work:—The Vyavahārasamucchaya (or Vyavahāroccaya) is an astrological manual composed by Śrī Musthara Upādhyaya. It comprises 677 stanzas dealing from an astrological point of view with the various ceremonies and rites to be performed by a Hindu during his life-time. The work under notice is very probably the same as the Vyavahāroccaya of Sureśvara Upādhyāya (earlier than 1500 A. D.) recorded by Mr Kane (Hist. Dh. I. p. 631*b*); and Śrimusthara in our MS. is probably a corruption of the right name of the author.

षट्पञ्चाशिका of पृथुयशस्

Foll. 5, size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 30 to 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 5a. Fol. 5b has a quotation. The MS. is much dilapidated and discoloured. All folios are slightly broken. But no damage is done to the text. Yellow pigment is used in some places for correcting the slips.

The Work:—The Satpañcāśikā of Pṛthuyaśas, son of Varāhamihira, containing 56 Āryās divided into seven chapters. For full information and references see Vel., Nos. 338–339. This MS. contains only the text though from the colophon one might expect to find the commentary also.

It begins:—

प्रणिपत्य रविं मूर्ध्ना वराहमिहिरात्मजेन पृथुयशसा ।
प्रश्ने कृतार्थगहना परार्थमुद्दिश्य सद्यशसा ॥ १ ॥

It ends —

इति षट्पञ्चाशिकायां भट्टोत्पलविरचितायामध्यायः ॥

After this we get the following quotation —

संख्याके जनसंख्याके वस्तुनामाक्षराणि च ।
आरूढं प्रश्नलग्नं च संयुक्तं द्विगुणीकृतम् ॥
त्रिभिर्युक्तं जनैर्भक्तं शेषं चोरस्य नामकम् ॥

संवत्सरादिफलकल्पलता of सोम and सप्तनाडीचक्र etc.

Foll. 39; size 8 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 23*b*. Then follows the quotation which breaks off on fol. 39*b*. Foll. 31 and 38 are missing. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is only moderately correct and all folios are slightly broken along the edges.

The Work:—The Saṃvatsarādiphalakalpalatā (or simply Kalpalatā) is an astronomical treatise giving information about the method for the calculations in the Hindu almanac composed by Soma Daivajña, son of Rudrabhṭṭa of Jalagrāma in Śaka 1564 (c. 1642 A. D.). Our MS. also contains a qotation on the same topic which is perhaps from the Jaganmohana, the name that occurs on fol. 1*a*. The work of Soma Daivajña is also called Bṛadrājāvalī or simply Rājāvalī. For a MS. of the Laghuıājāvalī see No. 453 above.

सङ्केतकौमुदी of हरिनाथ

Foll. 12; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and about 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 12*a*. Fol. 12*b* has the title. On fol. 1*a* some matter covering half of the folio is scratched with yellow pigment. Headings are marked red. The MS. is copied in Śaka 1722 by Yajñeśvara Sānye.

The Work:—The Saṅketa-kaumudī is an astrological work in several prakaraṇas composed by Harinātha. Our MS. contains only the Bhāvaprakaraṇa. For another MS. containing only this portion cf. Stein., p. 174. This work is quoted by Raghunandana in his Jyotistatva (cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I p. 654*a*); and itself quotes from the Adbhuta-sāgara which was composed in 1168 A. D. (cf. No. 397 above). Harinātha has one more work to his credit-the Santānadīpikā, for which see Bühler, IV, No. 204.

Foll. 14; size 9 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 to 35 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*b*. Fol. 1*a* has a quotation The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1591 by Madhusūdana Agnihotrī. Colophons and figures are marked red. All folios are broken along the edges, but the text is not damaged.

The Work·—The Saṃkrāntiprakaraṇa is a small metrical work in 186 stanzas dealing with the influence (on human life) of the passage of the sun from one sign of the zodiac to another. It is composed by Śiva Daivajña, son of Naga Daivajña at the request of Deva Jyotirvid of Āṅkoṭagrāma· For Nāgeśa's Grahaprabodha see No. 343 above.

Foll. 7; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 or 14 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank and the fly-leaf has the title. The MS. is only moderately correct. It is profusely marked red. Yellow pigment is used in many places for correcting slips.

The Work·—This MS. contains the Santānadīpikā in 111 stanzas together with discourses on other astrological topics, which are also included under the same title by the scribe. For another MS. of the Santānadīpikā cf. Stein, p. 174. The author's name does not occur in this MS.; but from stanza 2 quoted below he would seem to be a disciple of Vāsudeva. Again it is doubtful whether the Santānadīpika of Harinātha is only identical with the work under notice.

It begins:—

Foll. 220; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 220*b*. Fol. 1*a* has some quotations added by a reader. The MS. is neatly and accurately written. Stops are marked red. Every folio is marked in the left margin. Foll. 1-5 are slightly worm-eaten and fol. 220 is slightly broken. Foll. 212 and 214 are slightly burnt and those that follow are discoloured with damp.

The Work:—This MS. contains two works of Veṅkaṭeśa, son of Appaya Dīkṣita and disciple of Veṅkaṭeśa. The first, the Sarvārthacintāmaṇi, is a manual of astrology in 16 chapters (Adhyāyas). The second is the Yogarṇava which is a manual of horoscopy dealing with asterical conjunctions (Yogas) composed by the same author. For other MSS. of the former see I. Foll. 36; size 10 in by 5 in.; material coarse rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 36*a*. Fol. 36*b* is blank. The MS. is only of moderate accuracy and is copied in Śaka 1752 by Nimbābhatta Śukla. Foll. 1-4 and 36 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Sārasamuccaya (also called Sāraṅgīyasamuccaya or Vivāhapatala) is an astrological manual dealing with marriage ceremony from an astrological point of view comprising about 500 stanzas divided into 13 chapters (Adhyāyas). It is composed by Sāraṅgapāṇi (or Śārngadhara), son of Mukundabudha, who has freely drawn on the Sāra (Sārasamuccaya) of Vaidyanātha. For a MS. of Vaidyanātha's Sārasamuccaya cf. Bhand., Reports 1881-82, page 37, No. 453. This work is quoted in the Mārtaṇḍavallabhā, Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa's commentary on his own Muhūrtamārtaṇḍa composed in 1573 and 1572 A. D. respectively (cf. Nos. 444-45 above). It is also referred to in a commentary (dated Śaka 1446, c. 1524 A. D.) on Pītāmbara's Vivāhapatala. The names Śārngadhara and Sārasamuccaya also occur in Gaṇeśa's commentary on the Muhūrtatattva (about 1528 A. D.). Śārṅgadhara, therefore, must have lived in the latter half of the 15th century at the latest. For another MS. cf. Peters., Reports 1883-84, p. 195. For a discussion regarding the date of our author see Dīkṣita, p. 471.

सारसमुच्चय (विवाहपटल) of सारङ्गधर

Foll. 45; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 45*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 45*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1654 by Ananta. Foll. 1-26 are sligtly worm-eaten. Many folios are discoloured along the borders. All folios have the title in the left margin. Yellow pingment is occassionally used for correcting the slips.

The Work:—The Sārasamucchaya, another copy, cf. No. 474 above. Instead of the Vivāhanirṇayādhyāya of the last MS. we have in this MS. two Adhyāyas viz. Tailāropaṇavidhi (st. 15) and Kartavyākartavyanānānirṇayādhyāya (st. 43). This MS. thus has 14 chapters.

Foll. 100; size 10¼ in. by 4½ in.; material thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 100*a*. Fol. 100*b* is blank; and fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is moderately correct. Foll. 1-3 are much broken and worm-eaten. Other folios are also eaten by worms to some extent and the text is also slightly damaged.

The Work:—The Sārāvalī is a systematic treatise on astronomy in 39 chapters composed by Kalyāṇavarman, the ruler of Vyāghrataṭī. For other MSS. and quotations see I. O, Nos. 2898-9, 6368; Mitra, Notices, No. 337. Our MS. contains the complete text, but it is much damaged here and there. Our author is also said to have written a commentary on the Vivāhavṛndāvana of Keśavārya; and also an independent work called the Vyavahārapradīpa. From the stanza occurring in our MS. just after the colophon it would appear that Kalyāṇavarman left the work incomplete and that it was completed by Bhatta Utpala. At I. O., No. 6415 we are told that this is presumably the work quoted by Baṭṭotpala in his commentary on the Bṛhajjātaka. For a discussion regarding our author's date see B. O. R. I. Annals, XVI, pp. 149-51.

Foll. 246; size 9½ in. by 4½ in.; material thin glazed yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 246*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 246*b* are blank. The MS. is almost accurate. Colophons are written in red ink and other headings are marked red.

The Work:-The Hāyanaratna is an exhaustive treatise on astrology in eight chapters (Adhyāyas) composed in 1655 A. D. by Balabhadra, son of Dāmodara, grandson of Lāla of the Bharadvājagotra, a resident of Kanoja. Devidās Khemakarṇa, Nārāyaṇa and Miśracaturbhuja are the names of his uncles and Harirāma is the name of his brother. Our author's father Dāmodara is said to have written a a commentary on the Karaṇkutūhala of Bhāskarācārya (st. 6 quoted below). In this work Balabhadra has tried to summarise the subject dealt with in Samarasiṃha's work on Tājika (Prognostics). For detailed information about the author see Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 881; Ind. Stud. ii p. 245 seqq; and Dīkṣita, p. 489 seqq. and n. This Balabhadra cannot be identified with Balabhadra, the father of Jayarāma, a commentator of the Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra. For Jayarāma lived between 1200 and 1400 A. D., while our author lived considerably later than Jayarāma. (See Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 699).

Our Balabhadra is the pupil of Rāma Daivajña who composed his Muhūrtacintāmaṇi in Śaka 1522 (c. 1600 A. D.). He also quotes from the Tājika of Nīlakaṇṭha, the elder brother of Rāma Daivajña. For other MSS. see I. O., No. 3014; and Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 881. For a genealogical tree of our author's family see Dīksita, p. 275. For Nīlakaṇṭha's Tājika in two parts referred to by our author see Nos. 415-418 above. Again st. 3 at the end of this work tells us that the work was completed at Rājamahala, under the patronage of Śahā Sujā who is probably to be identified with the elder brother of Aurangzeb. This Sujā was killed by Aurangzeb in 1657-58 A. D.

Foll. 26, size 9¾ in. by 5½ in.; material coarse yellowish dark paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 to 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 26*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Tryambak, son of Gaṅgādhara Daivajña in Śaka 1724. All folios are discoloured and foll. 1, 12, and 26 are also broken and worm-eaten.

The Work:-The Kuṇḍalīkalpataru (or °vṛksa) is a small metrical manual of horoscopy comprising 403 stanzas divided into 12 chapters called Śākhās composed by Yogeśvara, son of Mohana and Gaṅgā, a Nāgara Brāhmaṇa, resident of Nāradāvapura in Gujarat. This work was composed at the request of Śyāmananda, a fellow-student of our author.

It begins:—

Foll. 51; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish or bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī charcter; 11 or 12 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 51*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning has title. After fol. 30 one more folio is given the same number, this additional folio is a Śodhapatra. The MS. is only moderately correct and yellow pigment is used in many places for correcting the slips. The MS. is copied by Yjñeśvara Sānye in Śaka 1732.

The Work:—The Laghujātaka, Varāhamihira's abridgement of his own Bṛhajjātaka, together with the Śisyahitā, a commentary thereon, composed by Bhaṭṭa Utpala. Complete in 13 Adhyayas. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 373 and I. O., No. 3069–70.

racter; 10 to 13 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 7*a*. Foll. 7*b* and the fly-leaf in the begginning are blank. The MS. is almost accurate. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work—Varāhamihira's Laghujātaka with a commentary thereon composed by Ananta Daivajña, son of Keśava Daivajña of Nandigrāma. The commentator refers to Bhaṭṭa Utpala's commentaty on this work and declares that his commentary would be much more concise than that of Utpala. (For this latter see Nos. 485–86 above). Our MS. is defective in the end. The text is published with a German translation by A. Weber, Ind. Stud., II, p. 277 seqq.

जातकपद्धति of धर्मेश्वर

Foll. 6, size $10\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in., material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 6*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank and fol. 6*b* has some quotations. The MS. is neatly and almost correctly written. But many marginal additions are made on almost every folio in black ink. All folios are slightly broken along the edges.

The Work:—The Jātakapaddhati is a small manual of horoscopy in about 100 stanzas divided into 6 chapters, composed by Dharmeśvara, son of Rāmachandra, son of Sudhākara, son of Ratnākara, son of Balabhadra, son of Devadatta, a resident of Malva. For another MS. see Stein, No. 160 and p. 340. The beginning of the Stein MS. is, however, quite different from that of our MS. though both the MSS. have the same number of verses and the same ending. From the Stein MS. Śrīdhara and Nīlakaṇṭha appear to be our author's grand-preceptor and preceptor respetively.

श्रीचण्डीशविनायकौ हरिहरौ रव्यादिखेटान् गुरून्

Foll. 177; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 5 in.; material thick yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 177*a*. Fol. 1*a* has some quotations and fol. 177*b* has the title and the name of the scribe. The MS. is badly and inaccurately copied in Śaka 1672. Tables are drawn in red ink. Many folios are discoloured and slightly torn; but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Jātakābharaṇa is a manual of nativity composed by Dhuṇḍhirāja, son of Nṛsiṁha and pupil of Jñanarāja. For detailed information about the author and his works see Vel., No. 359, and I. O., Nos. 3075-78. Also see Dīkṣita, p. 273 and note.

Foll. 11; size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 to 14 lines in a page and 45 to 55 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 11*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 11*b* have the title. The MS. is not uniformly written and is only moderately correct. It is profusely marked red on the first four folios. All folios are slightly worm-eaten. The last folio is also torn.

The Work:—The Dvādaśabhāvaphalaprakaraṇa is a small manual of horoscopy based on the Pārāśara-saṃhitā. Pārāśarya-Sakala-sampradāya-sāra-saṃgraha appears to be another name of this work.

भावचिन्तामणि (पटल VI only)

Foll. 9; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellowish paper, fair, Devnāgarī character; 11 or 12 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*a*. Then follow the Bhāvakārikā and other quotations. Fol. 8*b* has the index. Fol. 9*b* has the title. Fol. 1*a* also has the title.

The Work.—The Bhāvacintāmaṇi is an astrological work. Our MS. contains only a portion of this work dealing with the causes leading to want of progeny and is in the form of a dialogue between Goddess Pārvatī and Śiva. Our MS. also contains the Bhāvakārikā of Devaśāli Muni and the Śanicakra illustrated by Narapati. The work is also called Santānadīpikā in the colophon at the end.

It begins:—

यवनजातक of यवनाचार्य

Foll. 36; size 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 24 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 36*b*. The MS. is neither very neatly nor very accurately copied. It is also much worm-eaten on the left and much damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Yavanajātaka is a manual of nativity ascribed to Yavanācarya. Our MS. breaks off in the middle of the Śanidvadaśabhāvaphala. According to Winternitz the Yavanajātaka was first translated from the original Greek work by Yavaneśvara (1691 A. D.) and was given a metrical form by Sphūrjadhvaja a hundred years later. But Bhaṭṭa Utpala mentions Yavaneśvara Sphujidhaja as one person where-as Kern believes that Yavaneśvara is later than Varāhamihira (cf. Winter., Gesch. III, p. 570 and n.)

It begins:—

Foll. 79; size 9 in. by 5¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 79*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank and fol. 79*b* has the title. The MS. is excellently written. Colophons are written in red ink. Foll. 1 and 79 are torn. The MS. is copied in Saṃvat 1890 by Budharāma.

The Work:—The Laghuyavanjātaka is a manual of nativity ascribed to Yavanācārya. Our MS. is defective in the beginning, though no folio is missing apparently.

It begins:—

Foll. 101; size 11½ in. by 5 in., material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 101*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is not very neatly or accurately copied and is only moderately correct. It is also much worm-eaten and torn. Foll. 88–100 are much worm-eaten and damaged and the text on them is irreparably lost. All other folios are also discoloured.

The Work —The Śambhuhorāprakāśa is a big work on horoscopy composed by Puñjarāja, pupil of Mādhava, at the command of a king named Śambhudāsa who (as the author himself tells us in this work) was born in Śaka 1584 (c. 1662–63 A. D.). Śambhudāsa is the son of Śivadāsa and grandson of Kānajī ruling at Nandidvāra. The work under notice is divided into several adhyāyas, but they are not clearly marked in our MS. For other MSS. See Vel., Nos. 374–77.

Foll. 12; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*b*. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Paramānanda in Saṃvat 1837. The colophons are marked red. All folios are marked शु० जा० Yellow pigment is rarely used.

The Work:—The Śukajātaka is a small manual of horoscopy in 5 chapters (Adhyāyas) comprising about 200 stanzas attributed to the Brāhmaṇa sage Śuka. The author in his introduction tells us that he has brought together the teaching of all the former Ācāryas into a small compass so as to be useful to all. Horāsāra appears to be another name of this work. (Cf. the colophon at the end of the first chapter quoted below).

Foll. 4, size $10\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 4*a*. Fol. 4*b* has the title. The MS. is only of moderate accuracy. All folios are slightly torn and discoloured.

The Work:—The Akṣarapraśna (or Aksarapraśnāvalī or simply Praśnāvalī) is a small manual on divination with the help of the letters of the alphabet. The table of the alphabets is given on fol. 1*a*; and every stanza from the text foretells the fruit for each of these letters. The work contains 51 stanzas which are, in the colophon of this MS., ascribed to Śaṅkarācārya. For another MS. see I. O., No. 8021 where this work is wrongly classed under Mystical (Tantra) works.

It begins:—

त्रिकालज्ञानाक्षरचिन्तामणि of शिव

Foll. 8, size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 8*b*. It is not very accurately copied in Śaka 1707 and is profusely marked red on foll. 1*b* and 2*a*. Headings and colophons are throughout marked red. All folios are worn along the edges.

The Work.—The Trikālajñānākṣaracintāmaṇi is a small treatise in about 150 stanzas dealing with the popular science of answering querries regarding the future. It is divided into four parts (Prakaraṇas) and is ascribed to Lord Śiva himself who is said to have composed it at the time of killing Andhaka and burning Tripura. Hence the entries at Aufrecht, Cat. Catal., I, p. 237 ascribing this work to Śiva Daivajña appear to be unwarranted.

It begins:—

Foll. 6; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in; material thin rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 6*b*. The MS is copied in Śaka 1762 by Govinda Sānye. All folios are slightly worm-eaten. The MS. contains two long sheets of paper folded into six folios.

The Work —A small metrical treatise giving the full significance of the falling of a lizard upon human body with reference to the place, day, time, position, etc. At the end is given the Śānti, the rite for averting the evil indicated by the fall. The work contains 76 stanzas.

प्रश्नभैरव (सहदेवप्रश्नाः only)

Foll. 13, size 8½ in. by 3 in; material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 13*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 13*b* have the title. The scribe Bhairva has written the MS. not very accurately. Headings are marked red

The Work —The Praśnabhairava is a manual of prognostication. Our MS. contains only the 'Sahadevapraśna', a portion of the Praśnabhairava comprising 200 stanzas. This work appears to be different from the Praśnabhairava composed by Bhairava noticed at Mitra, Bik. Cat., p, 325 though it is a work on the same subject.

अथ प्रश्नभैरवे सहदेवप्रश्ना लिख्यन्ते।

Various types of Praśnas are dealt with upto st. 51. Then follows a detailed treatment of various omens like the Śyena the Kāka, the Pingalā and others. (st. 52–70). Then again follow various Praśnas (st. 71–116) which are followed by 'Sneezing' (Kṣuta) (st. 117–125). St. 126–200 again deal with some more Praśnas.

(अनुक्रमणिका only)

Foll. 2, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in., material coarse yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. contains only two folios not very neatly copied with three columns on each side. Both the folios are also broken and eaten by worms.

The Work:—This MS. contains only the contents of two works--(i) The Praśnabhairava (see No. 518 above) and (ii) The Praśnasamuccaya which is a work on the same topic.

प्रश्नमनोरमा of गर्ग

(With explanation)

Foll. 9 (2-10); size $6\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in., material thin rough yellowish paper; Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 18 letters in a line.

The MS. is difective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. It ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 10*b* has a diagram explaining the Varṇapramāṇa. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The MS. is badly copied and is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Praśnamanoramā is a metrical manual of divination in 25 stanzas which in the colophon ascribed to Garga Ācārya. But from st. 25 quoted below it would appear that Mohana composed this work following mostly the authority of Garga Ācārya. The stanzas are accompanied by an explanatory gloss by the same author. Praśnavidyā is another name of this work. For another MS. see Vel., No 379. The main body of this work, however, would seem to have only 21 stanzas (cf. st. 24 quoted below).

It ends:—

Foll. 77; size 11 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in., material thin yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 34 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 77*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Saṃvat 1715. Foll. 62 and 63 are much torn and foll. 1, 64 and 76 are slightly broken. The text is only slightly damaged.

The Work:—The Praśna-vaiṣṇava, also called Praśnārṇava or Vaiṣṇavaśāstra, is a metrical treatise on divination in 15 chapters (Adhyāyas) composed by Nārāyaṇadāsa Siddha the chief of Gosāvīs (cf. st. 2 and 61 quoted below), son of Brahmadāsa and Nayajā, belonging to the Kāyastha caste, and a devotee of Yadunātha. The work is based on the Varāhatājika and the Mukundamata For other MSS. see I. O., No. 6358 and Weber, Berl. Cat., p. 264. Our MS. contains 6 stanzas at the end which contain the blessing bestowed by one Harajīvadattaśarman on our author. These stanzas are not found at I. O, No. 6858. From st. 63 quoted below it would appear that our author was also known as Siddhanārāyaṇa and that he wrote some work on medicine also.

रमलतन्त्र of यवनाचार्य

Foll. 58; size $6\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $8\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 25 to 28 lines in a page and 30 to 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 58a. Fol. 58b has some diagram. The MS. is excellently copied in Samvat 1894 by Rāmacandra. Foll. 49-58 are bigger in dimensions than the rest. Foll. 1, 48 and 58 are broken. The MS. is in a broken form.

The Wrok:—The Ramalatantra is a manual of geomancy containing more than 1000 stanzas divided into 21 chapters composed by Yavanācārya, who learnt this science from Kālika Ācārya who had studied the various works (Prakaraṇas) composed by Bhadrabāhu to summarise the contents of the various old treatises. Puṇḍarīka and Jambu are mentioned as the two preeminent writers on this science.

It begins:—

रमलसार of श्रीपति

Foll. 18; size 8½ in. by 4¼ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 18a. Fol. 18b has the title. The MS. is very neatly written and is almost accurate. Figures are marked red. Tables are drawn in red ink. Explanations and synonyms have been added in some places between the lines.

The Work:—The Ramalasāra is a manual of geomancy in four chapters composed by Śrīpati, son of Lakṣmīnṛsiṃha and pupil of Godvindarāya, son of Gulābarāya Mehare, a resident of Siṃhānandapura. Our author was a resident of Gokula and his surname was

रमलेन्दुप्रकाश of रुद्रमणि

Foll. 25; size 9 in. by 4½ in., material rough yellowish paper; Devanāgarī character; 24 lines in a page and 43 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 22*a*, and then follows some quotation which is also included under this work by the scribe. The MS. is very badly copied by Haranāma Miśra Puṣkara. Colophons and headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Ramalenduprakāśa is a manual of geomancy in 16 chapters (Ullāsas) composed by Rudramaṇi, son of Vālmīki who was the eldest of the three sons of Sundara Tripāṭhin, a Gauḍa Brāhmana. Śrīnandalāla, a Gosvamin, is the maternal grandfather of our author. Rāmacaritra is another work of our author mentioned in this work. At I. O., No. 3130 Vālmiki is wrongly said to be the surname of the author. The stanza giving the date of composition of this work and also of the Rāma-carita is hard to interpret. (See st. 26 quoted below). At I. O., No. 3130 it is said that the present work was composed by the author in his 25th or 26th year in 1683 A. D. Perhaps the stanza gives Śaka 1579 as the birth-date of the author and tells us that the author's Rāmacarita was composed at the age of twelve (in Śaka 1591. c. 1669 A. D.) and the present work at the age of 25 in Śaka 1604 c. 1682 A. D.

Foll. 2; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 32*b*. It is not very neatly copied and is moderately accurate.

The Work:—The Śakunaśāstrāvalokana is a small tract on prognostication professing to form part of the Brahmayāmala. It is curious enough to find the Raghuvaṃśa, the Bhāgavata and the Saptaśatī used as basis of divination.

It begins:—

समरसार of रामचन्द्र

Foll. 16, size 11 in. by 4½ in.; material thin coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 15*a* Foll. 16*a* and 16*b* have a quotation. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1706 by Paraśurāma Jyotirvid. Tables and illustrative diagrams are drawn in red ink. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and torn.

The Work:—The Samarasāra is a work in 89 stanzas on prognostics derived from particular stellar conjunctions, turn of breath etc. composed by Rāmacandra of Vatsagotra, son of Sūryadāsa and grandson of Śivadās. His mother's name was Viśālāksī (or Viśālākṣā) and he himself was a pupil of Śrībhāratī. He was honoured at court of King Rāma of Ratanpura and is the author of the Karmapradīpikā (cf. I. O., Nos. 427 and 446), the Yantraprakāśa, the Kuṇḍamaṇḍapalakṣaṇa (composed in 1450 A. D.) and the Nāḍīprabodha (cf. No. 213 above). For other MSS. see Vel., No. 397.

समरसार of रामचन्द्र with सरला by भरत

Foll. 26; size 11 in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 26*b*. The MS. is almost accurately copied. All folios are worn out and also broken in one corner the text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work:—The Samarasāra of Rāmacandra upto st. 58 only together with the Saralā, a commentary thereon by Bharata, the author's younger brother and pupil Kane in his History of Dharmaśāstra, I, p. 660 mentions Śivadāsa, son of Sūryadāsa and Viśālākṣā, as a commentator on this work. This Śivadāsa is probably wrongly mentioned and stands perhaps for our Bharata. For other MSS. of the text with the cammentary of Bharata see Mitra, Notices, No. 2417, and I. O., Nos. 3117-19 and 6446. Our MS. is only fragmentary and breaks with st. 58.

The comm. begins:—

Foll. 5; size 11 in. by 5 in ; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 5*b*. The MS. is only moderately correct. All folios are worm-eaten but no damage is done to the text. Yellow pigment is occasionally used for correcting the slips.

The Work:—Two manuals dealing with the uses of the mystic diagram, Sarvatobhadracakra, from two different works. The first one comprising 64 stanzas is taken from the Narapatijayacaryā, a big work on prognostics. For another MS. of this section cf. I. O., No. 3116 where the text is accompanied by a commentary called Jayavilāsa composed by Daivajña Gokulanātha, whose Sāraṇī on Makarand's Tithyādipatra was composed in Śaka 1688 (c. 1766 A. D.) cf. Dīkṣita, p. 257.

The second extract is from the Phalacandrikā, which is a manual of prognostics composed by Yaśodharamiśra.

I begins:—

पारसीकप्रकाश of वेदाङ्गराय

Foll. 21; size 9½ in. by 4½ in., material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 21*b*. It is not very neatly written by Bālarāmaśarman in Saṃvat 1787. All folios are slightly broken along the edges.

The Work:—The Pārasīka-prakāśa is a glossary of Persian words relating to astronomy, astrology and such other subjects with their Sanskrit equivalents, compiled by Vedāṅga rāya during the regin of Emperor Shah Jehan. Our author's original name was Mālajit and the title Vedāṅgarāya was bestowed upon him by the Mughal Emperor in recognition of his proficiency in the Vedas and the Vedāṅgas. Our author's son Nandikeśvara also has composed some works. For information about both Vedāṅgarāya and Nandikeśvara, see No. 402 above. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 2977-78.

It begins:—

Foll. 43; size $9\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in., material thick rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 43*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 43*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately written in Śaka 1707. Pratīkas from the text are marked red. The text and the commentary are intermingled. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Kuṇḍamaṇḍapasiddhi or simply Kuṇḍasiddhi is a small treatise in 61 stanzas giving directions for the erection of Kuṇḍa. It is composed in Śaka 1541 (c. 1619 A. D.) by Viṭṭhala Dīkṣita, son of Būbaśarman who has also written a commentary thereon. The work is also named Maṇḍapakuṇḍasiddhi by the author himself (of course, for the sake of metre, cf. st. 60 below). For another

MS. see Vel., No. 426 where is also given a complete list of authorities quoted or referred to by our author. Also see Auf., Leip. Cat., No. 706-707.

Kalpavallīpaddhati is another work composed by our author in 1627 A. D., for which see Stein, p. 156 and Extract no. 338. Our author's son Raghunātha composed his Muhūrta-sarvasva in 1635 A. D. cf. No. 448 above.

(c) THE SĀMA VEDA

छन्दसिकाविवरण by माधवाचार्य and सामवेदार्थप्रकाश by सायणाचार्य

Foll. 308; size 12 in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10-12 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. contains two parts separately paginated having 113 and 195 folios respectively. It is almost accurately copied. It was once bound in book form; but the binding is now much torn and loosened. The text, however, is not much damaged. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work.—Part I of our MS. contains Mādhavācārya's commentary on the Pūrvārcikā of the Sāmaveda, called the Chandasikāvivaraṇa. This is, however, fragmentary and breaks off in the middle of the 6th prapāṭhaka. Part II contains the Sāmavedārthaprakāśa, which is Sāyaṇācārya's commentary on the Uttarārcikā of the Sāmaveda, complete in 21 chapters (adhyāyas). For another MS. see I. O., No. 104 which corresponds to our part I and I. O., No. 4282 corresponding to our Part II.

Part I begins.—

Foll. 48; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 48*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The scribe Viśvanātha has written the MS. neatly and the MS. is also much accurate. The accents are marked in red ink. Yellow pigment is very often used for correcting the slips. Foll. 33-48 are slightly torn and worm-eaten. The last folio is almost tattered. Fol. 35*a* is left blank.

The Work:—Aṣṭaka I only of the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa, another copy, cf. No. 603 above.

B. M. C. 34. 2].

तैत्तिरीयब्राह्मण (Aṣṭaka III)

Foll. 163; size 8½ in. by 4 in., material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7-8 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 163*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 163*b* have the title. The MS. is very neatly written and is almost accurate. Yellow pigment is rarely used. The colophons and figures are marked red in some places only. The foll. are almost all slightly discoloured along the borders.

The Work:—Aṣṭaka III only of the Taittirīya Brāhmaṇa.

Colophon:—

(ii) THE ŚUKLA YAJURVEDA

606

शतपथब्राह्मण (Kāṇḍas I & II only)

Foll. 140; size 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material coarse yellowish white or bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. has two Kāṇḍas which have their folios separately numbered. Kāṇḍa I begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 41*a*; fol. 41*b* has the title. Folios 19-22 are missing. Kāṇḍa

II begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 99*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 99*b* have title. The first Aṣṭaka is dated Śaka 1753. Both parts are written in the same careless and clumsy manner and abound in corrections made by the scribe himself. The MS. is very inaccurate.

The Work:—Kāṇḍas I and II of the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa of the White Yajurveda.

Dated :—

शतपथब्राह्मण (Kāṇḍa II frag.)

Foll. 14; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough white thin paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 14*b*. Fol. 2*b* has the title. The MS. is legibly written though not very neatly or accurately. Fol. 9 is slightly torn. The MS. is not accented.

The Work:—Adhyāya 1 and the first two Anuvākas of the 2nd Adhyāya from the second Kāṇḍa of the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa.

B. M. C. 34. 4].

शतपथब्राह्मण (Kāṇḍa III inc.)

Foll. 138; size 8¾ in. by 5 in.; material rough yellowish white paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9-11 lines in a page and 25-40 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. Foll. 130-135 are also missing. The MS. is not very accurate and is very carelessly written. It ends on fol. 145*a*. Fol. 145 has the title in red ink. The scribe as mentioned in the colophon at the end is Vināyaka Bāpubhaṭṭa Dātye; but he does not seem to have written the whole MS. Foll. 1-60 are written by a very careless writer in a very clumsy handwriting and this part abounds in corrections. Only the last 40 folios are neatly written.

The Work:—The third Kāṇḍa of the Śatapatha Brāhmaṇa.

Dated:—

(c) OF THE SĀMAVEDA

610

Foll. 20; size 10 in. by 8¼ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 56 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*b*. Fol. 19*a* is blank and there appears to be some break. The MS. is neatly written on the whole. Colophons are marked red. Fol. 1*a* has the title. All folios are much worm-eaten and broken. The MS. was written in Saṃvat 1727 by Devakṛṣṇa, son of Ramakṛṣṇa. It was once bound in book form, but now all folios are loose.

The Work:—The Ārṣeyabrāhmaṇa is the fourth of the eight Brāhmaṇas belonging to the Sāmaveda. It gives an account of the genealogy and succession of the Rsis i. e. the original teachers and seers of the school to which it belongs. Our MS. contains the full text in three Prapāṭhakas. It has been published with Sāyaṇa's commentary at Calcutta in 1892. For another MS. see I. O., No. 114.

छान्दोग्यब्राह्मण

Foll. 99; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8-10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning. Foll. 1, 40, 90-93 are missing. Almost all folios are much broken along the edges and also discoloured. Fol. 41 is much damaged. Figures are marked red. The MS. is accented in red ink. Foll. 1-64 are older and written by a different hand. Foll. 65-89 are written by some later scribe and added to the old MS. which obviously was defective in the end These folios are discoloured with damp and very carelessly written. Foll. 94-101 again appear to be written by a third hand equally carelessly.

The Work:—The Chāndogya Brāhmaṇa in 8 parts called Praśnas of which chapters I and VIII are defective in the beginning.

The Praśnas end:—

I fol. 13*b* (80 Anuvākas); II fol. 20*a* (50 Anuvākas); III fol. 31*b* (65 Anuvākas); IV fol. 43*b* (66 Anuvākas); V fol. 54*b* (63 Anuvākas); VI fol. 69*a* (75 Anuvākas); VII fol. 89*b* (64 Anuvākas); VIII fol. 101*b* (defective in the beginning foll. 90-93 being missing).

छान्दोग्योपनिषत्

Foll. 82; size 10½ in. by 5 in.; material thin yellow paper; good, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 80*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at the end are blank; and the fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is excellently written.

The Work:—The Chāndogyopaniṣat complete in 8 Prapāṭhakas, printed in the A. S. Series and translated into German with critical notes by Deussen in his 60 Upaniṣats. Our MS. also contains two more Prapāṭhakas, just preceding the Upaniṣat proper.

It begins:—

छान्दोग्योपनिषत्-मिताक्षरा by नित्यानन्दाश्रम

Foll. 87; size 12 in. by 5 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 87*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. Fol. 1 is much torn and all other folios are slightly worm-eaten and discoloured with damp. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work:—The Mitākṣarā is a commentary on the Chāndogyopaniṣat composed by Nityānandāśrama, a pupil of Puruṣottamāśrama. For our commentator's Nyāyasaṃgraha, a commentary on the Brahmasūtra see Stein, No. 12 and Extract No 326; and for his Mitākṣarā on the Bṛhadāraṇyakopaniṣat see I. O, Nos. 224-226.

From stanza 3 quoted below it appears that Nityānanda first wrote a stupendous commentary on the Chandogyopaniṣat and then he composed the Mitākṣarā—a more abridged and easier commentary—on the same for the benefit of the dull-witted (Alpa-buddhi). It is interesting to note that a similar statement is also made by our commentator in the 3rd introductory stanza of his Mitākṣarā on the Bṛhadāraṇyaka upaniṣat. But no such commentary has been noticed by Aufrecht in his cat. Catal. For another MS. of this commentary see Auf., Bodl. Cat., p. 390*a*.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 148*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The fly-leaf at the end is also blank. The MS. is slightly discoloured with damp. The MS. is almost accurately written by Mahādeva Bhikambhaṭa Sāthe in Śaka 1752.

The Work:—The Nārāyaṇopanisat (called Nārāyaṇīyopanisat in this MS.) with a commentary. Thereon composed by some commentator who pays homage to Nārāyaṇendra, Viśvendra, Nṛsiṃhendra and Kaivalyendra in in the introductory stanzas. The commentator refers to three recensions of this Upaniṣat comprising 64, 80 and 89 Anuvākas respectively and declares that he has followed the recension with 80 Anuvākas. For a comparison of the recensions see Weber, Ind., Stud., II p. 79. The text is printed in the 108 Upanisats (NSP.) and translated and annotated by Deussen.

The comm. begins:—

प्रश्नोपनिषत्

with भाष्य by शङ्कराचार्य

with विवरण by नारायणेन्द्रसरस्वती

Foll. 36; size $12\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $6\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; bad, Devanāgarī character; 10–15 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*b*. The text and the commentary of Śaṅkarācārya occupy the middle of each folio while the subcommentary runs both above and below them. The MS. is not quite correct. Almost all folios are worm-eaten, but the text is not much damaged. The colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Praśnopanisat with the commentary of Śaṅkarācārya accompanied by Vivaraṇa, a sub-commentary composed by Nārāyaṇendrasarasvatī, a diciple of Jñānendra, a disciple of Kaivalyendra. For another MS. containing the text with both the commentaries see Auf., Bodl. Cat., p. 366. At I. O., No. 87 is noticed a sub-commentary on Śaṅkara's Bhāsya on the Aitareyopanisat composed by Abhinava-Nārāyaṇendra-Sarasvatī who from the colophon there seems to be identical with the author of the vivaraṇa noticed here.

The Vivaraṇa begins:—

चरणव्यूह (Khaṇḍa I only) with भाष्य by बालकृष्णशिष्य

Foll. 14; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in., material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*b*. The MS. is slightly worm-eaten on all folios. The MS. is remarkably accurate.

The Work:—The Caraṇavyūha, Khaṇḍa I only, with a commentary composed by a pupil of Bālakṛṣṇa who quotes Kamalākara, the author of the Nirṇayasindhu. For another MS. of this commentary exactly agreeing with ours see Vel., No. 487.

The comm. begins:—

अथातश्चरणव्यूहं व्याख्यास्याम इत्यादि पारायणमुच्यन्त इत्यन्तम्। वर्गाः संज्ञानसूक्तस्य चत्वारश्चात्र मीलिताः ।
एवं पारायणे प्रोक्ता ऋचां सख्यन्यन्यूनतः ॥ १ ॥
ओमित्येकाक्षरं ब्रह्म नादबिन्दुकलात्मकम् ।

The comm. ends:—

व्याख्या चरणव्यूहस्य आद्यं(r. द्य)खण्डस्य तेन वै ।
यथामति विरचिता देवदेवप्रसादतः ॥

Stanza 1 quoted above really forms part of the text being the concluding stanza of the first Khaṇḍa; but it is here incorporated in the commentary.

जटापटल of व्याडि

Foll. 1; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in all and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. contains only one folio written on one side only. Fol. 1*b* is blank. It is remarkably correct.

The Work:—The Jaṭāpaṭala is a manual in 14 stanzas ascribed to Vyāḍi giving the definitions of the eight methods of reciting the Rgveda. Our MS. contains three stanzas in the beginning which are not found in the MS. noticed at Vel., No. 491. This work is older than a similar work ascribed to Hayagrīva (see Nos. 711-12 below) according to the commentator, Anantācārya, son of Nāgadeva. For another MS. of the text with the commentary of Anantācārya see Vel., No. 491.

It begins:—

जटापटल of व्याडि with विवृति by मधुसूदन with प्रकाश by पुरोगमाचार्य

Foll. 36; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 34 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 36*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 36*b* are blank. Fol. 1 is much broken and other folios are slightly discoloured. The text and the commentaries are intermingled with each other.

The Work:—The Jaṭāpaṭala of Vyāḍi, with Vivṛti, a metrical commentary thereon composed by Madhusūdana Maskarin, son and pupil of Kṛṣṇadvipāyana. The verses which from the text are counted together with the verses forming the Vivṛti. The total number of verses thus amounts to (47+55) 102 Our MS also contains the Prakāśa, a commentary in prose on the Vivṛti, composed by Purogamācārya.

The Vivṛti begins —

श्रीमन्तौ श्रीनृहरिचरणावात्मनो न्यस्य चेत-
स्यृग्वेदाष्टौविकृतिविवृतिं वैदिकश्लोकनीयाम्।

सर्वानुक्रम of कात्यायन

Foll. 80; size $9\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 5 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 80*a*. Fol. 1*a* is left blank. and fol. 80*b* has the title. The MS. is excellently written but yellow pigment is used in some places. All folios are some-what worm-eaten, but no damage is done to the text on any of them. The date of copying is given as Saṃvat 1940 and Śaka 1652. This latter appears to be incorrect; for looking to the condition of the MS. it does not appear to be older than a century at the most.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Sarvānukrama an index to the Mādhyandinīya recension of the white YV. complete in five chapters. At the end of the MS. we also have the fourth Pariśiṣṭa enumerating the Anuvākas which are 303 in all as we are told in the last stanza.

It begins:—

महागणपतये नमः।

ॐ मण्डलं दक्षिणमक्षि हृदयं चाधिष्ठितम्।

The Adhyāyas end:—I, fol. 26*a*; II, fol. 46*b*, III, fol. 58*b* IV, fol. 69*b*; V, fol. 72*a*.

It ends:—

इति सर्वानुक्रमसूत्रे पञ्चमोऽध्यायः समाप्तः।

इति सर्वानुक्रमणी समाप्तम्॥

Then follows the section giving the number of Anuvākas which forms the fourth supplement to the Sarvānukramaṇī. For quotation from this section see No. 723 below.

सर्वानुक्रम of कात्यायन

(अनुवाक section only)

Foll. 8; size 6 in. by 4 in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 18 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 8*a*. Fol. 8*b* is blank. The MS. is not very neatly written and is far from being accurate. It is written by Rāmakṛṣṇa Śrotrī in Śaka 1747

The Work:—This is a section from the Sarvānukramaṇī of Kātyāyana, giving only the number of Anuvākas, in the Mādhyandinīya recension of the white Yajurveda. For the whole work see No. 721 above.

It begins:—

(अनुवाक section only)

Foll. 5, size 9 in. by 4 in., material coarse yellow paper fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1*b* and ends on fol. 5*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. It is not very neatly written by Viśvanātha Śukla and is far from being correct.

The Work:—A portion from Kātyāyana's Sarvānukramaṇī, giving only the number of Anuvākas, another copy, cf. No. 722 above. This MS. contains one verse in the beginning and three more at the end which are not found in the last MS.

It begins:—

सर्वानुक्रम of कात्यायन with भाष्य by होलीर

Foll. 5, size 6¾ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 8-10 lines in a page and 20 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1*b* and ends on fol. 5*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS is neatly written. But some later reader has added some lines at the end in a very clumsy manner. The MS. is much worn out and is almost torn in the middle of each folio. Foll. 1, 4, and 5 are slightly worm-eaten. Text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work:—The MS. contains the Sarvānukramaṇī of Katyāyana for the Vājasaneyī Saṃhitā and the Bhāsya thereon by Holīra upto the end of Kaṇḍikā I. For another MS. of this commentary see Vel., No. 501.

The comm. begins:—

हस्तस्वरप्रक्रिया of मल्लशर्मन्

Foll. 5, size 11¼ in. by 4¾ in.; material rough thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 5*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios entered on it in blue pencil. All folios are much worm-eaten and the text is also slightly damaged. The MS. was copied by Āśāmiśra in Saṃvat 1848.

The Work:—The Hasta-svara-prakriyā is a small metrical work in 61 stanzas composed by Mallaśarman, son of Khagapati, a Kānyakubja Brāhmaṇa. It deals with the movements of hands that are to be made for denoting the accents when reciting the Mantras from the Vājasaneyī Saṃhitā. The author has given us the date of composition in the last stanza. But unfortunately two letters from that stanza are worm-eaten and the exact date cannot, therefore, be made out. But it is likely that the entry on the covering pad according to which the MS. was written in Saṃvat 1781 might really refer to the date of composition. For from the copyist's colophon we know that the MS. was copied in Saṃvat 1848.

It begins:—

अग्निष्टोमप्रयोग of गोविन्दशेष with सोमविहारकारिका and प्राग्वंशविहारकारिका (बौधायन)

Foll. 163, size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 162*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 162*b* and the fly-leaf at the end are blank. The MS. is copied in Śaka 1706 by Vināyaka Bākre. It is accented in red ink. It is also profusely marked red.

The Work.—This MS. contains a manual of the Agniṣṭoma sacrifice composed by Govinda, son of Yajñeśa of the Śesa family. This work is also called Ādhvaryava-prayoga in the colophon. Our MS. also contains the Somavihārakārikā and the Prāgvaṃśavihārakārikā. All the three are based on the Baudhāyanasūtra. It is not certain whether manuals noticed under Nos. 769 and 776-80 below are from the pen of our author.

I Agniṣṭomaprayoga begins·—

Foll. 12, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 14 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*a* Foll. 1*a* and 12*b* have the title. Ink has faded away on some folios. All folios are much worm-eaten and broken along the borders. The MS. is dated Śaka 1658.

The Work·—This is a manual of expiations to be performed for the atonement of faults of commission or ommission at the New and the Full-moon sacrifices. At Vel. No. 588 this work is ascribed to Raghunātha Navahasta, pupil of Ananta Deva the famous author of the Smṛtikaustubha.

It begins:—

आश्वलायनस्य बौधायनमतमवलम्ब्य दर्शपूर्णमासादीनि कर्माणि कुर्वतः। सुगमपक्षमवलम्ब्ये(r. म्ब्यै)ष्टिकानि प्रायश्चित्तानि कानिचिल्लिख्यन्ते। दर्शपूर्णमासयोः प्रायश्चित्तानि तत्र आधानानन्तरं दक्षिणाग्निनाशे शुचिर्भूत्वा विहारं प्रविश्य॰

दर्शपौर्णमासप्रायश्चित्त of अनन्त देव

Foll. 35; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in by $3\frac{3}{4}$ in., material rough thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol 35*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 35*b* have the title. Foll 1 and 35 are worm-eaten. The MS. was copied from an old MS. in Śaka 1742.

The Work:—A manual of expiations in connection with the Darśapaurṇamāsa Sacrifices ascribed (wrongly in all probability) in this MS. to Ananta Deva. This manual, however, appears to be nearly the same as the one noticed under No. 818 above which is ascribed at Vel, No. 588 to Raghunātha Navahasta who is a pupil of Ananta Deva to whom the work is ascribed here.

It begins:—

प्रयोगदर्पण of पद्मनाभ

(सर्वदेवप्रतिष्ठाप्रयोग only)

Foll. 76; size 8 in. by 4 in., material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 76*a*. Fol. 76*b* is blank. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is neatly written but is not quite free from inaccuracies. Correctios are made in some places with the usual black ink. Foll. 1-22 and 75-76 are slightly broken and worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Prayogadarpaṇa is an exaustive work dealing with the religious rites of Hindus composed by Padmanābha Dīksita, son of Gopāla, grandson of Nārāyaṇa, a resident of Janasthāna (see quotations at No. 842 below) on the bank of the Pravarā. His preceptor's name appears to be Śitikaṇṭha. Padmanābha is quoted by Devabhadra, son of Balabhadra, who wrote his Naksatrasattraprayoga in 1756 A. D. cf. Auf., Cat. Catal., I, p. 322 He himself refers to Trivikrama (see No. 811 below) and the commentaries on the RV. by Rāvaṇa, Bhaṭṭa Bhāskara and Vidyāraṇya (=Sāyaṇa). He also refers to Hemadri and the Maharṇava. He must, therefore, be dated later than 1400. The upper limit for his date can, however, be fixed by the fast that he refers to Viṭṭhala's Kuṇḍasiddhi which was composed in 1619 A. D., and to the Nirnayasindhu composed in 1612 A. D. Padmanābha must therefore, be said to have flourished in the latter half of the 17th century A. D.

Our MS. contains only the Sarvadevapratiṣṭhāprayoga, which deals with the consecration of images. For another MS. see Bhand.; Rep. 1883-84, p. 355. This section, which is also known as the Pratiṣṭhādarpaṇa, is only a part of our author's Prayogadarpaṇa, as is evident from the colophons of this and the next MSS.

Foll. 14; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair. Devanāgarī character; 10-11 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 14*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and other quotations. The MS. originally belonged to Yajñeśvara Dīkṣita Sānye who has written the MS. very carefully and accurately. He has added many quotations in the margin and in many places he has rubbed them off with yellow pigment. In the left hand upper corner the folios are also numbered from 99 to 112.

The Work.—This MS. contains a manual of the Śrāddha ceremony which professes (cf. the colophon quoted below) to form part of the Prayogapārijātaka. But in one place (on fol. 12*a*) the view of the Prayogapārijāta appears to be referred to and criticised. It is, therefore, probable that the work under notice is only based on the Prayogapārijāta and does not form a part thereof.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 20*b*. Fol. 1*a* is almost blank The fly-leaf at the end is also blank Foll. 1-20 are much worm-eaten and damaged

The Work.—The Prayogaratnabhūṣā is an exaustive treatise in several chapters dealing with the Vedic rites. It is composed by Raghunātha, son of Ganeśa, grandson of Raghunātha, great-grandson of Harihara Navahasta and pupil of Ananta Deva, the famous author of the Smrtikaustubha. He was a protege of Queen Dīpābāī of Tanjore and composed several works in Samskrta as well as in Marāṭhī between 1675 and 1712 A. D. For detials see Prof. Gode's paper on our author in BUJ. Vol. X, part II, pp. 132-40. For other works of this Raghunātha see No. 805 above, and Nos. 849-51 below.

For other MSS. containing portions of this work see Vel., Nos. 610-11.

Our MS. contains only a portion of the first chapter beginning with the Agnihotra and breaking in the middle of the Piṇḍapitṛyajña. For a complete MS. of this portion and a list of authorities quoted cf. Vel., No. 610.

It begins:—

Foll. 25, size 12 in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 25*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 25*b* are blank. Foll. 12-14, 24 and 25 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Prayogasāra is a manual of Vedic sacrifices, based on Baudhāyana Śrautasūtra, composed by Keśava Svāmin. He, following Bhavasvāmin, has included the various views of writers like Nārāyaṇa and also those of Baudhāyana (Ācāryapāda) as expounded in the Dvaidha Sūtra He quotes a kārikā from Gopāla and is himself quoted by Trikāṇḍamaṇḍana which is quoted by Hemādri, He, therefore, must have flourished before 1100 A. D.

Our MS. contains only the first part of this work dealing with the New and the Full-moon sacrifices complete in 18 chapters. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 612; I. O., No. 370 and Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 19.

सहगमनकृतायाः सपिण्डप्रयोगः

Foll. 9; size 10 in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 8*a*. Fol. 8*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. The MS. is badly written and is much incorrect. It is broken on all folios.

The Work:—This MS. contains directions for the rite of Satī and for the obsequies relating to such a woman. Anonymous. This work cannot be a very early work as the Nirṇayasindhu is referred to in it as an authority and also because the author also refers to Śambhubhaṭṭa and Jīvadeva who wrote in the beginning of the 18th century.

It begins:—

श्रीनृसिंहप्रसन्न्। अथ सहगमनविधिर्लिख्यते।
सर्वपापक्षयकरं निरयोत्तरणाय च।
अनेकस्वर्गफलदं शुक्तिदं च तथैव च॥

सर्वपृष्ठेष्टिप्रयोग

Foll. 8, size 9½ in. by 5 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 7*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 7*b* are blank. The MS. is dated Śaka 1747.

The Work.—A manual of the Sarvapṛṣṭheṣṭiprayoga.

It begins:—

सौमिक हौत्र

Foll. 90; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 90*b*. It is accented in red ink. Headings and colophons are marked red. Some folios are marked सो° हौ° in the left margin.

The Work:—This MS. contains a portion of the Saumika Hautra, a work dealing with the duties of the Hotṛ priest at the Soma sacrifice. It breaks off a little after the Mādhyandina Savana.

It begins:—

ॐ सोमप्रवाकेमुकशर्मणः सोमो भविष्यति तत्र भवता हौत्रं कर्तव्यम् । तं पृच्छति को यज्ञः क ऋत्विजः का दक्षिणेति । अग्निर्मे होता स मे होता होतारं त्वां अमुकशर्माणं वृणे । इत्युक्त्वा जपति ।

स्थालीपाकप्रयोग

Foll. 9; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*a*. The scribe is Bābubhaṭa Kuṇṭe who is a clumsy writer and has to use yellow pigment too often. He also corrects his slips at the top or the bottom of the folios. The folios are mutilated at the corners.

The Work:—This MS. contains a manual explaining the sacred rite called Sthālīpāka. For another MS. see Vel., No. 642.

It begins:—

श्रीगणेशाय नमः । अथ स्थालीपाकप्रयोगः । तत्र यजमानः कृतनित्यक्रियः शुचिः परिहितधौतवासाः दर्भपाणिः पीठोपविष्टः प्राङ्मुखो वाग्यतो°

आश्वलायनगृह्यकारिका of कुमारस्वामी

Foll. 60; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 to 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 60*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. At either end there is a fly-leaf with the title. The whole MS. is much worm-eaten on one side. The MS. is dated Śaka 1673.

The Work:—The Āśvalāyanagṛhyakārikā is a metrical work based on the Āśvalāyana Gṛhyasūtra giving the details of various household rites as given in that Sūtra. The author's name as given in the colophon of this MS. is Bhaṭṭa Kumāri Svāmin. The colophon of the next MS. ascribes this work to Bhaṭṭa Mallāri Svāmin. Prof. Velankar, however, holds that the author's name must be Bhaṭṭa Kumāra Svāmin who is most probably the father of Bhāskara Somayājin, the author of the Trikāṇḍamaṇḍana. For another MS. and for a discussion about the authorship etc. see Vel., No. 643. Mr. Kane mentions another work also called the Āśvalāyanagṛhyakārikā comprising 1296 verses divided into 22 Adhyāyas (cf. Hist. Dh., I. p. 519) for MSS. of which see I. O., No. 258 and Auf., Oxf. Cat., p. 405*a*.

It begins:—

आश्वलायनगृह्यकारिका of कुमारस्वामी with विवरण by बुप्पदेवशिष्य

Foll. 193; size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 193*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at the end are blank. In the beginning there are 8 folios separately numbered giving the index. Foll. 3*b*, 4*a* and 8*b* of the index are blank.

The Work:—The Āśvalāyanagṛhyakārikā up-to the end of Adhyāya III only with Vivaraṇa, a commentary on the same, composed at the instance of Buppadeva Bhaṭṭa, a resident of Karambapura who was the preceptor of our commentator.

The commentator tells us that he has commented upon only such Kārikās as are considered difficult and are apt to raise doubt.

Our MS. contains only three Adhyāyas. For another MS. of the Kārikā with the Vivaraṇa see Pt. Kuñja Vihārī, Ben. Cat., p. 26. Mr. Kane (Hist. Dh., I, p. 519) mentions a Vivaraṇa by a pupil of Busyadeva or Upadeva as a commentary on another work also called Āśvalāyanagṛhyakārikā which contains 1296 vereses divided into 22 Adhyāyas. Our commentator refers to the Smṛtidīpikā, the Smṛtyarthasāra, and Hemādri. He can't, therefore, be earlier than the 15th century A. D.

The comm. begins:—

कौशिकगृह्यसूत्र

Foll. 99, size 11½ in. by 7½ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 97*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 97*b* have the title. All folios are slightly worm-eaten. Every folio has the title. The fly-leaves at both the ends are blank.

The Work:—The Kauśika Gṛhyasūtra (complete in 14 chs.) which deals not only with household rites like other Gṛhyasūtras but also with those charms in which the hymns from the Atharva Veda are employed. It is thus valuable as a suppliment to the Atharva Veda. It is edited with Notes and Introduction by M. Bloomfield, New Haven, 1890. For other MSS. cf. Vel., Nos. 649–50. For information see Winternitz, Gesch. I, p. 239.

गौतमसूत्र (आह्निक section only)

Foll. 10; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 10*b* have the title. The MS. is not very accurately copied in Śaka 1702 by Yajñeśvara Sānye.

The Work:—The Āhnikasūtra, complete in 17 Khaṇḍas, is a work in which the author describes fully the duties that a Brāhmaṇa should do during the day. This very work is noticed at Vel., No. 561 where it is ascribed to Gautama. Prof. Velankar remarks there that the work under notice is 'different from the Dharmasūtra of Gautama' and expresses a conjecture that it may be the Gautamīya Gṛhyasūtra. For an analysis of the contents see Vel., No. 561.

Foll. 3; size $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and about 23 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 3*a*. Fol. 3*b* is blank. All folios are mutilated and worn out along the edges. The MS. is dated Śaka 1781.

The Work:—A portion of the Kātyāyana (or Pāraskara) Gṛhyasūtra dealing with bathing. It is popularly called the Trikaṇḍikāsnānasūtra from the circumstance that it consists of three sections (Kaṇḍikās). Kātyāyana-snānasūtra is another name given to our work. For other MSS. together with the commentaries of Gaṅgādhara Yājñika and Harihara see Nos. 921-22 and 929 below.

Foll. 38; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 46 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 37*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf before it are blank. The MS. is moderately accurately copied by Sakhārāma Ābābhaṭṭa Pāṭhaka in Śaka 1707.

The Work:—The Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra with the commentary on it composed by Karka Upādhyāya, published at the GPP., Bombay. Karka is quoted by Harihara and also by Bhāskara Somayājin. Both Bhāskara and Harihara are again quoted by Hemādri. Harihara himself quotes the Viśvaprakāśa. Karka, therefore, must have flourished about 1100 A. D.

पारस्करगृह्यसूत्र (स्नान section only) with भाष्य by गङ्गाधर याज्ञिक

Foll. 28; size $11\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 48 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 28*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 28*b* have the title. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The MS is copied in Śaka 1710 by Sakhārāma Pāṭhaka.

The Work:—The Kātyāyana-snāna-sūtra (see No. 919 above) together with a commentary thereon composed by Gaṅgādhara Yājñika, who refers to the commentary of Harihara on this Sūtra. He also refers to Vopadeva, Hemādri and Madanapārijāta. He must, therefore, be dated later than the 14th century A. D. The lower limit of his date is fixed by the fact that he is quoted by Gadādhara who seems to have flourished in the middle of the 17th century A. D. (cf. No. 923 below).

Mr. Kane (cf. Hist. Dh., I. p. 667) notices a commentary on the section under notice by Chāga who is styled Yājñikacakracūḍāmaṇi and also a Snānavidhipaddhati by Yājñikadeva. Chāga is undoubtedly a wrong name and in the light of the evidence of our MS. the correct name would appear to be Gaṅgādhara who has also styled himself Yājñikacakracūḍāmaṇi in the concluding stanza quoted below. It is, however, not possible to identify Yājñikadeva with our Gaṅgādhara, for the former is actually referred to by the latter.

पारस्करगृह्यसूत्र (काण्ड I only) with भाष्य by गदाधर

Foll. 191; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 191b. Fol. 1a is blank. It is moderately correct. Colophons are marked red. It is copied in Śaka 1722.

The Work:—The Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra. Kāṇḍa I only, together with a commentary thereon composed by Gadādhara Dīkṣita, son of Vāmana Mahāyājñika. The commentator refers to three older commentators on this work viz. Karkopādhyāya, Harihara and Jayarāma. He also refeis to the Śāntiratna (of Kamalākara) and must, therefore, have lived in the middle of the 17th century A. D. at the earliest. For another MS. see I. O., No. 4688.

Foll. 31; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 31*b*. The MS. is almost correct. The text occupies the middle of each folio and the commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:—The Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra, Kāṇḍa I only, with the commentary thereon composed in Saṃvat 1611 (c. 1554-5 A. D.) by Jayarāma Ācārya, son of Balabhadra, son of Dāmodara of the Bhāradvāja gotra. (cf. Peters., Ulwar Cat., Extract, 39). In the introductory stanzas the commentator refers to the commentary of Karka as the oldest of the several commentaries on that work. It is published at Benares.

पारस्करगृह्यसूत्र

with व्याख्या and पद्धति by हरिहर

Foll. 124; size 8½ in. by 4¾ in.; material rough thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 or 13 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 124*b*. Foll. 1-6 and 123-124 are slightly worm-eaten and torn. All folios are discoloured and worn out. The MS. is moderately correct.

The Work:—The Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra with the commentary of Harihara and the Paddhati (to end of Kāṇḍa II only) of the commentator himself. The commentator follows Vāsudeva, Karka and others. Harihara is an often quoted writer, Hemādri being the earliest to quote him. cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I, pp. 341-43. Harihara seems to be a pupil of Vijñāneśvara, the author of the Mitākṣarā on the Yājñavalkya Smṛti. cf. No. 927, colophon, below. Harihara himself quotes from the Viśvaprakāśa see No. 929 below. For the Paddhati of Vāsudeva see No. 931 below.

Foll. 14; size 11½ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 14*a*. Fol. 14*b* has a quotation added by a reader. The MS. is written neither very carefully nor very accurately. All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Snānapaddhati of Harihara who has based his work on the Snānasūtra of Kātyāyana which is also explained by the author here. Our MS. thus contains the commentary on the Snānasutra and also the Snānapaddhati of Harihara.

The Paddhati begins:—

Foll. 64; size 9¾ in. by 3¾ in.; material coarse thin yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 to 11 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 64*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 64*b* are blank. The MS. is written by two different hands. The second begins from fol. 42*a*. These folios and also fol. 3 are younger substitutes for the old ones which were probably missing with the exception of fol. 46 which is older. The original MS. is neatly written but not very carefully or accurately. The latter part is more carefully copied. Foll. 1-24 again appear to be written by a different hand. The MS. upto fol. 41 is much older than rest and the first two folios have pieces of paper pasted on to them.

The Work:—The Gṛhyapaddhati is a work based on and forming a sort of commentary to the Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra. The work is also called the Vāsudevapaddhati after its author Vāsudeva Dīkṣita who must have flourished not later than the twelfth century A. D. in as much as he is mentioned by Harihara (see No. 926 above) and Raghunandana cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 738. Our MS. contains the Gṛhyapaddhati complete in three Kāṇḍas. For another MS. and references see I. O., No. 4847.

It begins:—

Foll. 5; size 8 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in., material coarse thick yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 18 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol 5*a*. Then follows a quotation added by the scribe. The MS. is not very neatly written.

The Work:—The Bhojanasūtra is a small pamphlet on the procedure of taking one's meals. It is composed by Ananta Deva surnamed Dvivedī, son of Uddhava and consists of three Kāṇḍas. For our author's Rudrakalpadruma see No. 1134 below.

मानवगृह्यसूत्र

Foll. 34, size 12 in. by 7 in.; material thick yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. has two parts. Part I begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 16*a*. Fol. 1*b* has the title. Adhyāya II has its folios separately numbered. There also fol. 1 and the fly-leaf at the end have the title. This Adhyāya has 17 folios. Thus the total number of folios is 34. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately written; but the whole of Adhyāya I is in a very bad condition. All folios are broken and dilapidated and discoloured on account of the chemical effect of the ink. But the second Adhyāya has remained undamaged.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Maitrāyaṇīya Mānavagṛhyasūtra complete in two chapters called Puruṣas. Pūraṇa appears to be another popular name of this work. (See the next number). It has been edited by F. Knauer, St. Petersburg, 1897. For Aṣṭāvakra's commentary on this work see the next number.

It ends:—

Foll. 158; size $11\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 7 in., material glazed bluish thick paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. contains two parts separately paginated having the text and the commentary respectively. The total number of folios is 158. The MS. is very neatly and accurately ccopied.

The Work:—The Mānavagṛhysūtra, together with the commentary of Aṣṭāvakra. The name of the commentary, as found at the end of the first chapter, is Pūrṇākhyāna which, howevr, is only a mistake for the Pūraṇavyākhyāna. This latter is the correct name; for we know that the Gṛhyasūtra is also otherwise called the Pūraṇa. For anothet MS., quotations from the commentary and authorities referred to by our commentator see Vel., No. 655. For a discussion about the authorship and date of this commentary see F. with प्रदीप by नारायण

Foll. 320; size 11½ in. by 7 in.; material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 320*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 320*b* have the title. The MS. is very neatly written and is almost accurate. Foll. 130-310 are all worm-eaten in one corner, but the text is not damaged. Binding has become loose. Every folio is marked सा० गृ० सू० in the left margin and प्र० in the right.

The Work·—This MS. contains the text of the Sāmkhyāyanagṛhyasūtra (also spelt Śāṅkhāyana°) complete in 6 Adhyāyas together with the Pradīpa, a commentary thereon composed in Saṃvat 1629 (c. 1573 A. D.) by Nārāyaṇa, son of Kṛṣṇajī. The commentator at the end of the commentary gives us a long history of his genealogy as far back as his nineth ancestor Caṇḍāṃśu who lived in the city of Pāṭala in Gujarat. His son Vāmana got himself married in Vaidarbhanagara and had seven sons including Janārdana who is described as having been put to test by Paraśurāma, son of Bhṛgu, for six months in his own dwelling. Ultimately, however, Paraśurāma disclosed his identity and conferred three boons on Janārdana. Then followed Nīlakaṇṭha and Bhānu. This Bhānu had two sons Jagannātha and Jayadeva. Of these the former is the great grandfather of our commentator. Śrīpati and Kṛṣṇa are the names of our author's grandfather and father respectively. Each one of these from Nīlakaṇṭha onwards are described as having died at Benares and it is probable that they had become permanent residents of Benares.

with भाष्य and प्रयोग (Anon)

Foll. 163, size $11\frac{1}{4}$ in. by $6\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. has got two parts each of them being separately paginated. Part I has 101 folios of which fol. 1*a* has the title, and foll. 91*a* and. b, 92*a* and b and 93*a* are blank and fol. 96*a* and b, almost blank. There are many lacunae and some portion appears to be missing on fol. 96. The MS. is neatly written but is far from being correct. Part I breaks off on fol. 101*b*. Part II has 62 folios of which fol. 1*a* has the title. This part also breaks off on fol. 62*b*. All folios are much worm-eaten, but the text is little damaged. The text and the commentary (in part I) are intermingled.

The Work.—This MS. contains two different works. First the Sāṃkhyāyanagṛhyasūtra with Bhāṣya thereon called the Smṛtiśāstravivaraṇa whose authorship cannot be traced here. It appears to contain five Adhyāyas but there is some irregularity towards the end. Besides this our MS. also contains a Prayogapaddhati explaining the household rites (गृह्यकर्म) as enjoined in a Sūtra work said to be composed by Suyajña Ācārya. As yet no Sūtra work of Suyajña has been brought to light. But our author gives clear indication that Suyajñācārya had written some Sūtra work of the type of Gṛhyasūtras. (see quotations below). He also tells us that he follows the authority of Sūtrapāṭha, Bhāṣya and Cintāmaṇi.

Part I begins:—

नमस्यामि गुरून् सर्वान्प्रज्ञानुग्रहलिप्सया ।
अल्पज्ञोपि प्रसादेन येषां साध्ये(r. ध्ये ?)व जल्पति ॥
अथातः पाकयज्ञान्व्याख्यास्यामः । अथशब्दोधिकारार्थः ।

The chapters end:—

There is some irregularity towards the end of the MS. as can be seen from the ending of the Adhyāyas noted above.

Part II begins:—

नत्वा सुयज्ञमाचार्यं बालधीवृद्धये मया ।
तद्गृह्यकर्मणां गूढः प्रयोगः कथ्यते स्फुटः ॥ १ ॥
सूत्रपाठक्रमेणैव भाष्यानुसरणेन च ।
क्वचिन्या(r. न्या)[या]नुसारेण
वक्ष्ये चिन्तामणीप्सितम् ॥ २ ॥

The authorities referred to in the Prayogapaddhati:—

ऋग्विधान foll. 27*a*, 36*b*; कात्यायन foll. 20*a*, 37*b*, etc.; गौतम fol 32*b*; जयन्तस्वामिन् fol. 51*a*; परिशिष्ट foll. 24*b*, 36*b*, भरताध्याय fol. 54*a*; भाष्यकार foll. 27*a*, 29*b*; मनु fol. 20*b*; मनुस्मृति fol. 32*b*; यज्ञविद् fol. 53*a*; याज्ञिक fol. 23*a*.

Important quotations from the Prayogapaddhati:—

कुर्वाणः प्रतिपद्भागे तुरीयेपि न दुष्यति ।
अग्नौ करणपिण्डादि श्राद्धे स्यादतिदेशतः ॥
कृतेपि पिण्डयज्ञ[ं] स्यात्सिद्धसूत्रस्य सूत्रणात् ।

fol. 32*a*.

दक्षिणा च विवाहे तु सुयज्ञनात्र सूत्रिता । fol. 49*a*.

From these two quotations it can be seen that Suyajña's work, according to our commentator, was a Sūtra work.

जयन्तस्वामिना चोक्तं तदत्रैवोच्यते मया ॥ fol. 51*a*.
उक्तश्च याज्ञिकैरव परिशिष्टेषु निर्णयः ॥ fol. 23*a*.

Part II ends:—

इति हिरण्यवस्त्रदानादिप्रेमपिण्डं तथैव च ।
इति कारिका समाप्तम् ॥

Inspite of this remark at the end we find that the Kārikā breaks off in the middle of the 12th Khaṇḍa.

आध्रवकाण्ड

Foll. 37, size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $3\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7-9 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 59*b*. Foll. 8, 12-14, and 37-54 are missing. The MS. is profusely marked red. It is neatly written but it is much incorrect. Several corrections are introduced by some reader in the margin. Every folio is marked आ० का० in the left margin. Several folios are missing. All folios are slightly worm-eaten or discoloured. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is bound into a book. In the beginning of the MS. there is a folio containing a portion from some Gṛhyasūtra together with a commentary and is numbered 89.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Ādhṛvakāṇḍa in four chapters called Prapāṭhakas.

It begins:—

अग्निरेव पुरस्ताद्धीयते । संवत्सर उपरिष्टान्महदुक्थं शस्यते । प्रजापतिर्विस्रस्तस्यार्ग्ने etc.

It ends:—

आश्वलायनधर्मशास्त्र

Foll. 55; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 54*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. Fol. 55*a* has some quotations and fol. 55*b* has the title. All folios are slightly eaten by worms in one corner. Foll. 1, 54 and 55 are slightly torn. The MS. is dated Śaka 1685.

The Work:—The Āśvalāyana Dharmaśāstra dealing with all the Saṃskāras in about 25 chapters. For another MS. cf. I. O., No. 258, which, however, seems slightly to differ from ours as can be seen by comparing the contents of both.

It begins:—

Foll. 28; size 11½ in. by 5¼ in.; material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character: 10 to 12 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 28*b*. Fol. 27*b* is left blank, but there is no break. The MS. is only moderately accurate and is dated Śaka 1686. All folios are much discoloured with damp and are also eaten by worms in the left margin.

The Work —The Parāśara Smrti or the Pārāśara Dharmaśāstra, as the work is called in the colophons, is a metrical treatise on Dharma in 583 stanzas divided into 12 chapters. For detailed information regarding the contents, authorship etc. of this work see Kane, Hist. Dh., I, section 35. For another MS. see Vel., No. 658 where the work is said to consist of 11 Adhyāyas only. Also cf. I. O., Nos. 1295-98. This work is published with the commentary of Madhavācārya in the B. S. S.

It begins:—

पराशरस्मृति (अध्यायs IV-VIII only) with व्याख्या by माधवाचार्य

Foll. 70; size 11¾ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 55 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 69*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 69*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning are blank. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The MS. is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Parāśara-smrti, Adhyāyas IV-VIII and a portion of IX together with the commentary of Mādhavācārya, son of Māyaṇa and Śrīmatī, brother of Sāyaṇa and fellow student of Bhoganātha. He was the family preceptor and councellor of king Bukka (and also Harihara) of Vijayānagara towards the close of the 14th century. He was a pupil of Bhāratītīrtha and afterwards of Vidyātīrtha. Both the text as well as the commentary are published in the B. S. S.

The comm. begins:—

वागीशाद्याः सुमनसो(r. सः)सर्वार्थानामुपक्रमे ।
यं नत्वा कृतकृत्याः स्युस्तं नमामि गजाननम् ॥

After a long introduction of 8 stanzas the commentary begins:—

(अध्याय s XI–XII only)

Foll. 81, size 11½ in. by 5 in., material thick rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 81*a*. After 51 the numbering again begins afresh, and the last folio is numbered 29 instead of 81. This MS. appears to have been copied by the order of king Madan, son of Sādhāraṇa. The last two folios are slightly torn. The folios of the two Adhyāyas are separately numbered. In the second part two folios are given the number 28. The text is represented by Pratīkas only.

The Work:—The Manusmṛti, Adhyāyas XI and XII only, together with the commentary of Medhātithi. The text is represented by Pratīkas only. Both the text and the commentary are often published. From the two verses quoted below it appears that this commentary had become very rare and was almost lost; and that king Madana Sādhāraṇa (between 1300-1400 A. D.) is responsible for its revival.

The scribe's colophon:—

याज्ञवल्क्यस्मृति (आचारकाण्ड only) with मिताक्षरा by विज्ञानेश्वर

Foll. 113, size 12 in. by 5½ in., material rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 or 10 line in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1*a* and ends on fol. 111*a*. There are two fly-leaves in the beginning with an index The text and the commentary are intermingled Foll. 1 3 are torn. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies and yellow pigment is occasionally used for correcting the slips.

The Work:—The Ācārakāṇḍa of the Yājña-valkya Smṛti together with the Mitākṣarā, a commentary thereon composed by Vijñāneśvara, the preceptor of Harihara who has written a commentary on the Pāraskara Gṛhyasūtra (cf. No. 927 above). Vijñāneśvara's date can be fixed with tobrable certainly from the fact that he highly enlogises his patron King Vikramāditya and his capital Kalyāṇa. This patron of our commentator ruled between 1076 and 1126 A. D. (cf. EHD. pp. 85-89). Our commentator must, therefore, have flourished towards the close of the eleventh century A. D. For stanzas giving personal information about him see No. 958 below. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 1271-1281. For other Kāṇḍas see Nos. 951-53 below.

अन्त्येष्टिपद्धति

Foll. 28; size 8 in. by 3¾ in.; material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 28*b*. Fol. 1*a* has on it the name of the scribe, Sakhārāma. The MS. is only moderately correct.

The Work:—Another manual on the same subject. The author's name is not found; but in the introductory stanza 2 the author pays homage to Tryambaka and Dharmarāja; and obviously belongs to the Mādhyaṃdinīya recension of the Yajur-Veda. The work is apparently incomplete and is clearly different from the work noticed under No. 963 above.

It begins:—

नमस्कृत्वा(r. त्य) शिवं विष्णुं ब्रह्माणं च पितामहम्।

अन्त्येष्टिपद्धतिदानप्रयोग

Foll. 16; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 15*a*. The last folio is left unnumbered. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf in the beginning are left blank. Headings and colophons are marked red, and yellow pigment is rarely used.

The Work:—A small pamphlet dealing with the gifts to be given in honour of the dead as a part of the funeral rite. Anonymous.

It begins:—

Foll. 26; size 10 in. by 4½ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 28*b*. It is very inaccurately copied in Śaka 1723 by Nimbābhata Śukla. Foll. 1 and 2 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—A manual of ablution as an atonement for touching any untouchable thing or person. Anonymous. The author quotes from the Nirṇayasindhu and the Dharmapravṛtti and cannot, therefore, be earlier than the 18th century A. D.

It begins.—

Foll. 109 (4-112); size 8½ in. by 5 in., material thin rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1-3 being missing. It ends on fol. 110*b*. after which follows a quotation. The MS. is not quite free from inaccuracies. Foll. 4-30 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Ācārārka is a part of the Dharmaśāstrasudhānidhi an exhaustive treatise on Dharmaśāstra composed in Saṃvat 1743 (c. 1686-87 A. D.) by Divākara, son of Mahādeva, grandson of Bālakṛṣṇa, of the Bhāradvāja family. Divākara is the son of the daughter of Nīlakaṇṭha, the author of the Mayūkhas and the father of Vaidyanātha. For a genealogical tree see BUJ., XI (New Series), part II, p. 89. For other MSS. and quotations see I. O., No. 1616.

Foll. 2; size 8½ in. by 3½ in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 21 lines in all and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 2*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is only moderately correct. Both the folios are broken along the edges and also worm-eaten. Figures are marked red.

The Work:—A manual in ten 10 stanzas in the Śārdūlavikrīḍita metre giving the rules for observing impurities caused by birth or death of a relative. The work is ascribed to Vijñāneśvara, the famous author of the Mitākṣarā which is a commentary on the Yājñavalkya Smṛti. For another MS. cf. I. O., No. 1749. Also see Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 362 where a work named Āśaucadaśakamūlaślokāḥ is ascribed to Mādhavanandana, son of Rāmeśvarasūri. For a work called Daśaślokī on the same topic see Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 378. At Auf., Leip. Cat., 503 the author's name is given as Jñāneśvara which is probably to be corrected into Vijñāneśvara.

with शुद्धिचन्द्रिका by नन्दपण्डित

Foll. 115; size 9½ in. by 4¼ in., material rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 115*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is copied in Śaka 1712 by Sakhārāma Ābābhaṭa Pāṭhaka. Colophons are marked red. The text and the commentary are intermingled. Foll. 40-54 are slightly eaten by worms.

The Work —The Āśaucanirṇaya (also called Ṣaḍaśīti) is a metrical work on Āśauca containing 86 stanzas compiled by Kauśikāditya i. e. Āditya of the Kauśika Gotra who in this compilation draws upon the sayings of various sages.

The Śuddhicandrikā is a commentary on this work composed by Nanda Paṇḍita (alias Vināyaka Paṇḍita), son of Śrīrāmapaṇḍita, surnamed Dharmādhikārī. For a work of our auther's eldest brother see No. 113 above where is also given information about his ancestors. Our MS. contains both the text as well as the commentary.

आशौचनिर्णय

Foll. 15; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 26 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 14*b* are left blank. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title The MS. is neatly and almost accurately copied. Some words and lines are marked red.

The Work:—The Āśaucanirṇaya is a manual on the impurities caused by a birth or death in one's family. The author quotes from the Nirṇayasindhu and must, therefore, belong to the middle of the 17th century A.D. at the earliest. Another point worth noticing here is that the author refers to Vijñāneśvara as a commentator on the Trimśacchlokī. But see also Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 559 where is given Bhaṭṭoji's quotation which would show the author of the Trimśacchlokī to be different Vijñāneśvara in the opinion of Bhaṭṭoji.

It begins:—

Foll. 125; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 125*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is blank. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. All folios are eaten by worms in one corner. Every folio is marked आ० दी० in the left margin. Authorities, headings and colophons are marked in red ink.

The Work:—The Āhnika, or the Ācāradīpa as it is otherwise called, is a manual of the daily duties of the persons of the three Castes (Dvija) composed by Nāgadeva, who in some colophons is described as Bhaṭṭa Upāddhyāya. Nāgadeva refers to the Kālanirṇaya and must, therefore, be later than about 1359 (a date which is referred to in that work. cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 379 where it is stated that MS. No. 3858 Baroda O. I. is Dated Śaka 1491 so that our author must be said to have lived before 1435 A. D. But this is clearly an oversight, for Śaka 1491 would correspond to 1569 A. D. which really should be taken as the lowermost limit for the date of our author.

It begins:—

Foll. 22; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 84 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 22*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. Fol. 22*b* has on it an illustrative diagram. The MS. is moderately correct.

The Work·—The Calārcāpaddhati is a small treatise on the method of consecrating and worshipping a deity. It is composed by Nārāyana Muni who has followed the authority of the Gṛhyapariśiṣṭa, Bodhāyana, Traivikramī, Kālādarśa, Puruṣārthaprabodha, Śaradātilaka, Vopadeva and others. He can't therefore, have flourished earlier than the fourteenth century A. D. From the introductory stanzas his work appears to be the same as the one, noticed at I O, No. 1803 which, however, is ascribed to Kṛṣṇadeva, son of Rāmācārya.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 13*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is very carefully and accurately written in Śaka 1664 by Rāmacandra Śukla. It is also much torn and worm-eaten, thogh no damage is done to text.

The Work:—The Pratisthākalpa or Pratiṣṭhāpaddhati or Calārcāpaddhati is a small treatise giving the rules and method of consecrating and worshipping an image of a deity. It is based on various authorities including Bodhāyana, Trivikrama and others. From the colophon it would appear that this manual forms part of the Nṛsiṃhaparicaryā. But from the introductory verse it would seem to be identical with the work noticed under the last number. For another manual on this topic by Ananta Deva see Nos. 1041-1042 below.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 704*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is neatly copied, but slightly worm-eaten. But no damage is done to the text. The colophons are written in red ink.

The Work:—The Jayasiṃhakalpadruma (or Vratakalpadruma) is an exhaustive digest on Dharmaśāstra in 19 chapters (Stabakas) composed in saṃvat 1770 (c. 1713-14 A. D.) by Ratnākara, son of Devabhaṭṭa (at Ambikāpura, Jayasiṃha's capital) at the command of Jayasiṃha of Mathurā, whose descent is traced back to Brahman (i. e. God Viṣṇu). Among his ancestors, as they are described in the work under notice, two are famous in the history of ancient India. They are Dhundumāra and Māndhātṛ. From comparatively modern times we get name of Pṛthvīrāja; and then the unbroken descent is traced as follows. Mānasiṃha, Jagatsiṃha, Mahāsiṃha, Jayasiṃha (who took Śivājī a captive to Delhi), Śrīrāmasiṃha, Kṛṣṇasiṃha, Śrīviṣṇusiṃha and Jayasiṃha, the patron of our author, who is praised in more than ten stanzas and is described as having killed in the battle Husena and such other insolent warriors from the Mohammedan army. Before composing this work our author performed the Jyotiṣṭoma at Avantī, the Vājapeya at Ambāpura, the Pauṇḍarīka, the Dvādaśāha and the Sarvatomukha sacrifices. Mr. Kane gives Jayasiṃhakalpadrumodyota as an alternative title of this work (cf. Hist. Dh., p. 548). For other MSS. see Auf., Bodl. Cat., Nos. 665-667, and for quotations see I. O., No. 1595.

जीवच्छ्राद्धविधि

Foll. 16; size 8 in. by 1 in., material rough thin yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 to 10 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 16*a*. Fol. 16*b* is blank. The folio after it which is also numbered 16 has the title on one side. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Yajñeśvara Sānye in Śaka 1743.

The Work.—A manual of a rite resembling the funeral rite which is to be performed over a wooden (Palāśa) image of the man for whom it is meant.

It begins:—

जीवत्पितृकनिर्णय of रामकृष्णभट्ट

Foll. 24; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 24*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is only moderately correct. All folios are slightly torn and have small pieces of paper pasted on to them.

The Work:—The Jīvatpitṛkanirṇaya or Jīvatpitṛakakartavyakarmanirṇaya) composed by Rāmakṛṣṇabhaṭṭa, son of Bhaṭṭa Nārāyaṇa, grandson of Bhaṭṭa Rāmeśvara and cousin of Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, the author of Saṇṇavatiśrāddhapaddhati (cf. No. 1175) and father of Kamalākarabhaṭṭa, the author of the Nirṇayasindhu. This is a manual of the duties of a person whose father is alive. For quotaions and a list of authorities quoted see Vel., No. 686. For a genealogical tree showing our author's relationships see BUJ. XI (New series), Part 2, p. 89.

It begins:—

तिथिनिर्णय of नागदैवज्ञ

Foll. 6; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 or 14 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 6*b*. The MS. is almost correct. Yellow pigment is occassionally used for correcting the slips. Headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Tithinirṇaya (or Tithinirṇayatattva or simply Nirṇayatattva) is a small work dealing with the determination of the days of the Hindu month composed by Nāga Daivajña who follows the authority of Nirṇayasindhu. For full information about the author and for some of his works see Vel., Nos. 232 and 313. Also see No. 1011 above where the two introductory stanzas of our work appear as the introductory stanzas of the Kālanirṇaya noticed there.

It begins:—

तिथिनिर्णय of भट्टोजि

Foll. 42; size 9¼ in. by 5¼ in.; material thin coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 42*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 42*b* are blank. The MS. is not very neatly copied in Śaka 1708 by Śivarāma Śukla. It is much discoloured with damp and also slightly broken.

The Work.—The Tithinirṇaya, another similar treatise composed by Bhaṭṭoji Dīkṣita, son of Śrīdhara (Lakṣmīdhara). In one of our MSS. this work is named Tithinirṇayapradīpa. See No. 1052 below. For other MSS. cf., I. O., No. 1677 and Weber, Berl. Cat., No. 1176.

It begins:—

तिथिनिर्णय of भट्टोजि

Foll. 49; size 8½ in. by 4½ in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning and foll. 1-3 are missing. It ends on fol. 50*a*. Then follows a quotation which ends on fol. 51*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is left blank. The MS. is only moderately correct. All folios are discoloured. Headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Tithinirṇaya of Bhattojī Dīksita, another copy, cf. No. 1051 above. The colophon gives Tithinirṇayapradīpa as the title of this work. Our MS. is defective in the beginning and the work begins in the middle of the Rāmanavamī.

तिथिनिर्णय of राघव

Foll. 9; size 12¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and about 60 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 9*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 9*b* have the title. The MS.

is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1702 (c. 1780 A. D.). All folios are slightly worm-eaten

The Work:—The Tithinirṇaya (also called the Tithinirṇayasāroddhāra or simply Nirṇayoddhāra) is another treatise similar to the one noticed above (cf. Nos. 1051-52 above) composed by Rāghava who has based his work on various authorities like the Smṛtyarthasāra, the Smṛtidarpaṇa and the Nirṇayasindhu. He, therefore, must be later than about the middle of the 17th century A. D. The lowermost limit for his date can be fixed from the fact that one of our MSS (cf. No. 1056 below) is dated Śaka 1681 (c 1759 A. D.) which is 18 years older than Peters, Rep. VI, No. 75 which is dated Śaka 1699. For another MS. see Vel., No. 309.

It begins:—

तिथिनिर्णय

Foll. 59; size 10 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 57*b*. Fol. 58 and the fly-leaf in the beginning are blank. The MS. is only moderately correct and is copied by Nimbābhatta Śukla. Foll. 1 to 5, 51 to 58 and the fly-leaf are slightly worm-eaten. Others are slightly discoloured. Some lacunae are left in the body of the MS.

The Work:—The Tithinirṇaya (also called Sarvasamuccaya) is a manual of suitable days and time for the performance of various rites According to the information given by the author himself the work is based on the authority of Hemādri and Parāśara. It also quotes from the Kālanirṇayadīpikā and Madanapārijātaka among other authorities. It can't, therefore, be earlier than the middle of the 15th century.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. Fol. 10*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title. The MS. is moderately correct.

The Work:—The Triṁśacchlokī is a work in 30 stanzas of doubtful authorship dealing with the impurities caused by birth or death. The popularity of this work becomes evident by the pretty large number of commentaries that have been composed thereon. Cf. Auf., Cat. Catal., I. p. 236. For MSS. of some of the commentaries see Nos. 1060–67 below. Our MS. contains the 1st stanza of the commentary noticed at number 1061 below. One commentator ascribes this work to Bhaṭṭācārya. cf. No. 1060 below.

It begins:—

Foll. 10; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 6 in.; mater'al coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgaıī character; 16 to 21 lines in a page and 24 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 9*b*. Fol. 10*a* is blank and fol. 10*b* has the title. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above a:d below it.

The Work:—The Triṃśacchlokī with Bālabodhinī (or Rāmapriyaṃkarī), a commentary thereon composed by Kṛṣṇa, surnamed Bīḍastha, son of Ananta. This commentator is obviosly quite different from Kṛṣṇamitra, another commentator, son of Rāmanātha, grandson of Devīdatta. This latter styles himself Ācārya and is a voluminos writer as can be seen from the various works ascribed to him at Auf., Cat. Catal., I. p. 121*b*. According to our commentator the Triṃśacchlokī is the work of Bhaṭṭācārya. Our commentatoı does not refer to any other commentator; nor does he quote any but the ancient authorities viz. Smṛtis, etc.

Foll. 31; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coaıse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 32*a*. Fol. 1*a* and 32*a* have the title. The MS. is only moderately correct. Yellow pigment is used profusely for correcting the slips. Headings are marked red. The MS. is much worn out and foll. 1 and 32 are also much torn.

The Work:—The Triṃśacchlokī with Vyākhyā, a commentary thereon, composed by Bhaṭṭācārya who according to one of the commentators is also the author of the text. (see No. 1060 above). But at Vel., No. 667 the text is ascribed to Hemādri, and at Ulwar, No. 1339 to Vopadeva. For other MSS. see I. O., Nos. 1750-51, and Weber, Berl. Cat., Nos. 1093-97. Besides the great Smṛtikāras our commentator refers to Vijñāneśvarācārya (fol. 12*a*) and Laugākṣi (fol. 25*a*). The lowest limit for the date of our commentator is supplied by the fact that one of our MSS. of this commentary is dated Saṃvat 1600 (see No. 1065 below); and that Baroda O. I., No. 3883 dated Saṃvat 1579.

Foll. 57; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 57*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 57*b* are blank. The MS. is moderately correct, and is dated Śaka 1716. Yellow pigment is occasionally used for correcting the slips. Figures are marked red.

The Work:—This MS. contains a summary by Śambhu Bhaṭṭa of the important points in a commentary on the Triṃśacchlokī by Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, son of Mādhava, grandson of Rāmeśvara. Raghunātha is said to have flourished between 1560 and 1625 A. D. (cf. Kane, Hist.Dh., I, p. 555). Śambhu Bhaṭṭa Kavimandana, the author of the summary, also known as Sadāśiva was the son of Bālakṛṣṇa, and pupil of Khaṇḍadeva. He wrote his commentary on his preceptor's Bhāṭṭadīpikā, in 1708 A. D. (cf. Hall, Index, p. 179 and Mitra, Notices, No. 2532). Besides these works our author is said to have composed two more works viz. The Kālatattvavivecanasārasaṃgraha (based on Raghunātha's Kalatattvavivecana, composed in 1620 A.D.) and Pākayajñaprayoga. See Kane, Hist. Dh., I, p. 748b. Also see Mitra. Notices, No. 158.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and 13*a*. Fol. 13*b* and the flyleaf in the beginning are blank. The MS. is only moderately correct All folios are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Parvanirṇaya is a small treatise giving decisive information about Parvans and all doubtful points connected therewith. It is composed by Raghunātha Vājapeyin, son of Mādhava and Lalitā, grandson of Rāmeśvarabhaṭṭa, nephew of Nārāyaṇa, and younger brother of Viśvanātha and Prabhākara whose Rasapradipa was composed in 1583 A.D. Raghunātha's famous work Kālatattvavivecana was composed in 1620 A.D. Our author has also written a commentary on the Triṃśacchlokī which has been commented upon by Śambhu Bhaṭṭa (cf. No. 1067 above.) For another MS. see Ben , SK. Coll. Cat., No. 181.

पाठारेप्रभूणां क्षत्रियत्वप्रतिपादनम्

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks off on fol. 10*b*. Fol. 1*a* is slightly discoloured, with water effect. All folios are slightly eaten by worms. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately written.

The Work:—This is a small pamphlet in which the author has tried to prove that the Pāṭhare Prabhus are Kṣatriyas. The author, who refers to Viśvanātha Rāyarīkara of Bombay, first considers the duties of the Brāhmaṇas and the Kṣatriyas. Then he goes on to discuss the arguments against the propositions which were mainly forwarded by Paṇḍitas of Poona, enjoying the patronage of Bājī Rāo Peśhwa. Refuting these arguments he ultimately establishes his view on historical evidence. Then on the authority of a story in the Sahyādrikhaṇḍa (see quotations below) he accounts for the absence of the Kṣatriya qualities of Sārvabhaumatva, Atiparākrama, etc. in the Pāṭhare Prabhus. The story also gives a clue to the name Pātharīyāḥ or Pattanākhyāḥ. The MS. is incomplete.

प्रतापनारसिंह (अन्त्येष्टिप्रयोग only) of रुद्रदेव

Foll. 223; size 7¼ in. by 4 in.; material coarse yellow paper: fair, Davanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 220*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. Fol. 220*b* is blank. The MS. is moderately correct. All folios are slightly broken along the borders; and are also much discoloured. In the beginning there are three separately numbered folios with the index.

The Work:—The Pratāpanārasiṃha is an exhaustive treatise on Dharma composed by Rudradeva, son of Nārāyaṇa, surnamed Toro at Paiṭhan in Śaka 1632 (c. 1710-11 A.D.). Our MS. contains only a section of this comprehensive work dealing with the funeral rites in case of Āhitāgni as well as Anāhitāgni and also Sannyāsapaddhati. For another MS. containing this portion see Vel., No. 700. For other sections see Vel., Nos. 701-703, where is also given a list of authorities referred to or quoted by our author.

It begins:—

प्रयोगपद्धति of पञ्जलसिङ्गय्यसूरि

Foll. 111; size 7¼ in. by 3¾ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 22 letters in a line.

The MS. is fragmentary and defective in the beginning. Many folios are missing and good many folios worm-eaten. The MS. now has 111 stray folios all unnumbered. The MS. has a defective end and is dated Śaka 1496. It is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Prayogapaddhati is a manual of religious rites enjoined by Smṛtis composed by Pañjala Siṅgayya Sūri, son of Pañjala Mañcaṇa Ācārya. Our MS. is only fragmentary and is defective in the beginning. Our MS. is dated Śaka 1496 (c. 1574 A. D.) so that our author must be placed in the first half of the 16th century at the latest. But he seems to belong to considerably earlier date. For he refers to older works like the Vidhiratna and the Trikāṇḍakārikā (= Trikāṇḍamaṇḍana) but makes no reference to Hemādri, Madana and the other famous authors of the fourteenth and the subsequent centuries.

प्रयोगरत्न of नारायणभट्ट

Foll. 192; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 191*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 192*b* have the title. The MS. is moderately correct and is dated Śaka 1699. All folios are more or less worm eaten in one corner, but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Prayogaratna of Bhaṭṭa Nārāyaṇa, another copy cf. No. 1097 above. The title on foll. 1*a* and 192*b* is Brahunārāyaṇabhaṭṭiprayogaḥ instead of Prayogaratna. It would appear, therefore, that the Prayogaratna is to be found in two recensions-Bṛhat and Laghu. This conclusion seems to be warranted by the fact that we have in our Bhadkamkar collection a MS. of a work which is called Laghunārāyaṇabhaṭṭī (see No. 1099 below).

प्रयोगरत्न (abridged) of नारायणभट्ट

Foll. 58; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellow paper fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 57*b*. The MS. is almost accurately copied. Foll. 3, 16, 19-22 and 57-58 are torn. And the text on foll. 16, 57 and 58 is much damaged. At the end there is an index.

The Work:—This is an abridged version of the Prayogaratna of Nārāyaṇa Bhaṭṭa. Every folio has the title Laghunārāyaṇabhaṭṭī. In this version quotations appear to be altogether omitted and the Mantras are represented by Pratīkas only.

प्रयोगरत्नमाला of वासुदेव

Foll. 48; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material rough bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on the reverse side of the fly-leaf in the beginning, and ends on fol. 47*a*. Fol. 47*b* has the index: and the fly-leaves at both the ends have the title. The MS. is moderately correct. Two folios are numbered four. Foll. 43 and 44 are missing.

The Work:—The Prayogaratnamālā is a treatise dealing with the religious and civil rites to be performed by a Hindu composed by Vāsudeva, son of Āpadeva Bhaṭṭa, surnamed Citaḷe a Citpāvana Brāhmaṇa, resident of Cipaḷoṇa. Citpāvana is not the name of a family as Aufrecht seems to have understood it (cf. Cat. Catal. II. P. 134*b*). Our author quotes from the Nirṇayasindhu and must, therefore, have lived about the middle of the 17th century at the earliest. From the colophon of this MS. it would appear that our author intended Vidvatkaṇṭhavilāsinī as another title of this work. Our MS. contains only the Pratiṣṭhāprayoga from this work. See No. 1112 below for stanzas giving information about the author.

It begins:—

अथ स्थावरविष्णुप्रतिष्ठोच्यते । तत्रादौ मूर्तिनिर्माणप्रकारः । कृत्यरत्नाकरे ।

It ends:—

प्रयोगरत्नमाला of वासुदेव

Foll. 40; size 12 in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 to 12 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 39*a*. Fol. 39*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning are blank. The MS. is moderately correct and is dated Śaka 1702. All folios are slightly discoloured and broken along the edges. Foll. 33 to 39 are much broken; but no damage is done to text.

Foll. 65; size 8½ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 62*b*. Foll. 1*a* and 63*b* have the title. In the beginning there is a separate folio with the index. The MS. is moderately correct. Headings and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Prayogaratnamālā of Vāsudeva, dealing with the Pratisṭhāprayoga, another copy, cf. Nos. 1110-11 above. In this MS. we get two couplets at the end giving the surname of the author and his place of residence. These lines are not found in the other MSS. noticed above.

It ends:—

प्रवरनिर्णय of विश्वनाथ

Foll. 25; size 9 in. by 4¾ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair Devanāgarī character: 9 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol 25*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is moderately correct. Colophons are marked red and stops are marked with ink.

The Work:—The Pravaranirṇaya (or more accurately Pravaranirnayavākyasudhārṇava) is another work on the same subject by the same author as of the Gotrapravaranirṇaya noticed at Nos. 1033-34 above. This latter was composed by Viśvanātha at Benares in Śaka 1506 (c. 1584 A. D.). For another MS. see I. O., No. 1782 where is also given a full analysis of this work. Our MS. ends with Agastivaṃśapravaranirṇaya.

It begins·—

प्रासादप्रतिष्ठा of नृहरि

Foll. 19; size 9½ in. by 5¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 37 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 19*b*. It is almost accurately copied by Nathubhaṭa Pāṭhaka in Śaka 1714.

The Work:—The Prāsādapratisthā is a small work on the rite called Prāsādaśānti composed by Nṛhari, surnamed Paṇḍharapūra who has based his work on the Pratiṣṭhāmayūkha and the Jalāśayotsargavidhi from the Matsyapurāṇa. He quotes also from the Nirṇayasindhu (1612 A. D.). For other works of our author see Nos. 802 and 804 above.

It begins:—

भगवन्तभास्कर of नीलकण्ठ

(नीतिमयूख only)

Foll. 54; size 13 in. by 5½ in.; material glazed blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 64 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 54*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 54*b* have the title. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately copied. All folios are slightly discoloured and fol. 54 is slightly torn.

The Work:—The Bhagavantabhāskara is an exhaustive work on Dharmaśāstra consisting of 12 parts called Mayūkhas composed by Nīlakaṇṭha, younger brother of Raṅganātha, Dāmodara and Nṛsiṃha, son of Bhaṭṭa Śaṅkara and grandson of Nārāyaṇa. The work is so called because it was composed under the patronage of the Rajput prince Bhagavantadeva (c. 1640 A. D.). Our MS. contains the fifth part of this compendium called the Nītimayūkha. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 697; and I. O., Nos. 1444-45. Our MS. agrees with I. O., No. 1444 in having the corrupt stanzas at the end. Fo a genealogical tree showing our author's relationships see BUJ. XI (New Series), Part 2, p. 89.

The Work.—The Madanapārijāta is an exhaustive treatise dealing with religious and civil duties of a Hindu in 9 chapters called Stabakas composed by Viśveśvara Bhatta, son of Peddi Bhatta and Ambikā. The work is named after his patron Madanapāla of Kāṣṭhā (near Delhi), son of Sādhāraṇa and grandson of Bharahapāla. Our author composed his Madanavinoda, a medical dictionary, in 1375 A. D., (cf. No. 293 above). Besides these two works he has also composed Smṛtikaumudī, Karmavipāka (cf. Nos. 1129-30 below.) and Subodhinī, which (last) is a commentary on Vijñāneśvara's Mitākṣarā on the Yājñavalkya Smṛti (see No. 955 above). For other MSS. see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 651-52.

Foll. 327; size 10¼ in. by 3 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 8 lines in a page and 46 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 324*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 324*b* have the title. At the end there are two separately numbered folios having the index as far as fol. 216. The remaining portion of the index is written on a separate piece of paper by a different hand. The MS. is moderately correct and is dated Saṃvat 1456. Fol. 219 is a recent substitute for the old missing folio.

The Work:—The Madanamahārṇava-Karmavipāka (or simply Karmavipāka) is an exhaustive work accounting for the various diseases as being the result of evil actions done in the previous birth. It is composed by Viśveśvara Bhaṭṭa, the author of the Madanapārijāta and other works (see No. 1126 above) but attributed by him to Māndhātā, son of Madanapāla, his patron. He actually claims the author-ship of this work in his Smṛtikaumudī (see Kane, Hist. Dh., I. pp. 382–83). This work is said to have 40 chapters called Taraṅgas; but in our MS. they are not all clearly marked and numbered. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 712 and I. O., Nos. 1763–64. At I. O., No. 1763 are given quotations and some of the topics dealt with in the work. Our MS. is dated Saṃvat 1456 (c. 1400 A. D.) and is to be highly valued as being the oldest MS. of the work under notice.

It begins:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 76*b*. It is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1735. Headings and names of authorities are marked red. Fol. 1*a* has the title.

The Work:—The Rudrakalpadruma is a manual of the use of Rudra in various Vedic rites composed by Anantadeva Dvivedi, son of Uddhava, and younger brother of Śrīdeva, belonging to the Traivedyamota caste, a resident of Benares. This work is noticed into two parts at Vel., Nos. 714–15 where the 2nd part is defective towards the end. Our MS. contains the second part complete with the concluding stanzas giving information about the author. For analysis quotations and lists of authorities quoted see Vel., No. 714–15. For the Bhojanasūtra of our author see No. 932 above. He refers to the Nirṇayasindhu and must, therefore, have flourished about the middle of the 17th century at the earliest.

It begins:—

रुद्रपद्धति of अनन्त

Foll. 47; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 47*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 47*b* have the title. The MS. is moderately correct and is copied by Māṇikabhaṭṭa Nṛsiṃhabhaṭṭa Dhoṇḍe, in Śaka 1674. Yellow pigment is used for correcting the slips in many places. Foll. 1, 46 and 47 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Rudrapaddhati (or Sarvasaṃgraharudrānuṣṭhānatrividhagrahamakhapaddhati) is a manual of Rudra Worship composed by Ananta Dīkṣita, son of Viśvanātha, surnamed Yajñopavīta. For other MSS. see vel., No. 713 and I. O., No. 1788. Another work of our author is Prayogaratna which is nothing but a slightly modified version of the Prayogaratna of Bhatta Nārāyaṇa (see I. O., No. 477). Our author must, therefore, have lived after Bhaṭṭa Nārāyaṇa. Our MS. is as old as the Baroda O. I., No. 8030 which is dated Saṃvat 1809.

It begins:—

Foll. 35; size 9 in. by 5 in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, fol. 1 being missing. It ends on fol. 36*b*. The MS. is moderately correct. All folios are discoloured and fol. 36 slightly torn.

The Work:—The Rudrapaddhati, another metrical manual of Rudra-worship in 1028 stanzas composed by Paraśurāma, son of Karṇa a Northern Brāhmaṇa, in Saṃvat 1515 (c. 1457 A. D.). The author himself gives the eight topics discussed in this work (see quotations below) towards the end of the work. Our MS. is defective in the beginning and the first fifteen stanzas are missing. The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 4*b*. It is moderately correct and is much discoloured and worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Rudrajapasiddhāntaśiromaṇi is said to be a large work comprising several chapters, though the Baroda O. I., No. 10946 has only thirteen of them. (cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I,). It is composed by one Rāmacandra Pāṭhaka about whom, however, nothing is known at present. Our MS.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 91*b*. It is very neatly written in Saṃvat 1807 and is only moderately correct. Yellow pigment is used in many places for correcting the slips. Headings and colophons are marked red. Foll. 1-4 are much worm-eaten and the text on fol. 2 is slightly damaged, Foll. 5, 6, and 85-91 are slightly worm-eaten. The text is full of lacunae in some places.

The Work:—The Kālakhaṇḍa (the calender of rites and observances throughout the year) of the laghucintāmaṇi, also called Puruṣārthacintamaṇisāroddhāra of Vīreśvara, son of Rāma surnamed Goḍabole. The work, the author tells us, is an abridgement of another big work named Pumarthacintāmaṇi or Puruṣārthacintāmaṇi composed by Viṣṇuśarman (or Viṣṇu Bhaṭṭa) son of Rāmakṛṣṇa surnamed Aṭhavale who follows mainly the authority of Hemādri and Mādhava. This Viṣṇuśarman must, therefore, be later than the end of the 14th century approximately. As our MS. is dated Saṃvat 1807 (c. 1751 A. D.)—older than the Baroda O. I., No. 1666—Vīreśvara must have lived about the beginning of the 18th century: so that Viṣṇuśarman, the author of the original work who must have lived at least a few decades earlier can not be dated later than the third quarter of the 17th century.

It begins:—

The Work.—The Liṅgārcanacandrikā is a manual of the worship of the idol (Liṅga) of god Śiva. It is composed by Sadāśiva, son of Gadādhara, grandson of Viṣṇu, surnamed Daśaputra. The work, according to the information given by the author himself, was composed at the instance of king Jayasiṃha. Our author is, therefore, to be placed in the beginning of the 18th century. In this work the author refers to his own Rudrakalpa.

वैश्वदेवप्रकरण (from आह्निक) of त्र्यम्बक

Foll. 6; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins fol. 1b and ends on fol. 6a. It is moderately correct and is dated Śaka 1705. Foll. 1a and 6b have the title. Foll. 1 and 6 are slightly broken. All folios are slightly discoloured.

The Work:—The Vaiśvadevaprakaraṇa is a section of the Āhnika, a manual of the daily duties of a Hindu, composed by Tryambaka who among other authorities refers to Bhaṭṭoji Dīkṣita, Kamalākara's Ācāradīpa and Dharmapravṛtti of Bhaṭṭa Nārāyaṇa. He must, therefore, have flourished towards the middle of the 17th century at the earliest. Lakṣmī and Narahari appear to be the names of the parents of our author; and his surname seems to Gopīnandana.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 15*b*. Fol. 16*a* has the illustrative diagram and fol. 16*b* has the list of requisites. Fol. 1*a* has a quotation giving the names of the Adhidevatās and Pratyadhidevatās. The MS. is only moderately correct. Yellow pigment is used in many places for correcting the slips.

The Work:—The Śālākarmapaddhati, is a small manual of a rite of entering a newly built house for the first time. It is ascribed to Gaṅgādhara Bhatta in the colophon. At Kane, Hist. Dh., I. p. 636 a manual of this name is said to form part of the Daśakarmadīpikā of Paśupati, elder brother of Halāyudha and Paṇḍita Lakṣmaṇasena of Bengal. The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 13b. Fol. 14 is completely blank. The last two folios are left unnumbered. The MS. is almost accurately copied. All folios are worm-eaten and the text is slightly damaged.

The Work.—The Śivārcanacandrikā is a comprehensive work dealing with the details of the various questions regarding the mystic worship of God Śiva composed by Śrīnivāsa Bhatta, son of Śriniketana, grandson of Tumula Dīksita and a disciple of Sundararāja. Our MS. contains only the 17th chapter of this work. At Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 208*b* this work is said to contain only 16 chapters (Prakāśas) which is obviously incorrect (see also Kane, Hist. Dh, I, p. 687*b*).

Our author's grandson Janārdana composed a work called the Mantracandrikā in 12 chapters explaining the Rsi, Nyāsa and other things relating to the Mantras mentioned in the work under notice. There Janārdana tells us that his father was Jagannivāsa, son of Śrīnivāsa (our author) and that his eldest brother was famous by the name Śiromaṇi who is of course not to be identified with the famous Naiyāyika Raghunātha Śiromaṇi Bhaṭṭācārya. For a MS. of the Mantracandrikā cf. Vel., No. 855.

Foll. 89; size 9¾ in. by 4½ in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 or 10 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 88*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning is left blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1721. Headings and names of authorities are marked red. All folios are discoloured with damp and the last folio is also slightly torn.

The Work:—The Śuddhiviveka is a manual of purificatory rites (Śuddhi) composed by Rudradhara, son of Lakṣmīdhara, and younger brother of Haladhara, a well-known Maithila writer on Dharmaśāstra to whom we owe several works such as the Varṣakṛiya and Vratapaddhati. He mentions Ratnākara, Pārijāta, Mitākṣarā and Hāralatā as old works. He also mentios Harihara, the commentator of the Pāraksara Gṛhyasūtra (fol. 9*a*). He is quoted by Vācaspati and Govindānanda. Rudradhara must, therefore, have flourished between 1425 and 1460 A. D. For another MS. see I. O., No. 1742. For a MS. of the Śrāddhaviveka, another work of our author see I. O., No. 1741. Also see Kane, Hist. Dh., I. p. 396 seqq. Sect. 96.

शुद्धिविवेक of रुद्रधर

Foll. 70; size 11¾ in. by 5 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1–4 are missing. It ends on fol. 74*b*. It is moderately correct and copied in Samvat 1935. Foll. 1–32 are much worm-eaten and foll. 73 and 74 are slightly torn. The text is not damaged.

The Work:—Rudradhara's Śudhiviveka, another copy, defective in the beginning, cf. No. 1168 above.

Foll. 23; size 11 in. by 4¾ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 23*b*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is only moderately correct and is dated Samvat 1793. Yellow pigment is often used for correcting the slips. All folios are slightly worm-eaten and worn-out and much discoloured with damp.

The Work:—The Śyenacitimantropadhānaprakāśa (or simply Śyencit) is a manual of the rite called Śyenacit composed by Rāya Bhaṭṭa (or Rāyambhatta) surnamed Kānakurte, son of Vīreśa. Kamalākara Bhaṭṭa, the famous author of the Nirṇayasindhu, was his mother's father. He must, therefore, have flourished in the latter half of the 17th century.

Foll. 3; size 8¼ in. by 4¼ in.; material thin glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 or 8 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 3*a*. It is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1785. All folios are slightly worn out and also worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Śrāddhakārikā is a metrical manual giving the details of the Śrāddha ceremony in 33 stanzas of unknown authorship.

It begins:—

श्राद्धचन्द्रिका of दिवाकर

Foll. 75, size 13¾ in. by 4½ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10-12 lines in a page and 50 to 60 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 74*a*. Then follows a metrical index which ends on fol. 75*b*. The MS. is moderately correct and is dated Śaka 1712. Headings are marked red.

The Work:—The Śrāddhacandrikā is a part of a bigger work called Dharmaśāstrasudhānidhi, an exhaustive treatise on Dharmaśāstra composed by Divākara, son of Mahādeva and grandson of Bālakṛṣṇa of the Bhāradvaja Gotra. He refers to Nīlakaṇṭha, the reputed author of the Bhagavantabhāskara, as his mother's father. Śrāddhavinirṇaya appears to be another title of this work (see st. 3 quoted below). Our MS. also contains a metrical index to this work comprising 53 stanzas composed by the author's son, Vaijanātha (or Vaidyanātha cf. Kane, Hist. Dh. I. p. 644) and younger brother of Rāma. For a detailed genealogical information about our author see BUJ. XI (New Series), Part II, p. 89.

Foll. 69; size 8½ in. by 5¾ in.; material thin blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 18 to 28 lines in a page and 32-41 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 69*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 69*b* are blank. The MS. is very neatly and almost accurately copied in Śaka 1735. On fol. 1*a* there some lancunae. Almost all folios are worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Śrīrāmakalpadruma is an exhaustive treatise on Dharma in 10 chapters (Khandas) dealing with Kāla, Śrāddha, Vrata, Samskāra, Prāyaścitta, Śānti, Dāna, Ācāra, Rājanīti and probably Utsarga, composed by Ananta Bhatta, son of Kamalākara Bhatta (au. Nirnayasindhu). Our MS. contains only the Samayakānda. For another MS. see Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 138*a*.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 42*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 42*b* have the title. The MS. is moderately copied and is dated Śaka 1701. Almost all folios are torn and much worm-eaten on the left side. But the text is not much damaged. Fol. 33 is made of two folios left blank on one side.

The Work:—The Ṣaṇṇavatiśrāddhapaddhati is a manual of the Śrāddha ceremony in its 96 varieties composed by Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha, son of Bhaṭṭa Mādhava, grandson of Bhaṭṭa Rāmeśvara, nephew of Bhaṭṭa Nārāyaṇa (au. of the Prayogaratna) and cousin of Bhaṭṭa Rāmakṛṣṇa (au. Jīvatpitṛkanirṇaya Nos. 1018-19 above). In this work our author refers to his uncle Nārāyaṇa and his Aurdhvadehikapaddhati. It may also be noted here that our author had performed the Vājapeya sacrifice and was on that account styled Vājapeyayājin or Vājapeyin (see Nos. 1067 and 1085 above).

Foll. 14; size 12 in. by 4 in., material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 12 lines in a page and 51 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 13*a*. Fol. 13*b* is blank. The MS. is moderately correct. and is dated Śaka 1724. All folios are more or less worm-eaten and the text on fol. 11 is slightly damaged.

The Work:—The Ṣaṇṇavatiśrāddhanirṇaya is another manual of Śrāddha and its 96 varieties composed by Śiva Bhaṭṭa, surnamed Cāturyadhara, (=Caturdhara), son of Govindasūri who was styled Dharmārācārya and grandson of Nīlakaṇṭha, the famous commentator of the Mahābhārata. He is said to have been originally a resident of Kūrparagrāma on the Godāvarī. Dharmatattvaprakāśa is another work of our author composed at Benares in 1776 A. D. The work under notice is based on old works like Hemādri, Smṛtyarthasāra and Smṛticandrikā. It is interesting to note that an unbroken line of descent for this Caturdhara family has been traced and brought to light by Prof. Gode. (See BORI., Jubilee Vol. pp. 146-61).

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 104*a*. Fol. 104*b* and the fly-leaf after it are blank. The MS. is neatly and almost accurately copied. All folios are discoloured with damp and foll. 102–104 are also slightly torn.

The Work:—The Saṃskārapaddhati (or Smārtānuṣṭhānapaddhati) is a manual of the Saṃskāras (Mādhyandinīya) composed by Amṛta, son of Sakhārāma, surnamed Pāṭhaka. This work is different from another work of the same name composed by Ananta Bhaṭṭa, son of Viśvanātha noticed at I. O., No. 1632. That this latter work was known to our author is evident from the close resemblance of introductory stanzas in both the works. For another work of Ananta, son of Viśvanātha see No. 1135 above. The date of our author can be fixed with tolerable certainly from the circumstance that in the work under notice he quotes from the Dharmābdhisāra which is only another name of the Dharmasindhu or the Dharmasindhusāra of Kāśīnātha alias Bābā Pādhye (composed in 1790–91 A. D.) Our author must, therefore, be placed in the early beginning of the 19th century A. D.

Foll. 111; size 12 in. by 6 in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 111*a*. It is almost accurately copied. Every folio is marked सं० भा० in the left margin. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 111*a* is blank. Foll. 41, 98 and 99*a* repeat the text on foll. 40, 96*b* and 97.

The Work:—The Saṃskārabhāskara is a compendium of the Saṃskāras composed by Bhaṭṭa Śaṅkara, son of Bhaṭṭa Nīlakaṇṭha (au. the Bhagavantabhāskara). For other MSS. see I. O., No. 1464; and Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 658. For another work of the same name see the next number. The title on fol. 1*a* is Saṃskāramayūkha. But the author himself intended to call his work Saṃskārabbāskara (see st. 2 and the colophon quoted below).

सर्वोपयुक्तकारिका of भट्टोजि with व्याख्या by महेश्वर

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 5a. Fol. 5b with the fly-leaf in the beginning is left blank. The MS. is moderately correct. The text occupies the Middle and commentary runs both above and below it.

The Work:—The Sarvopayuktakārikā is a small metrical pamphlet dealing with the Śrāddha rite in 14 stanzas in the Śārdūlavikrīḍita metre ascribed to Bhaṭṭoji Dīksita, in the colophon at the end of this MS. Our MS. also contains a commentary thereon composed by Maheśvara (see No. 1195 below) whose name is not given in this MS. The commentator himself is ignorant about the authorship of this work and says that it is composed by some great poet well-versed in Dharmaśāstra. This shows that the commentator is far removed from the author of this poem.

The poem is also called the Caturdaśaślokī on account of its comprising 14 stanzas. Mr. Kane, ascribes the Caturdaśaślokī to Bhaṭṭojī Dīkṣita, but wrongly describes the Sarvopayuktakārikā as a separate work. cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I. pp. 545 and 585. But in the colophon of one of our MSS. (see No. 1193 above) this work, under the title (Sarvopayukta)kārikā, is ascribed to Bopadeva. If this be correct then our work will be considerably older; for Bhaṭṭojī worte his Siddhānta Kaumudī about 1625 A. D.; while Bopadeva was a contemporary of Hemādri and lived towards the close of the 13th century.

The Work —This MS. contains the judgement given by the learned Brāhmaṇas sent by His Holiness, Śankarācārya of Karavīra. The Brāhmaṇas, after consulting numerous works on Dharmaśāstra, at last gave their decision that the Sāsastikaras (i. e. the inhabitants of Sāsasti) are not Brāhmaṇas.

सूर्यार्घ्यविधिपद्धति of भट्टमाधव

Foll. 12; size 6 in. by 3½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 12*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and fol. 12*b* is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1735. All folios are much worm-eaten; but the text is not much damaged.

The Work.—The Sūryārghyavidhipaddhati (or Tṛcārghyadānapaddhati as the work is called on fol. 1*a*) is a manual of the method of offering Arghyas to the sun, with the use of Tṛcākalpa. It is composed by Bhaṭṭa Mādhava, son of Rāmeśvara Bhatta and Sītāmbā and father of Prabhākara who wrote his Rasapradipa in 1581 A. D. He had two more sons Raghughunātha, the author of the Kālatattvavivecana and other works, and Viśvanātha. For a genealogical tree of our author see BUJ. XI (New Series) Part II. p. 89.

स्मार्तप्रयोगरत्न (ch. I & III only) of महेश

Foll. 98; size 11 in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 98*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is carefully written but the ink has so much faded that the MS. has become very illegible on almost all folios On some folios the ink has totally faded leaving blank patches. The folios are also much worn out, though not torn, on the borders.

The Work:—The Smārta-prayoga-ratna is a treatise giving detailed and decisive information about the variours Smārtaprayogas in three chapters (Prakaraṇas) dealing with Saṃskāra, Śānti, and Śrādha respectively. It is composed by Maheśa Bhaṭṭa, son of Mahādeva, surnamed Vaiśampayana at Kāśī (Benares). Our author's Kuladevatā is Gopāla. Our MS. contains the first and only a part of the 3rd chapter. The second is altogether missing. The author Maheśabhaṭṭa follows the authority of Satyāṣāḍha and Hiraṇyakeśin and Mātṛdatta.

It begins:—

Foll. 84; size 8 in by 4 in.; material rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 37-40 letters in a line.

The MS. has an unnumbered folio in the beginning which has the title. The MS. actually begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 122*a*. Fol. 122*b* again has the title. The MS. is only fragmentary with fol. 29-32, 72-103 and 120 are altogether missing. For the rest of the folios, most of them are worm-eaten at the top and the bottom and foll. 119, 121 and 122 are greatly damaged by worms. The scribe's name is Gaṅgādhara Nārāyaṇa Nātu. He is a very careful writer and writes an attractive hand

The Work:—This MS. contains only the first chapter of the Smārtaprayogaratna, a work explaining the various Saṁskāras, Śāntis and Śrāddhas in three chapters by Maheśabhaṭṭa Vaiśampāyana who has based his work on the Hiraṇyakeśīyagṛhyasūtra. Another copy, cf, No. 1204 above.

Foll. 31; size 8½ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 or 11 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 31*b*. Then follows a quotation which ends on fol. 33*a*. The MS is almost accurately copied by Gaṇeśa Govinda Hayagrīva in Śaka 1709. Fol. 33*b* and the fly-leaf in the beginning have the title.

The Work:—The Smārtaprāyaścittoddhāra (or Smārtaniṣkṛtipaddhati) is a manual of expiations for the atonement of faults of omission or commission in the performance of household rites. It is composed by Divākara, son of Mahādeva, grandson of Bhaṭṭa Rāmeśvara, surnamed Kāle. Divākara's mother was the sister of Kamalākara, the author of the Nirṇayasindhu. Our author is quite different from another Divākara (surnamed Bhāradvāja) also son of Mahādeva (the author of the Prakāśa on the Siddhāntamuktāvalī) but grandson (son of the daughter) of Nīlakaṇṭha, the famous author of the Bhagavantabhāskara. cf. The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 21*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied. All folios are worm-eaten in one corner of the right hand side.

The Work:—The Smārtollāsa is a work dealing with the house-hold rites and the various different questions regarding them composed by Śivaprasāda, son of Śrīnivāsa surnamed Pāṭhaka a resident of the Puṣkaravallī. A MS. of the work noticed at Baroda Or. Inst., Cat., No. 11958 is dated Śaka 1610 (c. 1688. A. D.). Our author also refers to Madanaratna and Toḍarānanda. He must, therefore, have flourished between 1580 and 1688 A. D. Śrautollāsa is another work ascribed to our author at Kiel., Cent. Provin. Cat., No. 12. For another MS. see Peters., Ulwar Cat., No. 1532 and Extr. 367. Also see Kane, Hist. Dh., I. p. 668. Our MS. contains only a part of this work dealing with Śravaṇākarmaprayoga, Indrayajñaprayoga and Pṛsātakākarmaprayoga.

स्मृतिकौस्तुभ of अनन्तदेव

Foll. 227; size 9 in. by 4¼ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 to 17 lines in a page and 32 to 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol 1*b* and ends on fol. 227*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the date and the name of the scribe. Fol. 227*b* is blank. The MS is only moderately correct and is dated Śaka 1695.

The Work:—The Smṛtikaustubha is a vast digest on Dharmaśāstra comprising several parts (12 parts according to Eggeling cf I. O., No. 1475) dealing with Saṃskāra, Ācāra, Rājadharma, Dāna, Utsarga, Pratiṣṭhā, Tithi and Saṃvatsara. It is composed by Ananta Deva, who tells us that this work was compiled at the command of and in order to please Bājabāhādura who was born in a race claiming its descent from the moon The genealogical information of this race as given by our author begins with Saṅjñānacandra whose son Kalyāṇacandra was a benevolent ruler. A few generations after him came Rudracandra, a very famous and appreciative prince. He had a son Lakṣmaṇacandra who subdued many rival princes reigning in the Himālayās, extended his territory and satisfied the learned with benevolent gifts. Then came Trimalla who was followed by Nīlacandra whose son Puruṣottama is very highly praised by the author in no less than six stanzas. This Puruṣottama, therefore, appears to be the then reigning prince and patron of our author. Bājabāhādura (or more fully Bājabāhāduracandra, sometimes shortened into mere Bāja) appears to be only another name of this Purusottama.

Our author Ananta Deva himself is the great-grandson of Ekanātha who is identified with the great Marāṭhā saint and poet of that name. Ekanātha's son Ananta Deva is the author of Śrutiśiraḥsiddhāntatattva and his son Āpadeva, the father of our author, is the famous author of a work called Nyāyaprakāśa. For other works of our author and his general history, date etc. see Kane, Hist. Dh., I, sect. 109. Our MS. contains only the Saṃskārakaustubha from this work. For other MSS. see I. O , Nos. 1477-78. For some other sections see Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 128, and Nos. 1212-13 below.

Foll. 135; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 29 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 134*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at the end are blank. This MS. is moderately correct. All folios are slightly worm-eaten. This MS. is dated Śaka 1649.

The Work:-The Smṛtyarthasāra is a Smṛti digest divided into three parts (Prakaraṇas) dealing with Ācara, Āśauca and Prāyaścitta respectively composed by Śrīdhara between 1150–1200 A. D. It is based on old authorities which the author has noted in the introductory stanzas. This work is quoted by Hemādri in his Caturavargacintāmaṇi, Pariśeṣakhaṇḍa. See Kane, Hist. Dh., I. p. 335ff. It is published in the AS. Series, Poona, 1912. For other MSS. see I. O., No. 1543 and Mitra, Bik. Cat., p. 469. Our author Śrīdhara, son of Nāgaviṣṇu of the Viśvāmitra gotra is different from the author of the Jātamallavilāsa and also from that of the Sāpiṇḍyadīpikā. See I. O., No. 1593 and also Bhand., Rep., 1883-84, p. 46.

इतिहाससमुच्चय

Foll. 95; size $11\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 lines in a page and 46 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 95*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title while fol. 95*b* is blank. The MS. is badly copied and is only moderately accurate. Figures and colophons are marked red. All foll. are slightly discoloured with damp. Foll. 1, 2 and 95 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Itihāsasamuccaya is a work in 32 Adhyāyas giving us many episodes all from the Mbh. The author gives a metrical index in the beginning. Our MS. almost agrees with the one noticed at Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 35, the order of the Adhyayas being slightly different. For another MS. containing 35 episodes see I. O., No. 3305.

सत्यनारायणकथा
(from इतिहाससमुच्चय)

Foll. 10; size 12½ in. by 4½ in.; material glazed blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 10*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 10*b* are blank. The MS. is very carefully and almost accurately copied. Figures are marked red.

The Work:—The Satyanārāyaṇakathā complete in 206 stanzas, forming part of the Itihāsasamuccaya obviously different from the one noticed under the last number. In the beginning are given the details of the worship of Satyanārāyaṇa.

It begins:—

मलमासमाहात्म्य (from कालिकापुराण)

Foll. 43; size 9 in. by 5 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 13 lines in a page and 28 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning and foll. 1 and 2 are missing. It ends on fol. 45*b*. It once belonged to Morabhaṭṭa Gandhe. All folios have become very brittle and are mutilated especially on the right border. Foll. 1, 20 and 21 are also slightly worm-eaten. Figures and some prorse portions are marked red.

The Work:—This MS. contains the Malamāsamāhātmya in 27 Adhyāyas comprising about 1000 ślokas. Adhyāyas 1-3 profess to form part of Brāhma Purāṇa; while the remaining 24 chapters appear to be from the Kālikā Purāṇa. At I. O., Nos. 3338-3345 various MSS. of the Kālikā Purāṇa have been noticed; but none of them appears to contain the section under notice. It is interesting to note that the sometime owner of this MS Morabhaṭṭa. Gandhe composed his Gaṇapatipūjāpaddhati in 1682 A. D. cf. No. 1226 above.

It ends:—

गणेशपुराण

Foll. 345 (126+219); size 12 in. by 5¼ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11-13 lines in a page and about 36 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of two parts separately paginated, having 126 and 219 folios respectively. Fol 1*a* has the title in both the parts. The MS. is only moderately accurate. Headings and colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Gaṇeśapurāṇa in two parts having 95 and 156 Adhyāyas respectively. At Auf., Bodl. Cat., Nos. 133-34 and I. O., Nos. 3349-50 the number of Adhyāyas in the two parts is 93 and 155 respectively. For an analysis of the second part (Uttara Khaṇḍa) cf. Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 134. For full information see H. H Wilson, Viṣṇupurāṇa (2nd ed.) i. p. XC. and also Burnell, Tanj. Cata., p. 187. It is often printed.

Colophon at the end of the Pūrvārdha:—

Foll. 129; size 11 in. by 5 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 129*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 129*b* have the title. The MS. is almost correct. Foll. 1, 2, 128 and 129 are slightly broken. Some portions are marked red. The text and the commentary are intermingled.

The Work:—The Gaṇeśagītā (constituting chapters 139 to 149 of the Uttarakhaṇḍa of the Gaṇeśapurāṇa) complete in 11 chapters together with Bhāvadīpikā, a commentary thereon composed by Nīlakaṇṭh, son of Govinda, of the Cāturdhara family, famous for his Bhāratabhāvadīpa, which is a commentary on the Mbh. His preceptor's name was Lakṣmaṇa

गणेशपुराण–(गणेशगीता only) with टीका (Marāṭhī) by गणेशदास

Foll. 95; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 28 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 94*b*. Fol. 1*a* has on it a sort of table of contents showing the extent of the work.

The Work:—The Gaṇeśagītā, another copy, together with a commentary in Marāṭhī in the Ovī metre by Gaṇeśadāsa, pupil of Kāśīrāja. The text has 412 stanzas and the commentary has 2750 Ovīs.

From the line of preceptors given by the commentator it could appear that our commentator's real name is Nirañjana who was a devotee of Gaṇeśa. He is said to have died at Nāmalagāṃva in Śaka 1649 (c. 1727 A. D.) For futher details see Sucī, p. 59.

श्रीगणेशक्रुतुकामृत of नाना नरेन्द्र

Foll. 87 (55+32); size $7\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 7 lines in a page and 20 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and breaks off on fol. 87*b*. Fol. 55 is missing. Folios after the 55th folio are separately numbered and the last four folios, over and above their natural number, are also given the number which they would get by continuous numbering. The MS. is moderately correct; and is slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—This is a metrical work professing to be a very brief summary of the Krīḍākhaṇḍa of the Gaṇeśapurāṇa in several Āśvāsas composed by Nānā alias Bālājī who styles himself 'Lord of men' (Narendra) and declares himself to be a very staunch devotee of Gaṇapati. Our MS. contains only three chapters of which again the last two are slightly defective. The summary of 74th chapter of the Gaṇeśapurāṇa is missing with fol. 55 and the MS. breaks off in the middle of the summary of the 100th chapter. For discussion about the authorship etc. see BUJ. Vol. VI, part III, pp. 1-20 where is also published the text of the first chapter complete in 152 stanzas. The second chapter breaks off with st. 88 and the third with st. 135.

Colophon at the end of chapter I:—

प्रेतकल्प (from गरुडपुराण)

Foll. 54; size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellow or blue paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 40-45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 53*b*. There are written the names of all the chapters. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Lakṣmaṇa Mahādeva Mehendale in Śaka 1725. All folios are worm-eaten and text on foll. 8-25 is also damaged. Foll. 1*a* and 53*b* have the title.

The Work:—The Pretakalpa in 40 chapters is a part of the Uttarakhaṇḍa of the Garuḍa Purāṇa having the form of a dialogue between God Viṣṇu and Vainateya (i. e. the eagle) and described as a compilation of 19000 ślokas (Ekonaviṃśatisāhasrī Saṃhitā). The section under notice deals with death, life after death, rites to be performed in connection with departed souls and the utility of performing them. The MS. noticed at Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 46 has only 23 Adhyāyas. But the beginning and the end quoted there exactly agree with those of our MS. So also the MS. noticed at I. O., No. 3357, though the end quoted there agrees with that of our MS., has only 35 chapters. The Pretakalpa would thus appear to have three different recensions. For a MS. of the Garuḍa Purāṇa cf. I. O. No. 3353.

Foll. 527; size 11¼ in. by 6½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 27 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of 9 parts separately paginated, having 70, 57, 25, 71, 45, 53, 37, 147 and 22 folios respectively. It is moderately correct. Some folios are slightly eaten by worms but no damage is done to the text on any folio.

The Work:—The Gargasaṃhitā is a pauranic work giving the life story of Lord Kṛṣṇa and his brother Balarāma in 9 parts called Khaṇḍas subdivided into 198 Adhyāyas. For another MS. containing all the 9 parts see Peters., Ulwar Cat., No. 784 and for MSS. containing only portions of this work see Stein, p. 201; and Haraprasāda, Notices, II, 50.

The names of the parts (Khaṇḍas) are:—

I गोलोकखण्ड (अ० २०); II वृन्दावनखण्ड (अ० २६); III गिरिराजखण्ड (अ० ११); IV मथुराखण्ड (अ० २९); V माधुर्यखण्ड (अ० २४); VI द्वारि(r. र)काखण्ड (अ० २१); VII बलभद्रखण्ड (अ० १५); VIII विश्वजित् खण्डः (अ० ५०); IX विज्ञानखण्ड (अ० १०).

रुक्माङ्गदचरित

(from नारदीयपुराण)

Foll. 114; size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $5\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 114*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 114*b*. have pieces of paper pasted on them. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Saṃvat 1677 in bold characters. Many folios are worm-eaten, but no damage is done to the text. Colophons are marked red.

The Work.—The Rukmāṅgadacarita from the Nāradīyapurāṇa complete in 40 Adhyāyas containing the story of Rukmāṅgada and his daughter Mohinī narrated by Sūta to the ṛsis to illustrate the Ekādaśīvrata. For other MSS. cf. Vel., No. 986 and I. O., No. 3374. For a MS. of the whole Purāṇa cf. Auf., Bodl., Cat., No. 140. The Nārada Purāṇa is published by the Veṅkaṭeśvara Press, Bombay.

Dated:—

बृहन्नारदीयपुराण (ch. XIV only)

Foll. 7; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material coarse white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 18 lines in a page and 36 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 7*b*. Fol. 1 is much broken. The remaining folios are also slightly broken. The MS. is copied by Yajñeśvara Dikṣita Sānye and is only moderately correct.

The Work:—The Bṛhannāradīyapurāṇa in 38 Adhyāyas is quite different from the Nāradapurāṇa which is only an Upapurāṇa. For other MSS. of this work see Vel., No. 935 and Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 47 where is also given an analysis of the contents. It has been published in the Bibl. Ind. (1886-91) by Paṇḍita Hṛṣikeśa Śāstrī. Our MS. contains only the 14th Adhyāya of this Purāṇa which deals with various kinds of sins and the punishments that the sinner is sujected to.

It begins:—

पापभेदान् प्रवक्ष्यामि तथा स्थूलाश्च यातनाः ।
शृणुष्व धैर्यमास्थाय रौद्रा हि का(r. ता) यतः ॥ १ ॥

It ends:—

पद्मपुराण (कपिलगीता only)

Foll. 46; size $7\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{3}{8}$ in.; material coarse yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 46*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 46*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1711. Foll. 1 is slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Kapila-gītā in 7 Adhyāyas dealing with philosophical topics professing to have been taught by Kapila and to form part of the Padmapurāṇa. For another MS. see Stein, p. 203.

It begins:—

Foll. 64; size $11\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 5 in.; material thick glazed yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 64*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 64*b* have the title. The MS. is almost accurate. All folios are slightly discoloured with damp. Foll. 1 and 64 are slightly broken and worm-eaten and foll. 2-19 have a big ink-spot in the left upper corner.

The Work:—A section from the Pātālakhaṇḍa of the Padmapurāṇa explaining the inportance of the month of Vaiśākha by means of a number of illustrative stories in 13 chapters. For other MSS. see Web., Berl. Cat., p. 130 and Auf., Leip. Cat., Nos. 226-28. For Vaiśākhamāhātmya from the Skandapurāṇa see I. O., Nos. 3670 and 6894. According to the analysis of the Padmapurāṇa given at Auf., Bodl. Cat., Nos. 50-55, the Vaiśākhamāhātmya consists of 5 chapters only forming chapters 168-172 of the Uttarakhaṇḍa of that Purāṇa. This is obviously different from the one under notice.

It begins:—

पद्मपुराण (शिवगीता only) with शिवदर्पण (Marāṭhī) by मंगेश

Foll. 151; size 8¼ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 10 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of 151 folios in all, but the folios of each adhyāya are separately numbered. The MS is remarkably correctly and neatly copied. The text and the commentary are intermingled. The chapters have 17, 6, 10, 7, 6, 9, 7, 13, 8, 9, 6, 9, 10, 8, 13, and 22 folios respectively.

The Work:—The Śivagītā in 16 adhyāyas from the Padmapurāṇa, with the Śivadarpaṇa, a commentary in Marāṭhī Ovī metre composed by Mangeśa who explains the title in two ways. The commentary shows to the individual soul his identity with God Śiva. It is also an exact rendering into Marāṭhī of original Saṃskṛta, verse by verse, in exactly the same number of stanzas as the original, having a few stanzas by way of introduction and conclusion. It is not certain whether our commentator is to be identified with the grandpreceptor of Vyankaṭeśa (see No. 1302 below).

The Śivadarpaṇa begins:—

पद्मपुराण—(होलिकाव्रतमाहात्म्य only)

Foll. 20; size 12¾ in. by 4½ in.; material thick rough yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 20*a*. Fol. 1*a* is blank. The MS. is only moderately accurate. All foll. are slightly broken along the borders and also eaten by worms; but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—This is a section from the Pātālakhaṇḍa of the Padmapurāṇa explaining the religious importance and the history of the Holikāvrata in 6 Adhyāyas. For a full account of this festival by H. H. Wilson, see his works, II., p. 227ff. For another MS. and references cf. I. O., No. 3386.

It begins:—

सूत उवाच ।
शृण्वन्तु ऋषयः सर्वे गुह्याद्गुह्यतरं महत् ।
होलिकाव्रतमाहात्म्यं विस्तरेण तपोधनाः ॥ १ ॥

It ends:—

ब्रह्माण्डपुराण (अध्यात्मरामायण only)

Foll. 183; size 12½ in. by 5 in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 46 letters in a line.

The MS. cosists of seven parts separately paginated and having 20, 29, 14, 22, 24, 48, and 26 folios respectively. All folios are slightly worn out along the edges. Each folio has the title in short in the left margin.

The Work:—The Adhyātmarāmāyaṇa from the Brahmāṇḍapurāṇa containing 4200 ślokas divided into 64 cantos arranged into 7 Kāṇḍas having the same names as the Kāṇḍas of the Great Epic of Vālmīki. This is a mystically philosophical rendering of the life story of Rāma who is here at times identified with Viṣṇu and Sītā who is identified with Lakṣmī, the Goddess of Wealth. cf. Wint., History, I. p. 480. For another MS., analysis and quotations see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 72. Also cf. Web., Berl. Cat., pp. 132-133 and Mitra, Notices, No. 1500.

The stanza giving the number of ślokas, cantos and Kāṇḍas found in this MS. is not found elsewhere.

अध्यात्मरामायण (अरण्यकाण्ड only) with सेतु by रामवर्मन्

Foll. 35; size 12 in. by 5½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgaarī character; 8 to 12 lines in a page and about 40 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 35*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 35*b* have the title. The MS. is excellently and accurately copied. The text occupies the middle and has the commentary both above and below it. All folios are much discoloured with damp and foll. 1-3 and 35 are much worn out and worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Araṇyakāṇḍa (in 10 cantos) of the Adhyātmarāmāyaṇa (cf. No. 1264 above) with the Setu, a commentary thereon composed by Śrīrāmavarman, son of Himmativarman, pupil of Nāgeśa. For MSS. of the whole of the Adhyātmarāmāyaṇa with Setu see Mitra, Notices, No. 2770 and Burnell, Tanj. Cat., p. 190*b*. Tilaka, a commentary on the Rāmāyaṇa of Vālmīki is also attributed to our commentator at I. O., Nos. 3312-3318.

The comm ends:—

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 126*b*. Fol. 1*a* and the fly-leaf at both ends are blank. The MS. is almost accurately copied in Śaka 1748 by Janāradana Dhautapāpeśvara. Foll. 1 and 2 and the two fly-leaves are slightly torn.

The Work:—The Bhāvārthadīpikāprakāśa is a commentary on the Bhāvārthadīpa (sk. I only) which is itself a commentary on the Bhāgavatapurāṇa (see Nos. 1276-86 above). Prakāśa is composed by Kāśinātha, son and pupil of Ananta, surnamed Upādhyāya and the author of the Dharmasindhu which was composed in 1791 A. D. Annapūrṇā was the name of his mother. Before writing this subcommentary, Kāśinātha had already composed the Sadbhaktatoṣaṇīsārasaṃgraha a commentary on Skandha X of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa. (cf.

No. 1295 below). It appears that our commentator wrote this commentary on the eve of his life and hoped, by the grace of God, to continue the work and comment on the whole work. But he is not as yet known to have proceeded beyond the first Skandha. For information about the commentator and his works see Kane, Hist. Dh. I Sect. 112.

Foll. 125; size 11 in. by 6 in.; material rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 16 lines in a page and 40 letters in a line.

The MS. is neatly written. The text occupies almost the whole folio while the commentary is written in the margins and along the borders. It is very difficult to read the commentary as all folios are much broken and worn out along the edges. The folios are numbered 1–60 and 300–364. The MS. is copied in Saṃvat 1588.

The Work:—Skandhas I, II, VIII, and IX of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa with the Tattvapradīpikā a commentary thereon by some unknown commentator.

Foll. 46, size $12\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material rough yellowish paper fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 15 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 45*b*. Two folios left blank on one side are given the number 32 and fol. 33 also is left blank on one side. The MS. appears to be copied by two different scribes.

The Work.—The Rāsapañcādhyāyī comprising Adhyāyas 29–33 of the 10th Skandha of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa together with Tosaṇīsārasaṃgraha, a commentary thereon composed by Kāśinātha, the author of the Nirṇayasindhu For his Bhāvārthadīpikāprakāśa see Nos. 1292–93 above. For other MSS. containing only the text see Vel., Nos 943–944.

Foll. 137; size 13 in. by 7 in., material thick coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; about 16 lines in a page and about 32 letters in a line.

The MS is defective at the beginning, fol. 1 being missinig. It is also defective at the end and breaks off on fol. 161*b*. Fol. 108–111 and 142–160 are also missing. The MS. is very inaccurate and some reader has added some explanations and corrections in the margins or at the top. The commentary runs above and below the text.

The Work—The Rāsapañcādhyāyī with Bhāvavibhāvikā, a commentary thereon composed by Rāmanārāyaṇa. Our MS. is defective at both the ends. It begins in the middle of the 16th introductory stanza and breaks off in the middle of the 6th stanza of the last adhyāya. For information about the author and his works see Festschrift Kane, pp. 155ff. For this work together with commentary of Kāśinātha see No 1295 above.

Foll. 30, size $11\frac{3}{4}$ in. by 4 in., material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character, 11 lines in a page and 63 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 29*b*. A fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The scribe Viśvanātha Dhopeśvara has written the MS. very neatly and almost accurately. Foll. 1, 2, 27 and 29 and the fly-leaf are slightly worm-eaten. The text and Śrīdhara's commentary are represented by Pratīkās only which are marked red.

The Work:—This MS. contains Kāśinātha's commentary on the 87th adhyāya of the 10th Skandha of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa. Our commentator, Kāśinātha, is the famous author of the Nirṇayasindhu. For full information about the author see No. 1292 above.

This poition of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa is variously called Śrutistuti, Vedastuti oi Biahmastuti. For a MS. of the text see Auf., Leip. Cat., No. 294; foi a MS. of Śiīdhara's commentary see Stein., p. 209; and for a MS. of the sub-commentaiy under notice see Bhandarkai, List. I, No. 313.

Foll. 17; size 10 in. by $5\frac{1}{2}$ in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgaii character; 11 lines in a page and 55 letteis in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and breaks on fol. 16*b*. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title. The MS. is almost accuiately copied. All folios are broken and also slightly worm-eaten in both the margins; but no damage is done to the text.

The Work:—The Śrutikalpalatā is a big commentary on the Vedastuti (Bhāgavata, X. 87) composed by the famous Maiāthī poet, Vāmana Paṇḍita. It comprises 35 chapters, of which the first five containing an exposition of the fiist 13 stanzas of the Vedastuti foim a sort of introduction. The last i. e. the 35th chapter explains the last 9 stanzas of the text; and the remaining 28 stanzas are expounded in the remaining 29 chapteis. In a long introduction of 44 stanzas Vāmana Paṇḍita explains his purpose in undertaking this work. The text of the Vedastuti togethei with the Śrutikalpalatā of Vāmana Paṇḍita has been published by T. P. Shetye, Bombay, in 1936. Our MS. contains only the first seven chapteis of the Śrutikalpalatā.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 16*a*. Fol 16*b* is blank. The fly-leaf in the beginning has the title while that at the end is left blank. Foll. 7-16 are eaten by worms in the left margin. The MS. is neatly and accurately copied

The Work:—The Brahmastuti (also called Vedastuti or Śiutistuti) constitutes the 87th adhyāya of the 10th Skandha of the Bhāgavatapuiāṇa. Candrikā is a metrical commentary on the same composed in Marāthī by Vyaṅkaṭa. Our MS. contains both the text as well as the commentaiy. Biahmastuti noticed at Stein, No. 206 (Bhāgavata VIII. 5) is obviously different from this one. For information about the commentator see No. 1302 below.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol. 55*b* There are two blank folios left blank at both ends. The MS. is very neatly and accurately written. It is slightly broken in one of the corners. Fol. 1 and the fly-leaves are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Bhāgavatacatuḥślokī with a commentary in Marāṭhī Ovī metre composed by Ekanātha, disciple of Janārdana. Often published. This Ekanātha is the fourth ancestor of Ananta Deva, the author of the Smṛti-kaustubha (see Nos. 1210-13 above).

with टीका (Marāthī) by व्यङ्कट

Foll. 37; size $8\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 4 in.; material thin rough yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 38 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*a* and ends on fol 36*b*. A fly-leaf is left blank in the beginning The MS. is neatly written and is very accurate. Commentary and the text are intermingled, but distinguished by the letters टी० and मू०.

The Work·—The Bhāgavatacatuślokī together with a commentary in Marāṭhī in the Anuṣṭubh metre thereon composed by Vyankateśa (or Ṛjuyaṅkateśa), a diciple of Ātmārāmasvānandanātha whose name before initiation was Tukobā. The line of preceptors given by the commentator is Sahajānandanātha, Brahmānandanātha, Ānandanātha (=Mangeśa). Ātmārāmasvānandanātha (=Tukobā), and Vyaṅkaṭa. He also refers to a similar commetary in the Marāṭhī Ovī metre by Ekanātha on this Catuḥśloki which he calls a Kāmadhenu and tells us that the present commentary is only a calf of that Kāmadhenu. He also says that the whole credit of the commentary is due to his preceptor Ātmārāma who inspired him to write this work. The preceptor of our commentator cannot be identified with the famous Marāṭhī poet Tukārāma. We have also a Marāṭhi commentary on the Śivagīta composed by Maṅgeśa, (cf. No. 1262 above); but it is not possible to say whether this Maṅgeśa is the same as the Maṅgeśa referred to here as the Guru of Tukobā and the Paramaguru of our commentator. For another work of Vyaṅkaṭa see No. 1297 above.

भागवतमुक्ताफल of वोपदेव

Foll. 66; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material coarse thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page; and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1b and ends on fol. 66b. Fol. 1a has the title and the number of folios. It is only moderately correct. Foll. 1-4 and 55-66 are worm-eaten; but no damage is done to the text. All folios are also discoloured along the edges.

The Work:—The Bhāgavatamuktāphala (or simply Muktāphala) is a metrical work giving the philosophy of the Bhāgavatapurāṇa in about 800 verses divided into 19 chapters composed by Vopadeva. son of the Physician Keśava, a friend and protegee of Hemādri—who has written on this work a commentary called Kaivalyadīpikā. At I. O., No. 3542 there are five stanzas at the end which are absent in our MS. The last of these stanzas gives the name of the author as Vopadeva; But the authenticity of this verse is doubtful since it is not found in some MSS., and also because it is not commented upon by Hemādri in his Kaivalyadīpikā. For another MS. of the text exactly agreeing with ours see Vel., No. 1153. For a MS. containing both the text and the commentary see I. O., No. 3542. For full information about the author and his works see Nos. 79 and 322 above.

It begins:—

It ends:—

हरिलीला of वोपदेव with विवेक by हेमाद्रि

Foll. 34; size $8\frac{1}{2}$ in. by $6\frac{1}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 30 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1a and ends on fol. 33b. The MS. is remarkably accurate. The text is written in red ink and the commentary in black.

The Work:—The Harilīlā is an index to the Bhāgavatapurāṇa in 163 stanzas composed by Vopadeva, son of Keśava, pupil of Dhaneśa and friend and protegee of Hemādri who has written a commentary thereon named Viveka. It is said that Hemādri's Viveka was examined by Madhusūdana cf Vel., No, 1157 and also I. O., No. 3533 where we find two more verses at the end of the commentary which are absent in our MS. But the colophon at the end of the first Skandha ascribes the commentary to Madhusūdana himself. cf. Kane, Hist. Dh., I., pp. 358 and 855.

The text begins.—

भगवद्गीता

Foll. 130; size 5½ in. by 9 in.; material coarse yellowish white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 17 lines in a page and 20 letters in a line.

The MS. contains 130 folios numbered 136 to 266, at the top and 1-130 in the right margin. It begins on fol. 136*a* and ends on fol. 263*b*, after which there are two blank folios; and on fol. 266*a* there is a table giving the number of ślokas in each Adhyāya together with the number of verses in the commentary. The MS. is bound together into a book with thick string in a thick sheet of paper. A few folios in the beginning are torn and mutilated.

The Work. —The Bhagavadgītā with the Samaślokī, a commentary (or rather a Marāthī rendering) thereon in Marāthī verses in the same metre as the original, composed by Vāmanapaṇḍita, the famous Marāthī poet, of the 17th century. For another MS. see Vel., No. 2055. This commentary has been variously printed.

The Work.—The Mahābhāratatātparyaprakāśa or Mahābhāratasāroddhāra is a short epitome of the Mbh. composed by Sadānanda Vidvat who wrote the Bhāvaprakāśa, his commentary on the Bhagavatdgītā, in 1780 A. D. Pratyaktattvacintāmaṇi, a big Vedantic work with Svaprabhā, the author's own commentary, is another work of our author noticed below.

The text is also accompanied by the author's own commentary on certain portions. Our MS. contains the summary upto the end of Mokṣadharma section from the Śāntiparvan of Mbh. Some portion from the Ādiparvan is missing with the missing folios. For a portion of this work see I. O., No. 3299.

Colophon at the end of Ādiparvan:—

रामायण of वाल्मीकि

Foll. 794; size 14 in. by 7 in.; material thick rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 18 lines in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of 7 parts separately paginated and containing 83, 80, 140, 82, 98, 189 and 127 folios respectively. The MS. is moderately accurate. It was copied in Saṃvat 1868.

The Work:—The Rāmāyaṇa of Vālmīki complete in 7 Kāṇḍas; often printed. The number of cantos in each of the Kāṇḍas is the same as noted at I. O., Nos. 3312-18 except in the last two Kāṇḍas which in our MS. have 131 and 110 cantos respectively instead of 13) and 111 as noticed at I. O., Nos. 3312-18.

वराहपुराण (चातुर्मास्यमाहात्म्य only)

Foll. 62; size 12 in. by 4½ in.; material thin rough white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and 60 to 65 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 62*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 62*b* have the title and five diagrams in red ink. The MS. is almost accurately copied by Lakṣmaṇa Mahādeva Mehendaḷe in Śaka 1720. Colophons are marked red.

The Work.—A section from the Varāhapurāṇa giving in 27 adhyāyas the religious importance of the four months of the Hindu Calender from Āṣāḍha to Kārtika. It also gives the various rites and observances to be practised during these months. It is in the form of a conservation between Dharaṇī and Varāha. For another MS. see Burnell, Tanj. Foll. 214 (3-217); size 9½ in. by 3¾ in.; material coarse yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 8 lines in a page and 25 letters in a line.

The MS. is defective in the beginning, foll. 1 and 2 being missing. It ends on fol. 217*b*. The fly-leaf at the end is blank. The MS. is only moderately correct. All folios are dilapidated and pasted with paper.

The Work:—A section from the Vāyupurāṇa glorifying in 30 Adhyāyas the month of Māgha in the Hindu calender. Our MS. is defective in the beginning and the first 16 stanzas are missing with the missing folios. For an analysis of this section and quotations see I. O., No. 3598. For a MS. of the Vāyupurāṇa and its analysis cf. Auf., Bodl. Cat., Nos. 103-104. B. M. C. 55. 5].

शिवपुराण

Foll. 221, size 11⅓ in. by 5¼ in.; material thick rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 9 lines in a page and 34 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 221*a*. Foll. 1 and 221*b* are blank. The MS. is only moderately accurate. Foll. 215-221 are broken along the borders. The margins are drawn in three thick lines with red ink on either side.

The Work.—The Śivapurāṇa in 75 adhyāyas, corresponding to the Uttarabhāga of the Rudrasaṃhitā or the Śivapurāṇa described at Mitra, Notices, I, p. 66. The present work thus appears to be only a small section of a big work called Śivapurāṇa, though it generally passes under that name. For other MSS. exactly corresponding to this one see I. O., No. 3611 and Auf, Bodl. Cat., No. 113 where is also given a full analysis of the work. For other MSS. where this work contains a larger number of adhyāyas see I. शिवपुराण

Foll. 533; size 13½ in. by 6 in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and about 35 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 533*a*. Fol. 533*b* and the fly-leaf after it are blank. Fol. 1a has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil and also a copy of the entry made by Prof. Bhagawat Dattji, B. A., Research scholar, D. A. V. College, Lahore, dated 30-4-28 on a paper pasted on to it. The MS. is moderately correct.

The Work:—The Śivapurāṇa having the same beginning as the one noticed above, but having 91 adhyāyas and much differring from it.

An entry made by Prof. Bhagawat Dattji runs as follows:—"There are two Śiva Purāṇas, one the smaller and the other Mahā Mahā is printed at the Venkateśwara Press, Bombay. This MS. is some thing which belongs to the smaller type. But it considerably differs from it. The number of the chapters is very different; hundreds of verses do not agree. In the portions which agree the readings are quite divergent. The MS. seems to be important."

स्कन्दपुराण (कार्तिकमाहात्म्य only)

Foll. 51; size 12 in. by 4 in.; material glazed thin bluish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 48 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 51*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 51*b* have the title. The MS. is almost correct. Fol. 51 is slightly torn.

The Work:—The Kārtikamāhātmya, professing to form part of the Sanatkumārasaṃhitā of the Skandapurāṇa giving in 26 chapters the religious importance of the month of Kārtika in the Hindu Calender and having the form of a dialogue between Vālakhilyas and other sages. For another MS. see I. O., No. 3676.

It begins:—

स्कन्दपुराण (काशीखण्ड only) with टीका by रामानन्द

Foll. 672 (431+241) size 13¾ in. by 6¾ in.; material thin yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 12 to 14 lines in a page and 50 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of two parts separately paginated having 431 and 241 folios respectively. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below the text. Some colophons are in red ink. Most of the folios of part II are worm-eaten and the text on foll. 232-241 is much injured.

The Work.—The Kāśīkhaṇḍa, from the Skandapurāṇa, complete in 100 adhyāyas divided into two parts with the commentary of Rāmānanda (a Śuklāmbara Jain), also called Caitanyavana, son of Mukundapariya and Gandharvī, grandson of Gadādhara and pupil of Rāmendravana who himself was a pupil of Devandravana. For other MSS. see Vel., No. 903 and I. O., Nos. 3635-36, 3640. At Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 120-22 is given an analysis of the whole work and also a list of the authorities referred to by the commentator. It is also said there that the commentary was written by Rāmānanda at the request and for the use of king Vāsudeva. (l. c. p. 72*a*). Rāmānanda refers to the saṃksepaśārīraka which was composed before the beginning of the 17th century A. D. Our commentator must, therefore, have lived in the beginning of the 17th century. This conclusion becomes all the more probable when we find that the I. O., MS. is dated 1648 A. D. It is published by the Veṅkaṭeśvara Press, Bombay.

The comm. begins:—

It ends:—

स्कन्दपुराण (केदारखण्ड)

Foll. 161, size 9¼ in. by 4¾ in.; material coarse thin yellow paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 11 lines in a page and 33 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 161*a*. Fol. 1*a* has the title, and fol. 161*b* is blank. Headings and colophons are marked red. The MS. is much worn out and dilapidated and also discoloured. The MS. is dated Śaka 1684.

The Work.—The Kedārakhaṇda, also called Śaivaśāstra, complete in 34 adhyāyas forming part of the Skandpurāṇa. For another MS., quotations and analysis see I O., No. 3646.

It begins:—

स्कन्दपुराण (कोकिलामाहात्म्य)

Foll. 73; size 8 in. by 4⅓ in., material coarse white paper; fair, Devanāgarī character, 9 lines in a page and 32 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on folio 1*b* and ends on fol. 73*a*. Folio 1*a* and 73*b* have the title. The scribe, Tryambaka Śyāmasundara Janārdana Kinhikara, is a careful writer and the MS. is neatly written. First few folios are slightly worm-eaten and the last folio is rather torn.

The Work:—A portion of the Kanakādrikhaṇda of the Skandapurāṇa. See Vel., No. 908; and I. O., No. 3631. This MS. contains only 30 Adhyāyas and not 31, as at I. O., No. 3631.

It begins:—

स्कन्दपुराण (पुरुषोत्तममाहात्म्य)

Foll. 92; size 11 in. by $1\frac{3}{4}$ in., material palm leaf; fair, Devanāgarī character; 4 or 5 lines in a page and about 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 91*b*. Foll. 1-3, 27, 90, and 91 and the fly-leaf at the end are broken and fragmentary. The MS. is neatly stencilled and inked black. Foll. 42 to 58 are also slightly worm-eaten.

The Work.—The Purusottamaksetramāhātmya in 8 adhyāyas forming part of Nilādrimahodaya professing to form part of the Sūtasaṃhitā from the Skandapurāṇa. A MS. of this work noted at I. O., No. 3711 comprises 32 adhyāyas whereas our MS. has only eight. It would, therefore, appear that our MS. is incomplete inspite of the remark समाप्तोयं ग्रन्थः made by the scribe.

It begins:—

स्कन्दपुराण (फाल्गुनमाहात्म्य)

Foll. 14; size $12\frac{3}{4}$ in. by $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., material thick rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 45 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 14*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 14*b* are blank. Almost all folios are worm-eaten along the border; but no damage is done to the text. Every folio has the title in brief in the left margin.

The Work.—The Phālgunamāhātmya in eight adhyāyas stating and illustrating the religious importance of the month Phālguna in the Hindu calendar.

It begins:—

स्कन्दपुराण (ब्रह्मोत्तरखण्ड)

Foll. 94, size 12 in. by $4\frac{1}{4}$ in., material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 lines in a page and 45 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol 94*a*. Foll. 1*a* and 94*b* have the title in a fine design. The MS. is remarkably correct. Colophons are marked red; and each folio is marked ब्रह्मोत्तर० in the left margin.

The Work.—The Brahmottarakhaṇḍa of the Skandapurāṇa complete in 22 adhyāyas. The Brahmottarakhaṇḍa is found in two recensions great (Brhat) and small (Laghu). Ours is the latter. For a MS. of the former comprising 43 adhyāyas and its analysis see Auf., Bodl. Cat., No. 126. For other MSS. of the smaller recension see Vel. Nos. 940-41 and Mitra, Notices, VIII, p. 19.

स्कन्दपुराण (ब्रह्मोत्तरखण्ड)

Foll. 41; size $11\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 6 in.; material rough yellow paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 20 lines in a page and 42 letters in a line

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 41*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title and the number of folios in blue pencil. The MS. is copied in Saṃvat 1838 by Vyāsa Mankulāla and is only moderately correct. Many folios are rather worn out and broken along the edges. Colophons are marked red.

The Work:—The Brahmottarakhaṇḍa in 22 adhyāyas from the Skandapurāṇa, another copy, cf. No. 1375 above.

स्कन्दपुराण (मार्गशीर्षमाहात्म्य)

Foll. 48; size 12 in. by 6 in. material thick glazed yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 10 in a page and about 40 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 48*b*. Fol. 1*a* has the title. The MS. is moderately accurate. All folios are discoloured with damp and are mutilated along the edges. Foll. 1 and 48 are slightly worm-eaten.

The Work:—The Mārgaśīrsamāhātmya consisting of 16 adhyāyas deals with the religious importance of the month of Mārgaśīrsa in the Hindu calendar and the religious rites to be performed during that month. It forms part of the Skandapurāṇa. For another MS. see I. O., No. 3668.

There appears to be a bigger recension of this work comprising 30 adhyāyas also professing to form part of the Skandapurāṇa and having the same beginning as our work. See No. 1378 below.

Foll. 50; size 12 in. by $4\frac{3}{4}$ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper, fair, Devanāgarī character; 15 lines in a page and about 60 letters in a line.

The MS. begins on fol. 1*b* and ends on fol. 50*a*. Fol. 50*b* has the index prepared by the scribe, giving the names of the adhyāyas and the number of stanzas therein. Fol. 1*a* has the title.

The Work:—The Vināyaka-māhātmya, giving in 24 adhyāyas a full account of the seven different incarnations of God Gaṇeśa, has the form of a dialogue between Skanda and Śiva. It forms part of the Skandapurāṇa. For another MS. and a full analysis of this work see I. O., No. 3652 where Gaṇeśamāhātmya appears as another title given to it.

स्कन्दपुराण (सूतसंहिता)

with तात्पर्यदीपिका by माधवाचार्य

Foll. 381; size 12 in. by 7½ in.; material thin rough yellowish paper; fair, Devanāgarī character; 6 to 16 lines in a page and 45 to 50 letters in a line.

The MS. consists of four parts having 66, 51, 34, and 230 folios respectively. The text occupies the middle and the commentary runs both above and below the text. Colophons are written in red ink. All folios are more or less discoloured with damp; and a few folios at the end of each part are more or less broken and worm-eaten. The MS. is dated Śaka 1698.

The Work:—The Sūtasaṃhitā, forming part of the Skandapurāṇa, comprises four Khaṇḍas:

Śivamāhātmyakhanda (18 adhyāyas) Jñānayogakhaṇḍa (20 adhyāyas), Muktikhanda (9 adhyāyas) and Yajñavaibhavakhanda (67 adhyāyas). This last Khanda itself is divided into two parts, the Pūrvabhāga comprising 17 adhyāyas and the Uttarabhāga containing the Brahmagītā (12 adhyayas) and the Sūtagītā (8 adhyāyas).

Tātparyadīpikā is a commentary thereon composed by Mādhavācārya (usually known as Vidyāraṇya) brother of Sāyana, and pupil of Tryambaka.

Our MS contains both the text as well as the commentary upto the end of the Pūrvabhāga of Yajñavaibhavakhanda of the Sūtasaṃhitā. For another MS. containing even the Uttarabhāga, which is wanting here, see I. O. No. 3688 where are also given quotations from all the parts of this work; and also a full analysis of the whole work as given by the commentator. Also see Vel., No. 1010.

Colophon at the end —
